STIRRED BY CALL OF NEW CITY

WHERE 'WE WILL' THERE'S A WAY

—Chicago's New Proverb.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

I dream'd in a dream I saw a city invincible to the attacks of the whole of the rest of the earth.
I dream'd that was the new city of Friends—
WALT WHITMAN.

A truck farmer, a poet, a couple of civil engineers, a college professor, a saloonkeeper, two or three preachers, a city hall official, a dry goods merchant, and three women, of two different professions and of none—they are among the people who have either called in person or sent letters to make suggestions, criticisms, or contributions of other kinds to the progress of the "We Will" movement in Chicago.

From the great Merchants' Association of New York, with its motto, "To foster the trade and welfare of New York," and its impressive directorate of leading business men, comes a letter of hearty indorsement touched with just a tinge of disappointment at some unhappy statements made in regard to the bigger Chicago of the east.

From a professor of landscape horticulture at the University of Illinois, who is conducting a great campaign for the beautification of the farms of the state, comes an offer of assistance and coöperation which is more than welcome. The work which is being done under Prof. Wilhelm Miller's direction is so interesting and important that it will surely prove interesting to all the people of Chicago.

The truck farmer, whose head is as hard as his hand, has some ideas which, if carried out, should not only cut down the cost of living to city dwellers but prove of value to every citizen of Cook county.

With every day the horizon broadens and the opportunity grows more inspiring.

"A new and important development in municipal literature is shown in the purpose of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to establish a department, with daily publication, of the problems of municipal government and life. The management of the department has been committed to Henry M. Hyde, an experienced man, a good investigator and a graphic writer. The first article opening this department was published Sunday, March 16. As a daily feature this department should rebuke, inspire, and educate."—From Chicago Commerce, the organ of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

NEW YORK, March 31.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I want to thank you for the interesting and valuable articles which were written by Henry M. Hyde for THE TRIBUNE.

The kind of work which Mr. Hyde points out as necessary to the city of Chicago is the kind of enterprise which is bound to be invaluable for the American city.

Mr. Hyde's opening statement that New York and the east generally are self-satisfied is the only point of objection which might be raised to his material. New York is probably taking a greater number and greater variety of steps for improving city conditions today than ever before. In this work the industrial bureau of the Merchants' Association is sharing as much as possible. It appreciates Chicago's spirit and hopes that there may be mutual coöperation in all these efforts.

EDWARDS CHAPPELL PORTER.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS, March 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I am delighted beyond words with your new department, "The Call of the New City," and will do all I can to help your work. We inclose programs of two of our illustrated sections, which will show you what we are trying to do.

The Australian ballot for Illinois farmers is getting great results. Ten per cent of every audience that has been addressed so far has signed an agreement to make improvements this year, and we believe that we can improve this batting average. We expect

Indignant Wife Causes Arrest of Husband After Attacking Woman He Was Entertaining in Theater.

The audience at the Garrick theater last night saw part of a little drama that the theater management had not billed. The men in the theater seemed highly satisfied, but the management does not intend to have it repeated.

The scheduled performance was well under way when there came three or four shrill screams from an upper box. Audience and actors turned around and saw two women in a clinch, a flushed man trying to separate them, and a third woman encouraging one of the combatants.

The side entertainment ended abruptly when Patrolman Peter Conlin waded in and carried away one of the scrappers and her husband, Edward H. Exelby, 3960 Langley avenue, manager of the American Caramel company.

At the station the wife said her husband had shown too much attention in the way of theater parties to other women, named the particular cause of jealousy as Mrs. J. A. Newberry, 4718 Dover street, and demanded action by the police. Lieut. Conray steered the couple toward the domestic relations court.

POWERS DEFIED BY MONTENEGRO; WAR MAY RESULT

REPLIES TO ULTIMATUM

AUSTRIAN TROOPS MENACE BORDER

CETTINJE, April 6.—The little kingdom of Montenegro has thrown down the gauntlet to the six great powers.

It declines to yield to the demand of the powers to abandon its attempts to gain possession of Scutari, and has officially announced that "there will be no departure from an attitude which conforms to the necessities of the state of war existing between the allies and Turkey."

An international fleet, comprising warships of Austria-Hungary, Italy, France, Germany, and Great Britain, is now blockading the Montenegrin port of Antivari.

These include four Austrian warships, the British cruisers Yarmouth, Inflexible, and Gloucester, the German cruiser Breslau, the Italian cruisers Pisa, and the French cruiser Edgar Quinet.

Russia is not represented by a warship, but has acquiesced in the naval demonstration.

Sends Powers' Ultimatum.

I have the honor to inform you that the international fleet is assembled in Montenegrin waters as a protest against the nonfulfillment of the wishes of the great powers. I desire to call your excellency's attention to the presence of the fleet as a proof that the great powers are acting in concert, and request that their wishes be fulfilled without further delay. Please inform me immediately that your government is ready to carry out the wishes of the great powers.

Refuses British Admiral's Demand.

To this the Montenegrin premier replied in a note expressing regret at the presence of the fleet, which he considered a violation of the neutrality proclaimed by the powers at the beginning of the war, and to the detriment of Montenegro. The premier continued:

Despite the pressure which the presence of the fleet implies, there will be no departure from an attitude which conforms to the necessities of the state of war existing between the allies and Turkey.

A brigade of Austrian troops from Gattaro has been maneuvering near the Montenegrin boundary. The customary note has not been given the Montenegrin government, and Austria's action is considered unfriendly and menacing.

King Nicholas Stanch in Stand.

PARIS, April 6.—King Nicholas of Montenegro is quoted in the Temps as saying that he has learned with sorrow that the cruiser Edgar Quinet is representing France in the naval demonstration on the Montenegrin coast.

"It is a bitter irony," said the king, "that the name of the illustrious writer Edgar Quinet, the upholder of peoples struggling for independence and unity, should be associated with an expedition against the small but valiant champion of Balkan independence. You may say that despite the measures of coercion taken by Europe against it, Montenegro will yield only to violence. It remains for Europe to add the ridicule of armed force to its injustice."

Slavs Make Demonstration.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—Another great Slav demonstration occurred today, but on this occasion the police did not interfere.

The climax was reached when the crowd, which numbered 50,000, appeared before Anitchkoff palace, the residence of the dowager empress, sang the national anthem, and displayed banners inscribed: "Down with Austria!" "Scutari for the Montenegrins!" "The cross over St. Sophia!"

BULGAR JOAN OF ARC.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6.—[Special.]—A letter received here today by Boris Kantcheff from his sister, dated Adrianople, tells how she fought beside the men who stormed the Turkish stronghold.

The letter in part reads:

"At last we have reached our goal. We have played our game to the finish. I am writing you from the city which has caused us losses which I have not yet been able to estimate.

"I am a little better now than I was last November. Then I was wounded only in one place, now there are many. Of all, the worst is a sprained left ankle and a cut on my back, a frost bitten left arm, and numerous scratches and bruises that I don't mind. I lost my cap, and it was my hair that gave me away as a woman. They picked me up as I dropped all exhausted when we came into the city, and they carried me here into a house."

MAN HUNT ENDS IN POMPEIAN ROOM

Woman Recognizes Dapper Youth as One Who Married and Robbed Her in 1911.

ARREST AT BLACKSTONE.

A well dressed young man, described as strikingly handsome, was arrested at the Blackstone hotel last night at the instance of a woman who alleges that, under the name of "Jack" Lewis, he married her at San Francisco in 1911, after a two days' courtship, and ten days later deserted her in Portland, Ore., taking with him jewels worth $3,500. The arrest followed a recognition on the part of the woman in the Pompeian room at the Congress hotel. The man denied he ever had seen her.

In the evening Miss Edith Newcomb, as Mrs. Lewis now calls herself, accompanied by her sister and a male escort, were in the Pompeian room. A young man walked through the room. Miss Newcomb clutched her sister by the hand and exclaimed:

Sister Runs After Suspect.

The sister, who was familiar with the story of the marriage, theft of diamonds and desertion, ran after the man, shouting, "O, Jack, wait a minute!"

"Is your name Jack Lewis?" asked the young woman.

"My name is Jack," he replied, "but not Jack Lewis."

Pretends Forgiveness.

Following out the instructions given her by the Portland police, Miss Newcomb pretended to be in a forgiving frame of mind. But the man insisted that he had done nothing for which he should be forgiven.

"I don't know you," he kept saying. "You've got me mixed up with somebody else."

It was suggested that they all go to the Blackstone, where the young man said he always dined when in Chicago.

Tries to Call It a Joke.

"This is a jolly good joke," he said, "and I want you to be my guests at a little supper."

So they went to the Blackstone and had dinner. During the course of the meal the sister excused herself from the table. She went to the desk and reported the matter to the house detective. The South Clark street police were notified, and Sergt. Farrell, with Detectives Shubert and Rieck, went to the hotel. As the party of four came out of the hotel the police stopped them.

Miss Newcomb charged the young man with having deserted her and also with having robbed her of her jewels. There was nothing for the police to do but arrest him.

Throws Memo Book Away.

On the way to the station he protested that he was not "Jack" Lewis, and that he never saw the woman before.

As they were entering the police station the young man was seen to throw something away. Sergt. Farrell picked it up. It was a memorandum book containing cipher writing and newspaper clippings of clairvoyants who had swindled women out of various sums.

He refused to give any name or tell his age.

"I don't want any unpleasant notoriety," was his explanation. "I will have something to say in the morning when I appear in court."

Miss Newcomb, or Miss Lewis, says her home is at Fort Wayne, Ind. In September, 1911, she was visiting in San Francisco. One day she and a friend, Mrs. Clara Lewis, met a dashing fellow at the Hotel St. Francis. Mrs. Lewis had met the young man once or twice before. He was known as "Jack" Lewis. He represented himself to be a promoter of mining stocks. Miss Newcomb admits that she fell desperately in love with him.

They were married the day after their first meeting. She has forgotten whether it was the 3d or 4th of September they were married, but she distinctly remembers the day he fled with her jewelry.

She reported the matter to the Portland police, and descriptive circulars were sent all over the country. She had no photograph of him.

Find $170 on Prisoner.

The "mysterious stranger," as the police call him, had $170 and a gold watch. Not a scrap of paper or anything else was found on him that would identify him. Although his clothes are custom made there is no name in them.

"It looks to me," said Lieut. Darrow, "that we have got a clever confidence man. I believe the woman's story."

RIDICULE OF RAINBOW DRESS DRIVES ACTRESS FROM TRACK.

Paris Woman Unable to Stand Criticism at Long Champs and Is Forced to Quit Inclosure.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, April 6.—Rain spoiled the much expected pleasure at the opening of the Longchamps racing season today, but the great crowd in attendance was treated at least to one sensation which was worth the price of admission.

It consisted of pale blue silk with bright yellow edging. The corsage was ornamented with embroidered forget-me-nots and a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The skirt had vividly yellow ribbons on one side and on the other a large knot covered with embroidered forget-me-nots.

The body of the skirt was tight and there was a tiny slit at the bottom. She wore shoes of the same color as the skirt. There were real lilies of the valley on bows in her cloak, which was of black silk in the style of those worn by men in evening dress. Her hat, which was in the form of a turban, was tied at the chin with ribbons and was also adorned with lilies of the valley and forget-me-nots.

ARTIST REPORTS LOSS OF PAINTING WORTH $60,000.

But Several Authorities Never Heard of Original Van Dyke Being in Chicago, So Police Are Puzzled.

The Sunday night reveries of Lieut. Tobin, at the detective bureau, were interrupted with a bang last night when an excited man, his hands trembling and hair waving, dashed into the office almost in tears.

"Gone," he shrieked. "Gone. My treasure gone. My fortune. Everything gone."

Lieut. Tobin asked him to sit down and tell his story quietly. The visitor, Vladimir Shamberk, a Bohemian artist with a studio in Kimball hall, did not get far toward calm, but finally told a connected story that sent three detectives on the run for the studio building.

According to Shamberk, some one entered his studio and stole a small Van Dyke. "The Madonna and Child." It was Shamberk's most treasured possession. He declared it is worth $60,000.

Detectives investigated and told the lieutenant the studio was in good condition save for the dust Shamberk had raised when he began his mad hunt for the lost painting.

Newton H. Carpenter, secretary of the Art Institute, said he never had heard of the painting or of Mr. Shamberk. Other artists are equally ignorant.

KICKS ON PAYING FOR OWN BURIAL

SUICIDE BACK FROM PARIS

But what he does object to most strenuously is being nicked for his own funeral expenses.

Leo Allen, 2224 Flournoy street, Chicago's near Enoch Arden, was born a good natured American lad with a sunny disposition. Consequently he is neither fussy nor finicky. He does not particularly mind having been mourned for months by an inconsolable widow and sister. He can endure without undue resentment having been branded a suicide, and can face with a smile the ordeal of being labeled a "dead one" by all of his friends.

Having to renew a life insurance policy, payment of which he just did head off in time, causes Leo not even a shadow of regret. It gives him no occasion to fidget because he cannot vote at the next election without danger of being challenged by M. Charon, boss pilot of the River Styx. He can contemplate with comparative equanimity a modest headstone in a west side cemetery, disseminating graven information as to his past excellence as a husband, with the hope of being able to exchange it for automobile accessories before the bill becomes due.

Paying for Grave, Though—Well!

But when he was requested to "die" and settle for a six foot hall room subterranean place of abode which he never had occupied even for a day, Leo Allen was decidedly, unmistakably peeved.

The peeve was accentuated by the fact that while he was supposed to be sleeping soundly in the outskirts of Chicago he was paying room rent and board in the American colony of Paris.

Allen formerly was an assistant landscape gardener at the west side baseball park, and followed that calling until he graduated from the automobile lawn mower into the ranks of licensed chauffeurs.

Early last June he contracted with the agent of a French taxicab concern to go to Paris, and had only three hours to caten the train that would connect with the last steamer which would enable him in turn to connect with the new job.

His Letter Goes Astray.

From New York Allen wrote his wife inclosing a sum of money sufficient for her immediate needs, but the letter never reached its destination. Ten days after his unintentional mysterious disappearance a body was fished out of the Lincoln park lagoon by a park policeman. It was identified by his wife and again by his sister, who was summoned from Allen's native city, Niles, Mich.

There were no marks of foul play and the coroner was of the opinion it was a plain case of suicide. Some time after his own funeral Allen cabled his Paris address, but it was accepted as some cruel and unusual mistake, his surviving relatives refusing to share the popular belief regarding the French capital.

Foreign Lingoes Too Much.

For months Allen was employed as a chauffeur in Paris but found the variety of foreign lingoes he was expected to acquire too much for his limited stock of patience. He chucked the whole allen works and returned to discover himself in much the same dilemma as that faced by Enoch Arden in another and earlier century.

The exceptional feature was that Mrs. Leo Allen still devoutly mourned his loss and had not remarried.

When Allen sauntered into the west side park yesterday to watch the Cubs play ball, Supt. Charles Kuhn, for whom he used to work and who had dutifully attended his funeral more than nine months ago, signed a mental temperance pledge in a hurry.

WILSON TO SPEAK INITIAL MESSAGE BEFORE CONGRESS

Dramatic Spectacle Will Be Staged Tomorrow at Joint Session.

RETURN TO OLD CUSTOM

MAY APPEAR ON FLOOR OFTEN

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—The dramatic spectacle of the president of the United States personally addressing congress will be staged on Tuesday when Woodrow Wilson will deliver orally his first message.

Thus a Democratic president will shatter the precedent of communicating with congress in writing, which was established in 1801 by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party.

Mr. Wilson will return to the practice first set by George Washington and later observed by John Adams. He will interpret literally that provision of the constitution which provides that the president "shall from time to time give to congress information on the state of the union and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

Wilson's Plan Stirs Congress.

The purpose of the president, which was announced officially at the White House tonight, had stirred congress as few things have done in recent times. The president is actuated in this matter by a desire to obtain the benefit of presenting his views directly to senators and members of the house, rather than through the course, so long observed, of transmitting a printed message by means of a secretary. The latter's appearance in either house is recognized perfunctorily by the chair, and he delivers the document intrusted to him.

At a convenient time the message is read, but few senators and members listen to it. They are furnished with copies which they read at their leisure, and some of them do no more than merely glance at the communication.

Plans to Force Attention.

Aware of the degeneration of the receipt of a presidential communication into a routine proceeding, President Wilson has decided to return to the old spectacular custom and force the two houses of congress to listen to his views.

His decision in this respect has met with the cordial approval of Senator Kern, the Democratic leader in the senate, and the ostensible approval of Congressman Underwood, the Democratic leader in the house. The latter will introduce a resolution in the house tomorrow inviting the senate to a joint session on Tuesday. The senate will accept promptly the invitation. The president will be formally requested to address congress.

Here's Custom of Early Days.

"Hinds' Precedents," which is the official book of reference in connection with parliamentary proceedings, describes the practice in the early days of the republic, and which will be observed in the case of Mr. Wilson, as follows:

"The two houses met in joint meeting, either in the senate chamber or in the hall of the house, and the president addressed them. He was sometimes accompanied by his secretary and the heads of the several departments of the government. It seems to have been the custom for the president to take the chair of the speaker (when the joint meeting was held in the hall of the house), the president and the clerk of the senate being placed on the right of the chair and the speaker and the clerk of the house on the left."

Cabinet Will Accompany Wilson.

President Wilson will be accompanied by his entire cabinet, who will be given seats on the floor. Dividing interest with the president will be William Jennings Bryan, the man who is the most feared and hated by a majority of the members of his party in both houses.

The views expressed by the president will be regarded as Bryan's views. Realizing that it was his conduct at Baltimore which elevated the New Jersey governor to the presidency, Speaker Clark will look at him with anything other than a friendly interest. Congressman Underwood, who was denounced by Mr. Bryan for alleged favoritism of special privilege, will not welcome him with open arms, and various other senators and members who have felt the weight of the Bryan club will not give any expression of joy at his presence.

Question from Floor Not Expected.

But neither the president nor Mr. Bryan is apt to be disturbed over the mixed feelings of congress at their appearance. When Washington and Adams appeared before congress they were interrogated by members of the body on points which they did not make sufficiently clear. It is not believed any member of the present day congress will have the termerity to question Mr. Wilson.

The importance of President Wilson's action will not lie in its overturn of a precedent but in the fact that it signifies the character of the relations the president hopes to establish and maintain between the legislative and executive branches of the government, relations which are to be, if not closer than heretofore, at least less formal. Thus will be made possible, Mr. Wilson hopes, greater coöperation without injuriously affecting coördination.

Y OR SUNDAY.

Shows Seriousness of Purpose.

Mr. Wilson also hopes to impress the members with his own seriousness of purpose and to arouse an interest in what he says, which is hardly possible under other conditions. He expects his course will have a tendency to do away with the custom heretofore prevailing of conferences between the president and a few congressional leaders and will impose a sense of direct responsibility upon the full membership of the two houses. In the end there may be brought about direct administration representation in congress and participation in congressional debates by members of the administration, including the president himself.

It is evident from the president's program he intends to make clear to congress and the country that he purposes to play no passive part in the enactment of legislation.

Ready to Plead for Measures.

The president is ready to plead in person for the measures he believes necessary for the improvement of conditions. He is prepared to assume the fullest responsibility and to stand for what he believes not only as the chief executive of the nation but as an advocate of principles of government. Whether President Wilson will get the results he desires is open to question. Senator Kern said tonight he had advised him to read his message on the tariff.

"I think it is an admirable thing for the president to do," observed the senator. "The constitution authorizes him to write or communicate his views in any way he sees fit. Through personal appearance Mr. Wilson will be brought in closer touch with congress and in direct contact with its members. It is an innovation which will be criticised by the men who are sticklers for precedent, but the advantages which will follow will silence effectively anything they may say."

Tariff Bill Before House Today.

The Democratic tariff bill, approved by President Wilson and the Democrats of the house ways and means committee, will be introduced in the house when it convenes at noon tomorrow by Chairman Underwood. House Democrats will caucus on the bill Tuesday, and Chairman Underwood was confident tonight it would be indorsed by an overwhelming vote.

In order to facilitate the task of getting through the tariff measure the senate Democrats will meet in caucus in the afternoon, and at the instance of Mr. Wilson will decide to amend the rules of the upper house so as to provide:

1. That chairmen of committees shall hereafter be elected by the committees instead of appointed by the committee on committees.
2. That a meeting of a committee may be called upon the request of a majority of the majority of the committee.
3. That conferees shall be elected by the majority of the committee rather than appointed by the president of the senate.

The last rule is of especial importance, since it is likely to insure the placing upon conference committees of men friendly to the president.

Wilson for Cut in Sugar.

President Wilson stands firmly for a rate of 1 cent per pound on sugar and the removal of all duty after three years. This is his final determination and he is confident that a single tariff measure with such a provision can pass.

The senate finance committee Democrats held a three hours' consultation today but apparently made little progress toward giving their indorsement to the bill as it now stands. They prefer separate bills and are not convinced that any advantage is to be gained by the other plan. This question and that of the proposed anti-free wool and sugar combination will be discussed with Mr. Wilson tomorrow at a conference at the White House.

There has been some dissatisfaction over the fact that senators have had but little to do with framing a bill designed as a party measure. Today the Democrats of the finance committee got their first explanation of it from Chairman Underwood, who was in conference with them for an hour and a half.

Underwood Sees House in Line.

Chairman Underwood said he expected no serious opposition in the house. He added that after the caucus approved the bill the house would be given a week or ten days for general debate on it, beginning Wednesday.

At the conclusion of general debate the bill will be taken up paragraph by paragraph and amendments offered will be debated under the five minute rule. Mr. Underwood was of the opinion that the bill should pass the house about May 1. He would not express a decided opinion as to when the senate might finish the bill, but thought eight weeks might suffice.

PLAN OF COL. ROOSEVELT.

Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois Will Introduce Bill in House Today.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—Nomination of presidential candidates in a national direct preference primary and the control of political parties by federal law are proposed in a bill which will be introduced in the house tomorrow by Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois, a Progressive.

The Progressive party is committed to a national direct primary, and will endeavor to obtain the enactment of such legislation before the presidential election of 1916. With nominations made under the primary system, the Progressives contend, political scandals of the sort made historic at the last convention of the Republican party at Chicago will become a thing of the past.

Features of the Bill.

The Hinebaugh bill provides:

The primary to elect delegates and alternates to the various conventions and to express preferences for presidential candidates shall be held on the second Tuesday of May, and the conventions shall be held beginning on the third Monday in June.

Representation in a party's national convention shall consist of one delegate and one alternate for each congressional district in each state, and only such states as comply with the federal act shall have representation.

In each case the state primary law shall provide for the expression by the party members of a first and second choice for president. The candidate receiving a majority of the vote is the choice of the party in the state for president. If no candidate has a majority the first and second choice votes for each aspirant shall be combined and the candidate having the highest number is the choice.

Duty of the Convention.

The result of the primary in each state, together with the roll of delegates elected, shall be certified to the secretary of the interior.

The aspirant receiving a majority of the total preferential votes cast in all the states shall be declared by the secretary of the interior to be the candidate of the party. If no aspirant has a majority, the selection shall be made by the national convention.

The convention is required to choose the candidate from the list of aspirants certified by the secretary of the interior, and also to choose a vice presidential candidate and adopt a platform.

Candidates for delegate shall pledge themselves in writing to support in the convention the presidential aspirant polling the highest number of preferential votes in the state.

Delegates shall be paid $5 a day compensation and mileage at the rate of 5 cents a mile, out of the national treasury.

The act is to become effective when the primary laws specified shall have been adopted by twenty-five states.

Curb on Party Bosses.

"The tragedy of the Chicago Republican national convention emphasized the need of a nation wide presidential preference primary," said Representative Hinebaugh. "The unbridled arrogance of the machine convinced everybody that the power of political bosses must be checked or our system of popular government will become a farce.

"I believe the plan I propose in this bill would make a repetition of the Chicago fiasco impossible. After drafting the bill I submitted it to Dr. Charles McCarthy, chief of the legislative reference bureau at Madison, Wis. I realize the bill is far from perfect, but its general principle certainly is a step in the right direction."

Boy Killed by Wagon.

August Schwartz, 3 years old, was run down by an express wagon at Fourteenth street and Newberry avenue early yesterday and died at noon at Michael Reese hospital. Frank Maday, 3616 Belmont avenue, the driver, said the child ran in front of the horses. The boy lived at 841 West Fourteenth place.

BEVERIDGE PREPARING TO WRITE JOHN MARSHALL'S LIFE.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana is about to begin the writing of a comprehensive life of John Marshall, the great chief justice of the United States Supreme court.

No adequate and comprehensive life of Marshall has ever been written. There is only one volume on Marshall, Magruder's little book in the American Statesmen series, which is hardly more than an outline of the life of the great chief justice.

Mr. Beveridge has devoted the entire winter to the collection of material and the preparation of notes on this subject.

Brandt is employed by a lumber company as bookkeeper. Friends of the man have run three detectives out of the city.

Ten Caught in Gambling Raids.

Five men in a poolroom at 1354 South Newberry avenue were arrested yesterday and Isadore Schwartz was booked as the keeper of a gambling house. Five men were arrested at night in a gambling raid on the flat of Michael Stetzkewicz, 710 Milwaukee avenue.

SHERMAN IN A HALL BEDROOM; REJECTS SENATORIAL SUITE.

Illinois Statesman Announces Himself as a Progressive Republican for Reasonable and Moderate Protection.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—L. Y. Sherman, the new United States senator from Illinois, will line up with the progressive Republicans in the upper house of congress as a "moderate protectionist."

He believes there is ample room for reduction of the duties in the Payne-Aldrich tariff without injuring the protection of American industry.

The senator arrived at the Willard hotel this afternoon and asked for the room his manager, Walter Rosenfield of Rock Island, had reserved for him by telegraph. The hotel had reserved a "senatorial suite," the price of which startled Mr. Sherman.

"All I want is a hall bedroom with bath," he explained as he shifted his reticule. He got it.

"You are going to be the senior senator," a newspaper correspondent explained to Mr. Sherman, the title arising from priority of taking the oath of office.

"Well, I guess that honor doesn't amount to much," he drawled. "I won't quarrel with anybody about that or about haberdashery, hair, whiskers, or anything else of that nature, except schedule K, and, as they don't raise much wool in my state, I guess there won't be much blood spilled over that."

The senator was accompanied by Mr. Rosenfield, J. M. Porter of Monmouth, who will be his secretary, and George E. Keys and William Colvin of Springfield.

SEAT IN CONGRESS HOLDS PARTY WAR

ECHO OF MICHIGAN FIGHT

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—The first clash of the Progressives with the old parties in the house will develop tomorrow in a move to prevent the seating of H. Olin Young of Ishpeming, Mich., who holds the certificate of reelection as a Republican representative from the Twelfth district of that state.

Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois will offer a resolution on behalf of the Progressives providing that the credentials of Young shall not be accepted and that a special committee be appointed to determine whether he or William J. MacDonald of Calumet is entitled to the seat. It is charged that MacDonald, a Progressive, really was elected, but was deprived of his certificate by an arbitrary technical decision by the state canvassing board.

The Progressives have received assurances that if the case can be brought to a vote in the house many of Mr. Young's Republican colleagues will vote against him.

A Clothing Detail You May Have Overlooked

THE one big advantage in buying ready to wear clothing is the advantage of a choice in try-ons. When you go to a tailor, you hold up a piece of goods and draw upon your imagination. Sometimes the garment turns out just as you had pictured it—but often it doesn't. When you come here to buy a suit, you are at perfect liberty to try on just as many coats as you wish. You have the opportunity of seeing how you look in a check—how a stripe becomes you—how this cut coat hangs on you—how the blues and grays and all of the other colors match up with your general complexion and disposition—then you can buy whichever one you believe "fills the bill." That's an advantage that you lose when you have a suit made to order—and it's worth consideration.

For Instance, Come In and Try on Some of These Suits at $25

WE WILL not ask you to buy unless you feel so inclined. Merely consider this as an invitation to "try-on." You will find a number of very stunning new fabrics that just came in last week. Candidly, we have never seen a better line of clothing, at the price, than these suits that we are selling on our 2d floor at $25

ORALS COURT WILL OPEN TODAY

OPKINS ON THE BENCH.

olice Say Patrols Will Draw Curious Crowds to the Building.

The opening of the Morals court on the seventh floor of the city hall will take place today.

Men and women arrested in any part of the city for violations of what is termed "morals" will be taken to this court for arraignment. Municipal Judge Hopkins will preside.

With the inauguration of this new branch several courts will be relieved of cases which heretofore have occupied the attention of judges at South Clark street, Desplaines street, Maxwell street, Chicago avenue, and other stations.

May Work Overtime.

All persons arrested in disorderly houses will be brought before the new court for trial. Police officials say that if the average number of arrests for this offense is kept up the Morals court will be compelled to work overtime.

Prisoners for the Morals court will be brought to the city hall in patrol wagons, unless they procure their release on bonds. They will be taken to the eleventh floor on elevators, and in this way mingle with the public.

"Mayor Harrison didn't want patrol wagons in front of the city hall, and for that reason he kept out the detective bureau," said a police official yesterday. "I agree with the mayor. Patrol wagons should not be allowed to back up in front of the hall to unload prisoners or take a load away.

Patrols Attract Crowds.

"Every time a patrol wagon stops at a downtown corner to 'pick up' a prisoner a large crowd congregates. What will it be like when a wagon filled with men and women back up in front of the city hall! It will be nothing uncommon to see four or five wagons backed up to the curb now that the Morals court is going to be in the hall.

"The spectacle will not be elevating to say the least. I don't know why the Morals court was put in the city hall, but I suppose there was good reason. If some means were devised to keep patrol wagons from in front of the building I don't know of any objection."

It is doubtful if the city leases the second floor of the Transportation building, Dearborn and Harrison streets, for court purposes. Judge Caverly has had several conferences with Charles C. Heisen, owner of the building, but they failed to agree on certain alterations to be made.

MARTIN NO. 4626 RETURNS

ANNUAL MIGRATION IS ON.

Phillas W. Gates Expects Thousands; Mrs. J. A. Patten Ready.

A purple martin flew in from the Isle of Pines yesterday. After circling about it finally perched on the top of one of Joseph H. Dodson's bird houses in Evanston.

"Hoppie has come back!" exclaimed Mrs. Dodson, her eyes on the bird.

A handful of grain enticed the martin down to earth. A hungry bird just in from a long journey is not difficult to catch. In a few moments Mr. Dodson had the purple martin in his hands.

"O, it's No. 4,626," he declared, reading from an aluminum band on the bird's left leg. Then the martin flew up to the bird house.

Expects Return of 200.

For six summers 200 martins have returned to the Dodsons, who mark their birds with aluminum bands. In this way they are able to tell how many martins make their "migrations" in safety each year. No. 4,626 is the first to arrive from the southland.

"But the 200 will be in before long," said Mr. Dodson. "They never have disappointed me in the six years. I expect them to return to me for five more summers unless they get killed on their long journeys. I know I have the first martin in Evanston this spring."

Philetus W. Gates, who expects thousands of martins each year at his place in Evanston, has not yet had a martin. Mrs. James A. Patten's martin boxes are empty. Bird fanciers a hundred miles north of Chicago, however, have had martins several weeks. Just why the birds have remained away from Chicago so long is not explained by persons interested in luring martins from the redolent south.

Martins Kill Mosquitoes.

One purple martin is said to destroy 1,000 mosquitoes a day. A colony of martins can keep large orchards for miles around free from insects. Bird lovers give protection to the martins in order to have them return. Not so long ago there were few martins. They had been driven out entirely by the sparrows.

Mr. Dodson, a director of the Illinois Audubon society, has interested many persons in luring martins back to their old haunts. He built a martin house that would hold 150. There were twenty-six rooms and corridors. Usually, when a sparrow sees a martin enter a house, he waits at the entrance for his prey to emerge. The new martin house permitted the prey to escape. When a martin learns he can return to a place in safety he brings a colony with him.

A sparrow trap is another one of Mr. Dodson's protections to martins. A trap will capture seventy-five sparrows an hour. It is made of three-quarter inch mesh wire, with two funnels. One funnel is bottomless and rests on the ground. The second, supplied with a bottom, is the trap. Grain is scattered on the ground and the sparrows are enticed into the funnel. In their fright the sparrows fly into the second funnel, which holds them prisoners until they are released to make "sparrow pie." The government sends out recipes for "sparrow pie" to encourage persons to exterminate the enemies of martins.

Insect Depredations $420,100,000.

According to the report of the committee on wild life protection of the national conservation congress, $420,100,000 in food values is lost to the United States because certain birds are destroyed each year.

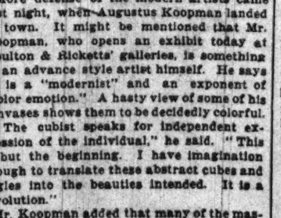

The martins are destroyers of insect life. That is why bird lovers look forward to their spring coming so eagerly and protect them when they do return.

TAKE ANNUAL CIRCUS CENSUS.

Four Men Work Sixteen Hours—Find 1,308 Are Employed by Ringling Brothers' Show.

The annual census of the Ringling Brothers' circus at the Coliseum was completed last night. Thirteen hundred and eight persons are employed with the circus, counting the owners and the stake drivers, who nail down the "big top" when the show is on the road.

Every state in the union is represented and nineteen languages are spoken. It took four men sixteen hours to complete the census. Al Miaco, 74 years old, a clown who dances the "bearcat," is the oldest employe of the circus.

The midnight pedestrian

There are tremendous possibilities in the plan devised by some local gymnasium and bathhouse proprietors for having music to stimulate customers to greater activity, and enable their rubbers to do better work. One bathhouse man, specializing in reducing fat millionaires, says he's "the guy that put the punch in paunch," and attributes his feat to the influence of music. MILWAUKEE ELOPEMENT STORY BRINGS DENIAL IN CHICAGO.

Wedding License for Helen A. Plank Obtained—Friends Say She Is in Maine and Never Will Use It.

A dispatch received from Milwaukee last night telling of the taking out of a marriage license for Miss Helen A. Plank, a relative of Attorney Franklin A. Plank, 4020 Evanston avenue, met with prompt contradiction from Mr. Plank's residence. The Milwaukee dispatch was as follows:

"A Chicago elopement culminated today in the securing of a wedding license here for Helen A. Plank of Chicago and Harry I. Pierce of Wilmington, Del., who came here to dodge the old shoes of their friends and to surprise their relatives. When they secured the license it was denied that there was any objection on the part of the girl's parents to the marriage to the easterner, but that the wedding was not to take place supposedly until later in the year. It had not been planned to notify their relatives for several days of the wedding, but the license clerk thought their secret too good to keep."

At the Plank residence a friend of the family, who said Mr. Plank was in California, declared there was a "terrible mistake." She said the girl is ill in Maine and declared the license would never be made use of.

More defense of the modern artists came last night, when Augustus Koopman landed in town. It might be mentioned that Mr. Koopman, who opens an exhibit today at Moulton & Ricketts' galleries, is something of an advance style artist himself. He says he is a "modernist" and an exponent of "color emotion." A hasty view of some of his canvases shows them to be decidedly colorful.

"The cubist speaks for independent expression of the individual," he said. "This is but the beginning. I have imagination enough to translate these abstract cubes and angles into the beauties intended. It is a revolution."

Mr. Koopman added that many of the masterpieces had not been brought to the Art institute, and that some on exhibition here are "lewd and absurd."

IT'S HONK! HONK! ALL THE TIME

"I Motor So Slowly Friends Laugh," Declares Mrs. E. I. Alexander.

SAYS PAPA IS JEALOUS

He Doesn't Own a Car or Know How to Run One—She Does—So There!

Mrs. Edward I. Alexander informed the public yesterday that her father, J. Malcolm Ingal, didn't know much about what he was saying when he said she was an unfit person to drive an automobile. Mrs. Alexander is Mr. Ingal's daughter. She is in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where she went a few days ago.

Just after she left Chicago, Ingal sent telegrams and letters to the secretary of state of New York and to various persons there requesting that she be refused a license for her motor car in New York.

In an interview the same day Mr. Ingal said his daughter was irresponsible and took much delight in running over persons if they happened to be in the path of her machine.

Says Papa Is Jealous.

Mrs. Ingal disagrees entirely with her father. In fact, she says her father is jealous because she can drive a motor car and he can't. Apparently Mrs. Alexander doesn't care much what her father thinks about her ability to drive a car.

"It's only jealousy that prompted my father to write to the secretary of state warning him not to issue a license to me," Mrs. Alexander said yesterday. "I have only one car, but my father seems to think that it is one too many. He seems to think that my owning and running a car is too expensive. Dear me. I'm spending my own money. Besides, my income is sufficient to support more than one car if I wanted them. Reckless? Why, I drive so slowly that my friends laugh at me. For an extra precaution I have two horns and an extra big searchlight on my car. It's honk, honk, honk, all the time I am driving.

Will Prove She Is Careful.

"It is not true, as my father charges, that I ran over a boy in Chicago and hurried out of the state to cheat the boy's parents out of settlement. It was a minor accident, and all claims were paid. I'll get a license in spite of him. I'm going to get affidavits from all the prominent persons I know in Poughkeepsie who know that I am a very careful driver.

"I went to Havana recently to meet my husband, who was returning from Mexico. There I contracted the measles. When I came north I got the fever. Now there's more trouble. I think I like the measles best. We'll make an application right away for the license, just to see whether father can interfere."

Mrs. Alexander formerly was Miss Nellie Kenner. She achieved considerable notoriety a few years ago by getting engaged to "Lord Henry," a bogus English lord. He turned out to be a thief.

PASTOR ASKS LIMIT FOR WEBB

The Rev. E. R. Zaring Protests Against Leniency to Robber.

WRITES TO JUDGE KERSTEN.

Says Indeterminate Sentence Would Not Be Satisfactory.

A protest against softness in dealing with Webb, the auto highwayman, whose case comes up before Judge Kersten today, was made by the Rev. Elbert Robb Zaring, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Dr. Zaring wrote the judge a letter in which he declared it as his opinion that the public in general would not be satisfied with leniency in the administration of justice against Webb.

"Chicago has just passed through a crime wave in which innocent citizens have been waylaid," the letter read, "and the general public will not be satisfied with a decision that imposes upon a man of the record and character of Webb an indeterminate sentence that will let him loose again upon society after a brief term."

The letter was mailed Saturday evening.

Lack of Discipline Responsible.

Dr. Zaring in preaching a sermon yesterday morning in the Ogden Park Methodist Episcopal church laid a large share of the responsibility for the crime wave, the question of social vice, and the lawlessness of young bandits to lack of parental discipline in the home.

"The crux of the whole vice question lies in the lack of home discipline," he said. "Some parents give as the reason why they do not punish their children when they do wrong that they love them too much to punish them.

"The fact is they do not love them enough. If they did they would spank them while they were small children—use the shingle vigorously—and otherwise discipline them when they grew older. The child has become the boss of the home. The go as you please spirit has prevailed until the American home is nearly broken up.

Results in Auto Robbers.

"The boy that has not learned to obey his parents feels no restraint of the law when he gets out into society and the result is the automobile robber and the hold up man.

"The girl that has been allowed to follow her own sweet will at home continues to follow it after she gets out in the world, and, not realizing often the pitfalls arranged for her ruin, goes in the pathway of sin."

THUGS BEAT AND ROB MAN.

Alex Lykcander Held Up Near Alley—Found Later Unconscious by Pedestrians.

Alex Lykcander, a laborer, 2738 South Fifth avenue, was robbed of $17 and a bankbook and badly beaten by two men last night at the entrance of an alley off Maxwell street between South Halsted and South Union streets. His cries were heard by pedestrians who found him later unconscious in the alley.

BRIDAL AUTO INJURES GIRL

Wedding Ride Comes Near Being Herald of Funeral.

MAN HURT SAVING CYCLIST.

Swerves Car and Wife and Himself Are Hurled Out.

An automobile, believed from the costumes of its occupants to have contained a bridal party, came near being the herald of a funeral last night. It ran down 13 year old Marcella Hollard, 1428 Blue Island avenue, a short distance from her doorstep.

The car did not stop. Its driver gave one startled look at the child lying on the pavement, then threw on full speed and dashed toward the loop district. A witness believes he caught the license number, and the Maxwell street police were sent out to find the owner.

The girl was picked up and carried to the office of Dr. J. F. Meyer, 1259 West Twelfth street, and later taken home.

Saves Negro; Wife Hurt.

William Noelle, a floating engineer at 180 North La Salle street, risked his life and that of his wife to save a negro bicyclist, Albert Lewis, 3620 Pine Grove avenue, who pedaled in front of the Noelle automobile at Sheridan road and Buena avenue.

Noelle swerved sharply to one side, took the curb, but smashed into a tree, throwing himself and his wife to the ground and wrecking the car. The negro boy was unhurt.

Three men were slightly hurt when T. M. Schillo, 2034 Sheffield avenue, drove his automobile into the curb at Ontario and Wells streets.

Schillo, who, the police say, was intoxicated, was arrested and will be arraigned today before Judge Fry. The automobile was damaged. The other occupants, Martin Joyce and Stephen Lydon, 306 West Huron street, had their injuries cared for at the Chicago avenue station.

Ambulance Driver Arrested.

While speeding to the scene of an accident, the Chicago Railways company's ambulance was overtaken by Motorcycle Policeman William Anderson, at West North avenue and Humboldt boulevard. Joseph Berg, the chauffeur, was arrested. According to the policeman the ambulance was traveling at the rate of 52 miles an hour.

Charles Brand, who is 8 years old, and lives at 4929 Cornelia street, fell and was bruised, in attempting to board a North avenue car at North Forty-eighth avenue. The ambulance was on the way to the scene.

Frank Smith, of 2622 Racine avenue, was bruised by an automobile owned and driven by Albert H. Schuve, 2359 Smalley court, at Diversey parkway and Racine avenue. Schuve took the injured man to the German American hospital.

BRIDEGROOM IS "ARRESTED" AT WEDDING CELEBRATION.

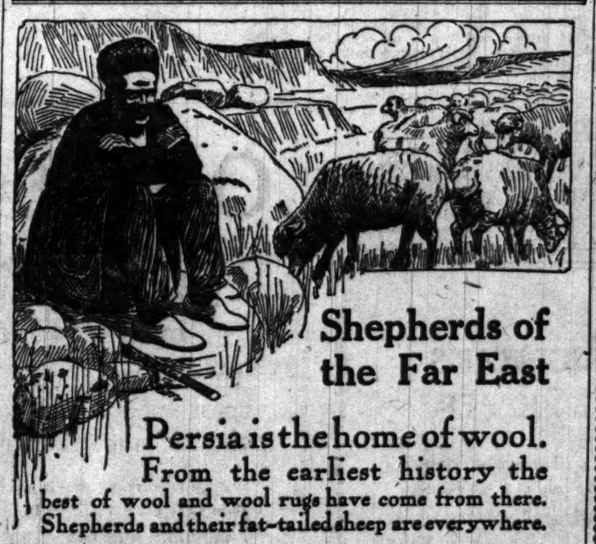

Charge of "Arson" Bright, but Judge Newcomer, Who Is Present, Frees Prisoner for the Bride.

The wedding of Carmella Marchese of 1116 Vernon Park place to Joseph Esposito of 535 South Center avenue was celebrated yesterday at the West Side Auditorium. They were married a month ago by Municipal Judge Newcomer in the city hall.

The reception was attended by more than 2,000 Italian friends of the bride and bridegroom. Among the guests were two Municipal court judges, Hugh R. Stewart and John R. Newcomer. Former Judge William Maxwell was present.

When the bridegroom entered the hall he was "arrested" on a charge of arson by two of his friends. They took him to West Twelfth street and South Center avenue, where another friend met them and said Judge Newcomer was willing to release the prisoner on bail. The bridegroom was then restored to his frightened bride.

A squad of detectives and policemen were detailed at the hall to keep order.

Shepherds of the Far East
Persia is the home of wool. From the earliest history the best of wool and wool rugs have come from there. Shepherds and their fat-tailed sheep are everywhere.
The climate, grasses and water seem ideally adapted for producing the highest grade of wool. Even the same sheep do not yield as fine a product when transplanted to America or Australia.
May is the shearing time. The best of the cut is carefully gathered for the use of the rug weavers. That is why the Oriental Rugs we sell give such long service and grow more silky with use. The wool is the best in the world.

MAYOR MAY LOSE HIS COMMITTEES

Council Slatemakers Discuss Curbing Harrison's Appointive Powers.

PROPOSE SOME MERGERS.

Three Select Committees Named by Executive Likely to Be Abolished.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 6.—[Special.]—Mayor Harrison of Chicago may lose the power of appointing the three select committees that have been a part of the regular organization of the city council for several years. During a Sunday's idleness, the committee on committees talked over the general situation.

From an unknown source there gradually spread a belief that there is no reason why the organization task should be complicated by the mayor's attitude on the select committee question. If they are included in some way under the rules of the council they will be selected by the organization committee.

The slatemakers feel they face in this question one of their serious problems. They do not know whom Mayor Harrison will appoint to the twenty places on these three committees, and the five aldermanic places on the special parks commission, all of which are included in the total of 207 on which they base their estimate that there are three assignments for almost every one of the seventy aldermen.

Fear Conflict with Mayor.

If the mayor's selections conflict with those of the committee the ratio will be upset, it is said.

For four years Mayor Busse permitted the organization committee to name the select committee as well as the standing committees. Two years ago, in connection with the first council under the Harrison administration, the committee did practically the same thing. Last year it ignored the wishes of Mayor Harrison relative to the select committees, and he showed his displeasure.

Before the committee left Chicago last Thursday the mayor indicated to its members and others his firm determination to "do his own appointing wherever that authority rests in him." In this case that power of appointment rests only in resolutions brought in by the organization together with their regular committee slate. In years past it has been the custom to adopt these resolutions, and the mayor then has announced the memberships.

May Cut Down Select Committees.

It now is proposed to omit these resolutions and to take care in some other way of the work now done by the select bodies. There have been several suggestions as to procedure from this point. One was that the committee work done by these bodies be turned over to others.

When it came to approaching even an informal decision in favor of the consolidation program the aldermen hesitated. This would mean, they said, a reduction of the total number of available posts, something to be avoided according to their ideas almost as much as permitting the mayor's appointments to give some aldermen more than their share of places and leaving others short of the average. They left the decision until they are in formal conference behind closed doors.

The sixth member of the committee, Alderman Ellis Geiger, will be here tomorrow morning. The committee is anxious to avoid making any decisions that may be upset or thrown into doubt by his possible difference of opinion. For that reason the selection even of members of the four men to fill the vacancies on the first committee on the list, finance, has been postponed until his arrival.

EMPLOYERS WILL LEND MONEY

FREDERICK BODE AT HEAD.

To Supply Money at Not More than 8 Per Cent a Month.

The loan shark is doomed if a bill now before both houses of the Illinois legislature is passed. If the measure is enacted the employers will see if they cannot loan money to their employés at a low rate of interest.

In anticipation that the measure will become a law, members of the Industrial club of Chicago have subscribed $50,000 to operate a wage loan society, and only await favorable action at Springfield to start fighting the devil with fire.

The members of the club head sixty big establishments and employ more than 10,000 men and women, many of whom have been the victims of usurers. The wage loan society act, if passed, will provide for a maximum of 3 per cent a month on loans, none of which may exceed $250.

Means Winnowing of Sharks.

As the average interest charged by Chicago loan sharks is 10 and 12 per cent, and the majority do not concede a profit under 6 or 8, the inevitable winnowing of the loan shark chaff can be understood.

Senator O'Connor introduced the bill in the upper house and will chaperon it before the judiciary committee on Tuesday. Representative Morton D. Hull fathered it in the house and saw that it passed the committee.

The officers of the Industrial club are Frederick Bode, president; Frederick H. Rawson, vice president; Edward M. Skinner, treasurer; W. R. Abbott, secretary; and Harry H. Lobdell, George E. Marcy, Thomas E. Wilson, Edward R. Heissler, and Frank C. Caldwell, directors. Marvin B. Pool is chairman of the committee having the bill in charge.

Chief Provisions of Bill.

Not for pecuniary profit.

Capital must be $50,000 or over.

Limit dividends of stockholders to 6 per cent a year. Total loans to any one person limited to $250.

Applies to cities of over 250,000 population.

Business restricted to county in which society is organized.

Has no banking power.

Can make no charge of any kind in excess of 3 per cent per month.

Fine or imprisonment, or both, for illegal acts of employés.

Notes must state they are secured by wage assignments. Borrower has complete copy of every paper.

One director appointed by the governor and one by the mayor. Both to report, under oath, any violations of the act.

Auditor of public accounts to have the same power of examination that he now has with reference to trust companies.

Three of Arguments Used.

In securing the approval of the proposed act from the house judiciary committee the members of the Industrial club used three arguments.

First—The necessity of permitting loans on wage assignments at a fair rate of interest, and with the borrower protected against extortion.

Second—The necessity of determining the cost of the business so as to justify future corrective legislation.

Third—The fact that Illinois has allowed pawnbrokers for thirty-four years to legally charge 3 per cent a month.

Loan shark legislation has been sought only during the last eight years. In 1905 the Supreme court declared a wage assignment law unconstitutional because of a technical error. Four years later another attempt was made but never emerged from the committee rooms.

DECKS NOW CLEAR FOR LEGISLATION

Both Branches of General Assembly to Buckle Down to Business This Week.

BIG PROBLEM IN SENATE.

Proposed Initiative and Referendum Amendment Comes Up for Consideration.

Springfield, Ill., April 6.—The general assembly will buckle down to business this week. With most of the standing committees of the house named, there is nothing remaining to interfere with the rapid progress of work in both branches.

Speaker McKinley is expected to announce the remainder of the house committees this week, and Gov. Dunne has promised to make several additional political appointments.

The big question of the week in the senate side undoubtedly will be the initiative and referendum. The resolution offered on this subject by Senator Duff Piercy of Mount Vernon has the backing of Gov. Dunne and the Initiative and Referendum league.

Senator Campbell's anti-tipping bill may be reconsidered on Tuesday, but there appears to be no possibility of its passage.

Automobile Bills in Senate.

A number of automobile bills have reached the senate calendar. Among them is Senator Clark's measure relating to "tail lights." As the motor vehicle act now reads, it is compulsory for a policeman to arrest any automobile driver when a tail light is found extinguished at night. As a result innocent persons have been subjected to great annoyance at times when their lights have become extinguished without their knowledge.

Senator Clark's bill permits a policeman to use some discretion in the matter, and if it is apparent that the light has been extinguished through no fault of the driver, the policeman may take the driver's license number and the number of the car, and if it is desired later that the driver be brought into court a summons may issue for his appearance.

Senator Juul has an automobile bill which exempts physicians and ambulance drivers from arrest for speeding when responding to calls.

To Protect Garage Owners.

Senator Madigan has a bill touching the automobile business from a different angle. It gives a lien on personal property for labor, storage, etc., and provides for the sale of the property by the court if the lien is not satisfied within a specified time. It is designed to protect garage owners who do repair work and furnish supplies for cars.

Senator Cornwall has a bill on third reading which is designed to legislate out of use siren horns and other objectionable sound producers hung on automobiles.

A bill by Senator Landee now on third reading in the senate provides that when a person is convicted of larceny of property not exceeding $5 in value the penalty shall be a fine not exceeding $200. The intention is to eliminate the jail sentence sometimes imposed upon youthful first offenders.

Standing on the order of passage is Senator Lundberg's bill providing that whenever a fraternal beneficiary society in the state changes its by-laws, a copy of the new laws shall be filed with the superintendent of insurance instead of with the secretary of state, as at present.

Body of Vanished Man Found.

Joliet, Ill., April 6.—The body of John McGowan of this city, who disappeared a month ago, was found today below Joliet in the Desplaines river. McGowan is supposed to have had money in his possession at the time of his disappearance, but the condition of the body has prevented a complete examination.

DUNNE AND LEWIS IN PIE DEAL

Look to Bryan to "Put Over" Illinois Job Slate.

R. C. SULLIVAN TO FIGHT?

Chicago politicians are looking for a Lewis-Dunne alliance, backed by Secretary of State Bryan, to swing the bulk of the federal patronage for Illinois.

Although Senator Elect Lewis will not take his seat in Washington for two weeks or more, he and Gov. Dunne are said to have agreed upon many places of the slate which will carry with it the federal plums. The rewards, it is said, have been slated mainly for out and out Dunne men, with Harrison men getting little and the friends of Roger C. Sullivan left in the cold.

Just how far the governor and the senator elect can push their program remains a question, as National Committeeman Charles Boeschenstein, opposing the combine, is expected to have influence with President Wilson. Secretary Bryan, however, is certain to line up against anything Boeschenstein and Sullivan want, as neither Bryan nor Sullivan has forgotten their bitter fights in Illinois when Mr. Bryan attempted to read Sullivan out of the party.

Creighton for Federal Bench?

Judge Creighton of Springfield is said to be slated for the federal judgeship now vacant. President Taft attempted to fill the vacancy with Judge Charles S. Cutting of the Cook county Probate court, but the senate refused to confirm the appointment.

Judge Owen P. Thompson, long a bitter anti-Sullivan man and a close friend of Bryan, is said to be slated as minister to Belgium, while C. J. Vopicka, who has supported Dunne in his different campaigns, may be minister to Bulgaria.

J. L. Pickering is the Dunne-Lewis candidate for collector of internal revenue at Springfield. Sullivan and Boeschenstein have a candidate for this place in Ernest Hoover of Taborville.

Chicago Jobs Hold Over.

Chicago federal places have not been decided upon as yet, as far as Lewis and Dunne are concerned, because there will be no important vacancies for a year or so. But when they occur Senator Lewis hopes to be able to get the bulk of the places for his own and Dunne's friends.

Although Lewis has expressed himself emphatically upon the patronage question, announcing he would demand large recognition for Illinois, the Sullivan-Boeschenstein men have been silent while getting their wires in working order at Washington. Despite the ascendency of Bryan in Washington, it is certain that Sullivan will not permit President Wilson to forget the part Sullivan played in his nomination at Baltimore. And when the rival clans seek recognition a merry war is in prospect.

MITCHELL LIKED BY MOOSERS.

Progressives Pleased by Sulzer's Choice of Miners' Former Chief for Commissioner of Labor.

New York, April 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Sulzer's determination to appoint John Mitchell, former head of the United Mineworkers, to the state commissionership of labor appears to have met with a response among the followers of Col. Roosevelt.

The Progressives, it is said, think with Mitchell at the head of the department of labor they would have a friend at court in the enforcement of labor laws, and also have a hand in distribution of patronage.

Progressives who are talking about it today were in doubt whether or not Mr. Mitchell is not an out and out Progressive. Since the governor came out for Mitchell Col. Roosevelt has talked with the governor in Albany.

CIVIC BODIES TO PUSH BILL FOR STATE EPILEPTIC COLONY.

Delegations from Chicago Will Attend Hearing on O'Connor Measure at Springfield Wednesday.

Delegations from clubs and civic bodies in Chicago and points downstate will go to Springfield this week to urge the passage of the O'Connor bill, establishing a state colony for epileptics in Illinois. The hearing on the bill will take place next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, before the senate committee on appropriations.

Gov. Dunne has adopted the state colony plan as an administrative measure, and a good many members of the lower house, it is said, have signified their intention of attending the special hearing on Wednesday.

Sherman C. Kingsley, executive secretary of the committee of fifty, which has been campaigning for the measure, will be the spokesman for the advocates of the state colony idea.

Among the others who are expected to attend the hearing are Judge Merritt W. Pinckney, Dr. Henry B. Favill, the Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, Mrs. George R. Dean, Mrs. Clara P. Bouriand, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, Francis G. Blair, Marquis Eaton, the Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, Dr. William J. Healy, Dr. Frank Billings, Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, Miss Minnie F. Lowe, Edwin R. Wright, Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, Dr. Frank Norbury, Joseph Meyers, and Chief Justice Harry Olson.

A good deal of care has been taken in the drafting of the bill, which provides for the establishment of what is expected to be a model colony, one which will not have to take second place with those of Indiana and other states.

One of the provisions forbids the use of stairs in the low two story buildings which shall be erected to house the members of the colony. In place of stairs, the buildings will be equipped with gentle inclines, so as to protect the inmates from violent falls. The colony is to have the services of a staff of physicians trained in the study of mental and nervous diseases.

Fixing Building Cost

In seventeen bids, submitted for a recent building operation, there was a variation of 77% between the highest and lowest.

With such difference in estimates, how is an owner to decide what is the actual appropriation needed to supply the building he wants? There is a way.

What Will I Tell the Boss?

The boss always wants to know quickly! Yet a man's own experience is seldom sufficient to meet an important question squarely, instantly.

To settle the problems which arise in business, men need to know—must know—how difficulties and crises have been solved by others. How quickly this employer would have gotten his answer were one of these men familiar with the decade of search which has uncovered the answers to hundreds of business perplexities.

An organization of trained men has lifted from the highways and byways of business, from the desks of men of affairs, just the vital secrets which have smoothed out the daily snarls in the Carnegie Steel Co., in Phillips little corner store, in the offices of the New York Central Lines, in thousands upon thousands of concerns. This is the thing that counts—the actual knowledge which wins a better position and larger earnings for the employe—which saves time and multiplies dollars for the employer.

SYSTEM, in this ten years, has obtained hundreds of plans, ideas and brilliant money-methods you can use in your work. All the best have been published in ten volumes and two magazines. And now a 9,059-word book has been written describing, explaining, picturing the work.

Will You Accept this Business Book if we Send it FREE?

Pages 2 and 3 tell about managing businesses great and small; pages 4 and 5 deal with credits, collections and with rock bottom purchasing; pages 6 and 7 with handling and training men; pages 7 to 12 with salesmanship, with advertising, with the marketing of goods through salesmen; pages 13 to 15 deal with the problem of securing the highest market price for your services—no matter what your line; and the last page tells how you may get a complete set—the books bound in full vellum, covers in colors—for less than your daily smoke or shave, almost as little as your daily newspapers.

Will you read the book if we send it free? Are you not interested in new ways to increase your business or salary? Send no money. Just say, "Send me your 9,059-word book." Write this to Dept. T-7, SYSTEM, Wabash and Madison, Chicago.

Big Crowds Break Up Three London Meetings; Pelt Women with Refuse.

POLICE SAVE MILITANTS.

League Issues Manifesto Denouncing "Indignities" in Marriage Service.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 6.—The police today again saved the militant suffragets from violence at the hands of crowds which attended their meetings in Hyde Park, Hampstead Heath, and Wimbledon common. About 12,000 assembled in Hyde Park. They made such an uproar it was impossible for the speakers to make themselves heard.

The mob pelted the women with turf, orange peels, and other such things. One of the speakers was struck in the face, but was not seriously hurt. The police formed a phalanx around the wagon platform from which the women were trying to speak and prevented several attempts by the crowd to rush it.

The women left the park surrounded by a guard of mounted police. The crowd followed and yelled derisively at the women. The police barred the gates and prevented the mob from following the women into the streets.

Angry Crowd Mobs Speakers.

The speakers then drove to Hampstead Heath and tried in vain to make addresses there. The crowd made a terrific din, but the police again protected them from violence. There were 150 policemen on duty at Wimbledon common, but they were not able to protect the women entirely from the crowd.

Miss Annie Kenny and other women were handled somewhat roughly. A section of the crowd of 5,000 rushed the platform and hustled the women about. They hustled them off the crowded common and the police had the greatest difficulty in preventing what seemed likely to develop into a lynching if it were not stopped.

The police made repeated charges on the mob and eventually got the women into the house of a sympathizer with their cause. Five persons in the crowd were arrested.

The houseboats on the Thames are being watched in consequence of warnings sent out by the police that the suffragets intend to burn them.

Sentinels Guard Golf Course.

The Hoylake golf course at Liverpool, where the annual open championship will begin in June, is being watched by relays of sentinels every night, and this will be kept up until after the games.

The Spiritual Militancy League for Women's Rights, with which Lady Aberdeen, Flora Annie Steel, the novelist, and other prominent women are identified, has issued a manifesto demanding that the government pass a bill removing the "humiliations" in the marriage service of the Anglican church. It specifies fifteen so-called moral indignities to women, the "subtle giving of precedence and prominence to the bridegroom," being the essence of all the complaints. The principal indignity is, of course, to the word "obey." This, the manifesto declares, must be balanced by an equivalent to "obey" on the part of the man. The manifesto says, "It is a humiliating survival" that the woman alone is "given away"; the man should also be given away or the custom repealed.

Object to Ring Ceremony.

Other indignities are alleged in the matter of the ring and the bridegroom's accompanying declaration: "With all my worldly goods I endow thee." This is denounced because it is never true, and the government is asked to drop the ring ceremony and the formula or compel an exchange of rings and the promise of the bridegroom: "I will tell no economic falsehoods or give any moral offense."

"The seventh incitement to spiritual arrogance and tyranny," the manifesto says, "is the minister's pronouncement of the pair as man and wife, the implication that the woman is wholly the wife and of the man not wholly the husband. The petition that a man shall love his wife as Christ did the church is declared to be "an appalling humiliation to the woman and a pernicious exaltation of the man."

Criticise St. Paul's Words.

The manifesto quotes St. Paul's words, "Wives submit yourselves to your husbands," and says this is another indignity which must be counteracted by the addition of "and husbands submit yourselves to your wives."

Mrs. Pankhurst's first release from Holloway jail is expected tomorrow. The express says she is in a state of collapse in the infirmary and that her condition is serious. She has not eaten since she was taken to the jail last Thursday. She has been forcibly fed but has been resisting all the time.

Parade Capital Again Today.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—Undaunted by their hazardous march through crowded Pennsylvania avenue on March 3, a group of women representing the American suffrage movement will make their way down the avenue again tomorrow, with the United States capitol as their goal.

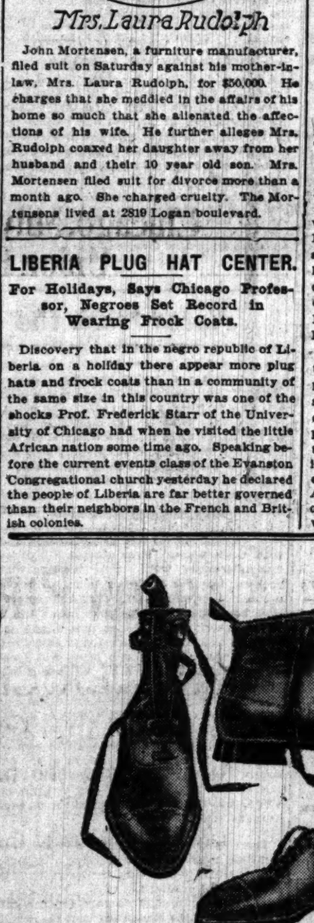

The march will be for the purpose of demonstrating to congress the national character of the demand for a constitutional amendment providing votes for women. Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama already has promised the women to introduce a resolution providing for such an amendment as soon as possible in the new congress.

The paraders will carry to congress a monster petition, representing "messages from home" in favor of the amendment.

Wife Said to Have Been Lured Away; Mother-in-Law Sued by Husband.

Mrs. Olive Mortensen

Mrs. Laura Rudolph

John Mortensen, a furniture manufacturer, filed suit on Saturday against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Laura Rudolph, for $50,000. He charges that she meddled in the affairs of his home so much that she alienated the affections of his wife. He further alleges Mrs. Rudolph coaxed her daughter away from her husband and their 10 year old son. Mrs. Mortensen filed suit for divorce more than a month ago. She charged cruelty. The Mortensens lived at 2819 Logan boulevard.

LIBERIA PLUG HAT CENTER.

For Holidays, Says Chicago Professor, Negroes Set Record in Wearing Frock Coats.

Discovery that in the negro republic of Liberia on a holiday there appear more plug hats and frock coats than in a community of the same size in this country was one of the shocks Prof. Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago had when he visited the little African nation some time ago. Speaking before the current events class of the Evanston Congregational church yesterday he declared the people of Liberia are far better governed than their neighbors in the French and British colonies.

INQUIRY ON WILSON CHARGES

Bryan Will Investigate Action Charged by Mexicans.

NAMES SUCCESSOR SOON.

Madero Forces Pleased with Notice United States Takes.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—All question in connection with the conduct of Henry Lane Wilson as American ambassador to Mexico will be settled by the early appointment of his successor.

Though it is not expected that Mr. Bryan will give any official recognition to Manuel Rojas or his charges against the American ambassador at Mexico City, it is most likely he will investigate carefully Mr. Wilson's conduct in regard to the fighting in Mexico City and his relations to Gens. Huerta and Diaz in their overthrow of the late President Madero.

To any one in Washington it is obvious that the Madero sympathizers are gratified at the publication of charges that Ambassador Wilson had a guilty knowledge of the plot to overthrow Madero and finally of the plot to kill him. They have not hesitated to add fuel to the fire whenever opportunity presented itself. It is their hope that the Huerta government may continually be presented to the American people in such a bad light that any one having anything to do with it will likewise be found in an embarrassing position.

DONS CREPE FOR MRS. PANKHURST

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop to Wear Deep Mourning Until Suffraget Is Free.

LAYS LASH ON ENGLAND.

Says Woman Was Beaten to Death There by Police and None Punished.

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop, who lives at the Chicago Beach hotel, has donned black garments from head to heels and declares she will wear nothing else until Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant English suffraget, is released from prison.

Mrs. Pankhurst is now under sentence of three years for inciting to violence.

An ardent suffragist herself, Mrs. Bishop is a close friend of the English woman and entertained the latter when she visited Chicago a year ago.

Mourns Over Blow to Cause.

"I do not wear black because woman's suffrage is dead, or because liberty is dead, but because both are sorely smitten, especially in England.

"Mrs. Pankhurst considers herself as only an incident in the cause. She puts aside her personal cares. Unselfishly she considers not herself but the great cause of humanity. Her imprisonment means that our great general has been captured by the enemy."

Both on the street and in her home Mrs. Bishop will wear black. Her hat, veil, gown, gloves, muff, and shoes all are black, and will continue so until Mrs. Pankhurst is released.

Says English Maltreat Women.

"Women have been horribly maltreated in England," Mrs. Bishop continued. "One woman who was captured after a demonstration in London was so badly beaten that she died before she arrived at the prison where she was consigned. Men did it, and men were not punished.

"Perhaps the women of this country will approve of my course. I hope so, for, though it may seem unusual, perhaps even spectacular, some means must be adopted whereby this crowning outrage may be continuously kept before the eyes of the American people."

TELLS DISTRESS IN BULGARIA

MANY DIE OF STARVATION.

With Montenegro facing possible difficulties with the powers unless it quits its bombardment of Scutari, the Turk stronghold, attention has been called to the terrible conditions existing in the Balkan states, particularly in Bulgaria, by Theodore Vladimiroff, an electrical engineer of 2837 Burling street.

The people of Bulgaria, according to Mr. Vladimiroff, are in immediate need of money for relief.

Gets Appeals from Bulgaria.

"I have a number of letters from Bulgaria," said Mr. Vladimiroff, "in which are appeals for financial help. The letters are from ministers and private individuals. They all make the same appeal, 'Send us help if you can.'

"The whole civilized world has read with astonishment of the tremendous achievements of a nation twice as big in population as that of the city of Chicago, with not one-tenth of its wealth.

"No one seems to have even given a thought of what it must all mean. It has meant this: It was not an army going to war but a whole nation. All its food, its clothing, and men are at the front.

"There are no great riches accumulated in Bulgaria, because its people are mostly farmers, shepherds, small tradesmen, or artisans. When these men went to the front, when all their surplus food and clothing was requisitioned for the support of the army in the field, the women, children, and the infirm were left at home to shift for themselves as best they could.

Few Relief Societies Formed.

"In the larger communities they have organized relief societies, taking away or buying from people who have more and giving it to those who have none, but in the smaller communities there are no such organizations, no relief societies, and no help.

"Never before in the history of the country has such suffering been known. People too proud to beg and without any food left in their bread box have been found dead in Philippopolis and other places.

"I would be only too glad to furnish the names and the addresses of responsible people in Bulgaria to whom funds could be sent for proper distribution among the poor."

MONDAY, APRIL 7, 1913.

BRING THEM HOME.

Let Secretary Bryan suggest that as a kindly and considerate act to a great nation the United States will waive all port regulations and receive back the American ladies who are making attempts on British life and property. The American militants in London, in prison and out, can be deported even if the native born cannot, and Mr. McKenna, the home secretary, may be grateful for small favors.

The difficulty thus solved will be but a small part of the whole trouble, but Mr. Bryan will be relieved of the importunities of Americans who demand intervention in behalf of the American suffragets, and Mr. McKenna will be relieved of their presence.

If there be any danger in permitting a return of the American section of the lady arson trust, we'll meet it cheerfully as an obligation.

FOR PRODUCER AND CONSUMER.

Chicago is a city of conventions and conferences, but it does not often greet a gathering whose purpose is more timely and more important than one which begins its sessions tomorrow.

It is the first national conference on marketing and farm credits. Experts in agriculture, in transportation, in banking, in economics will take part, and it is hoped a beginning will be made upon a coherent campaign for bettering and cheapening the processes which lie between the producer and the consumer, for the encouragement of intensive farming, and for the improvement of farm credits.

The interest of the public in all these results is plain enough. It is the middle charges, not the cost of production or the profit to the producer, that is making the consumer wince. As for intensive farming, that means the encouragement of a large agriculture population, a nation of small but prosperous landholders, the value of which, politically, economically, and socially hardly can be exaggerated. Finally the establishment of a sound but liberal credit system for farmers will provide the means of conservative enterprise in this field and stimulate a great advance in agriculture. Nothing could be more profitable to the nation, economically or politically.

RECOGNITION OF CHINA.

It is reported that the Japanese ambassador not only laid before Secretary Bryan the protest of his government against legislation proposed in the California legislature to restrict the rights of Japanese residents but suggested that Japan would regard it as fortunate if the United States withheld recognition of the Chinese republic until the powers could take concurrent action.

If such representations were made the excuse undoubtedly was furnished by the state department note apprising the powers of the intention of the American government to recognize the new republic April 8. The suggestion has an aspect of offensiveness, but no doubt it was so presented as to avoid that and was kept within the reasonable bounds of an acknowledgment.

It would indicate, however, the correctness of the present administration's policy with regard to China. American action never should have been dependent upon the action of other powers—not in such a matter as the recognition of a development in liberal goverament.

American candor in this instance has knocked holes in the coercive plans of the other powers with regard to the Chinese republic. They must observe an immediate response of Chinese good will to American fairness with its attendant promises of material benefits, or they must also take the right course.

A fair and honest diplomacy has proved immediately successful.

PREPARING FOR AN ENTRANCE.

It is evident that the Hon. Lawrence Y. Sherman will be a mere child caught in the wiles of the honorable and aurorean Lewis. Sherman goes piking down to Washington like a part of the ordinary help, and when the curtain rises on the next congress he'll be about as conspicuous as the solemn butler who brings in the newspapers or the pert maid who hurries across stage to answer a telephone call or a ring at the door bell.

Folk will be coming in and taking their seats, and it will be some time before they get settled down and have studied their programs to find out who's who. In the meantime the modest Sherman will have had his modest entrance.

The aurorean Lewis has too much guile for this. He has gone into retirement, seeking recuperation, recovery from fag, and preparation for Homeric statecraft. Mr. Lewis will not be in Washington when the curtain goes up. Mr. Lewis is planning an "effect."

When the favored son of Phœbus Apollo approaches the capitol the moment will be auspicious. A personage will approach and an effulgence will be seen; soft music and a rap at the door; suspense and the drawing aside of curtains; the eyes of the spectators will bulge, their breathing will be suspended, they will grip the arms of their chairs—and the aurorean one will step upon the scene.

What Mr. Sherman needs is a stage manager who would not permit him to go to Washington and get caught in the jam of preliminaries, but would hold him back for an entrance.

He'll know this when he sits in his seat and sees the Hon. James Hamilton come in triumph and suffuse the senate chamber.

THE DANCE HALL AND VICE.

No investigation of the white slave traffic and the problem of vice can afford to neglect the subject of dance halls, unless it wishes to discredit itself by confessing lack of thoroughness, or insincerity, or worse.

Doubtless the senatorial vice commission realizes this and will take up this phase of their difficult subject promptly and courageously.

Dance halls are virtually a social necessity.

As many of them are run they are traps for the young and unwary and recruiting places for the white slaver.

This is a situation which the vice commission should attack with vigor. It is tolerated. Yet it is intolerable.

In Chicago there are 328 licensed dance halls. Of this number 190, more than half, communicate directly with saloons, and, besides these, scattered throughout the city are unlicensed halls opening out of saloons.

The records of the Juvenile court and the experience of youth saving associations, notably the Juvenile Protective association, show how many young girls suffer ruin because they have been induced to take liquor at dances. The lighting of a match over an open powder barrel is no more certain of its result than the unregulated use of liquor in connection with these places of entertainment. The proof of this is readily available. The commission has only to ask for it. And when this evil is faced, there can be no doubt as to the conclusions it will force.

The dance hall should stay. But it should not be permitted to be an adjunct of the saloon, or a recruiting ground for the brothel. The reputable dance hall, resorted to by the many bona fide societies of the city, should be marked off sharply from the unregulated and often disreputable dance halls. It should no longer throw its mantle of respectability over these dangerous shame-breeding resorts.

The regulation of dance halls and the careful restriction of bar permits are two of the most urgent needs of cities. No measures for the protection of youth are more important.

THE MACHINERY OF THE LAW.

A correspondent who ironically signs himself Tax Dodger, and probably, therefore, does not dodge, expresses his disgust because an assistant state's attorney is wasting his time with an appeal of the "September Morn" censorship case. He was thinking, doubtless, of Judge Olson's list of important prosecutions neglected.

On the same point the health department raises a complaining voice.

"The Chicago river is not just the place one would like to get the ice to put in the family ice water," says the Health Bulletin, "so the health department, when it caught a man selling such stuff, promptly sued him.

"Good work? Yes, but a trifle slow, as it worked out.

"We filed the suit Feb. 23, 1912. It didn't come to trial until Feb. 15, 1913, when it was continued to Feb. 25, then to March 25, then to April 8.

"We are still in pursuit, but a trifle tired.

"In the meantime the city has paid out a tidy sum for lost time of witnesses while attending court."

Our administration of justice looks like an exhibition of futurist art.

APRIL has been doing a lot of wholly useless weeping over the mistakes of March.

"REVISION of the Tariff," a play with many elements of popularity, is staged for a long run at Washington this season.

Leaving its outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

A BASEBALL scribe reports Mr. Schulte as telling how he expects to make thirty home runs this season. Heretofore Mr. Schulte has been careful not to indulge in any flourish of trumpets when about to perpetrate a home run.

ANYWAY, those British suffragists have satisfied the main body of the audience that the drama they are performing is not a comedy.

IT seems to be up to Illinois, the great western state, to demonstrate that besides contributing liberally to the relief of the flood victims in other states it can take care of its own sufferers.

AS TO that proposed boycott on all English goods, it is going to be difficult to carry on a movement of that kind entirely by ear.

IF the government should undertake, however, to lower the level of the great lakes by running a few more thousand cubic feet of water per second through the Chicago drainage canal, it would find the process discouragingly slow.

AFTER a week or more of "high living," many a flood victim will be glad to come down from the attic and resume life on his customary level.

"CHANGE to much cooler, with frost in the central and northern states about the 6th to the 9th," is the prediction in Hicks' almanac for this part of April. Compare conditions with forecast.

NO, FELLOW citizens, it cannot be claimed for Chicago's bridges that they fit harmoniously in any scheme of a City Beautiful.

IF Mrs. Pankhurst will read the story of the life and public services of Dr. Tanner, she will discover that an earnest, resolute person may persist in a "hunger strike" for a period of forty days. Armed with this knowledge, she might persuade the prison authorities to let her go hungry.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

TUBERCULOSIS.

IN the tuberculosis exhibit Dr. Patterson, in charge of Brompton hospital, is quoted as saying: "The problem of combating tuberculosis is inseparably bound up with the abolition of insanitary dwellings and the creation of a healthy environment for the poor."

As Brompton hospital is one of the oldest consumption hospitals in the world and Dr. Patterson is one of the leading authorities of the world, this opinion is entitled to great weight.

In the same exhibit Dr. Lawrence Flick is quoted as having told the National Conference of Catholic Charities that housing is closely related to health and, through it, to efficiency. Pauperism and the burden to society which grows out of it have their chief root in bad housing. As Dr. Flick for a quarter of a century has been a close student of the relation of housing to consumption his opinion should be heeded.

This exhibit especially emphasizes two factors in spreading consumption—association in the home and association in the working place. Of the first of these they say:

"Tuberculosis is preëminently a disease of the home, because contact with the patient is close and constant."

The person whom we should especially care for is the father or mother, the husband or wife. Yet a census of any public consumption hospital shows the great majority of occupants are not family men and women. Somehow or other we are not so running those institutions as to make them appeal to people who have a home to stay in if they prefer it.

One of the points on which the exhibit lays stress is making consumption hospitals so attractive that they will protect homes—the chief citadel of the disease.

The best work done by the Tuberculosis institute during the last few years has been in working out a feasible plan for the examination of employés and in getting employers to adopt it. The well man is always in some danger from his consumptive bench mate.

The exhibit shows the success of this effort. There are now a moderate number of factories and stores where the healthy are quite well protected against contagious fellow workers, and the result is being accomplished without working any hardships.

Another improvement that is being advocated is the registry of cases of tuberculosis and the keeping of house records. For instance, a chart shows the following series of tragedies:

Act 1—A sleeping room occupied by a Scotchman. The Scotchman died of consumption. His daughter died of the disease. The mother and sons moved away.

Act 2—A Jewish family moved in after the Scotch family moved out. The father contracted consumption and died. The family moved out.

Act 3—A German family moved in. The mother died of consumption. The family moved out.

Act 4—An Irish family moved in. The father died of consumption. The family moved away.

Until April 8 the Tuberculosis institute free exhibit will be open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. on the second floor, 19 West Jackson boulevard, near State. There will be a free lecture at 12:10 each day.

The housing exhibit at the City club is open to the public free daily from 2:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m., Sundays 2 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

NEEDS MEDICAL CONTROL.

M. R. C. writes: "Some eight years ago my brother developed a goiter, which, after two years of futile, spasmodic treatment, was removed, part of the thyroid gland also being taken. By this time his nervous system seemed a wreck and his heart was being affected. Since that time he has had excellent health and gained many pounds in weight. But there has only been a slight improvement in his disposition. He has spells of such extreme temper as to frighten his nearest relatives. He seems to be cruel and thoroughly unreasonable at such times. He takes prejudices against his best friends and accuses us all of intentional misdeeds of various kinds, and especially of injustice to him, whom we are patient with. Generally when in company (and occasionally at home) he is good natured and talkative, but will not brook the slightest opposition in act or word. He delights in going contrary to all established forms, and pretends to disbelieve in Christianity or morality. In fact, he does not seem himself morally responsible at times. He is generous, even extravagant, one day, and small and mean the next; restless, at times so moody he will not speak to any one at home for days, even the smallest child coming under his ban. Ordinarily he is capable of fine business judgment, and occasionally of high ideals. By casual friends he is considered erratic; by his intimate associates he is regarded almost as unbalanced. Is there any hope that he may yet be restored to his normal self? Would thyroid extract help him? Is there any danger of his becoming decidedly worse?"

REPLY.

I should say that in this case the equilibrium, or balance, between the secretions of the ductless glands had been disturbed. There are those who think that many forms of insanity are due to disturbed balance between these secretions.

By some the thyroid has been termed the master gland in that, they say, it keeps these different secretions adjusted to each other.

Your brother would be called insane by some people, sane by others. He needs good medical direction and control. Under proper medical control thyroid could be used with fair hope.

TREATMENT FOR MIGRAINE.

D. W. writes: "What is migraine? How can it be cured or relieved?"

REPLY.

Migraine is the name given to sick headache. It is one of the features of what is sometimes called biliousness. Commonly, there is a period of heavy logheadness out of which a headache gradually develops. The headache may be attended by nausea and dizziness. Following it the mind is bright. It is something like the air after a storm.

A migraine tendency is inherited. The periodical attacks generally stop coming after the sufferer has reached 50.

To give relief nothing equals purgatives, particularly salines, rest in bed, and, in some cases, headache remedies. To prevent attacks the free use of water, temperance in eating, and a simple life in the open air constitute about all that can be done.

HAS HARMFUL EFFECT.

M. B. writes: "Will you please tell me what effect a continued use of a coal tar product for headaches, etc., will have on the heart if it is used in small quantities?"

REPLY.

Such use is moderately harmful to the heart. It is much more harmful in that it produces changes in the blood. Among other effects produced by these blood changes are headaches. Headache medicines, long continued, produce headaches.

FOOD AND FLESH.

F. K. S. writes: "Will you kindly tell me if a hot bath at night, in which Epsom salts has been dissolved, will help in reducing flesh?"

REPLY.

No. Reduce flesh by reducing food. No other way is safe. Practically no other way is efficient.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

WHILE the attention of the world is being absorbed by the diplomatic and armed conflicts which are in progress in the southeast of Europe on the subject of the territorial advantages to be derived from the Balkan war now drawing to a close, Great Britain is quietly and unobtrusively adding to her possessions in another portion of the globe.

Thus, a Canadian government cruiser, under the command of Capt. Bernier, R. N., is rounding up the numerous islands in the polar seas which lie between Canada and the north pole, and already has taken possession of half a hundred, all of which have been named, mapped, and placed under the protection of the union jack.

Stefanson, the explorer, who is a Canadian of Icelandic descent, sets out next month under the Canadian flag in search of that continent which many believe to lie between Canada and the pole. This, of course, will interfere with the claim put forward by Admiral Peary, on his return from the north pole, to all the land lying between the latter and the northern coast of Canada.

While there are many who will be disposed to scoff at the importance of these territorial acquisitions of the Canadian government in behalf of the British empire, it is well to bear in mind that similar opinions were entertained on the subject of Alaska at the time of its purchase by the United States from Russia. The administration of the day was roundly abused for wasting good American dollars—only a few millions—on a frozen waste. Alaska has now proved to be a country of almost inexhaustible mineral wealth, as well as of boundless industrial, and even agricultural possibilities. There is no reason why the islands, great and small, which Great Britain is now adding to her huge empire should not prove equally rich, at any rate in latent mineral wealth.

The collection of letters presented by the widowed Duchess of Albany to the Bodleian library at Oxford, containing the communications addressed to her husband by Lord Beaconsfield and by other leading statesmen of his day, is mainly interesting through the light which it casts on the somewhat pathetic rôle of the younger scions of the reigning houses of Europe. They have literally no career open to them, save the army or navy, no profession in which they can find a field for their activities.

Thus, the Duke of Albany, youngest son of Queen Victoria, wrote to Beaconsfield suggesting that he should be appointed permanent secretary of state for foreign affairs, offering to do the work without a salary, in view of the civil list of $125,000 a year which he received from the country. Queen Victoria, it may be remembered, took an active and controlling interest in the direction of foreign affairs, in accordance with her constitutional prerogatives, of which she was very jealous, insisting that the foreign secretary was responsible to her primarily, and only in a minor degree to parliament; and the prince, who, by reason of his dukedom of Albany occupied a seat in the house of lords, and was therefore a member of parliament, considered that he could fulfill much the same rôle in connection with the foreign affairs of the nation, and as intermediary between his mother, the queen, and parliament in the matter, as the Royal Duke of Cambridge, then commander in chief of the army, did in military affairs. Disraeli's reply, showing the unpopularity of the plan, and the danger to the crown, was a masterpiece of polite refusal.

Infinitely more curt and less courteous was the refusal of the fifteenth Lord Derby, secretary of state for the colonies, when the Duke of Albany wrote to him expressing his wish to become governor general of Canada, or even governor of the colony of Victoria, the Australian commonwealth not being then in existence.

The duke was debarred by his delicate health from an active military career, although he held honorary rank in the army. He was exceedingly clever, a man, in one word, of brilliant attainments, who was eager to turn these to some account. Yet just because he happened to be a son of the sovereign he found no outlet for his energies. Had he survived he might now be sovereign duke of the German duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, the throne of which is at present occupied by his only son and namesake, who succeeded thereto owing to the refusal of the Duke of Connaught, and of Prince Arthur of Connaught, to accept it.

It is this anxiety to do something for his native land that led the Duke of Connaught, after he had been eliminated by means of discreditable intrigue from any further participation in the direction of the destinies of the British army, to seek the governor generalship of Canada, which the present colonial secretary, Lewis Harcourt, more enlightened than the late Lord Derby, was only too glad to place at his disposal.

In Bavaria we find princes of the blood who do not hanker after a purely military career turning their attention to medicine, Prince Louis Ferdinand having achieved fame as a gynecologist, while the late Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria was one of the most successful and celebrated oculists in Europe up to the time of his death, both princes giving their services to the poor for nothing.

In Russia the Grandduke Nicholas Michaelalovitch devotes himself wholly to literature, and has achieved international eminence as one of the most truthful historians, his works being of extraordinary value, by reason of the facilities which he enjoys of access to archives and state papers beyond the reach of ordinary mortals.

Prince Eugene of Sweden is a professional painter of considerable success and distinction, while the late King Edward's sister, Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, has added each year considerably to her allowance from the state by means of her chisel, as a sculptress.

Prince August William of Prussia has made a special study of law and of administrative work in order to fit himself for the duties of civilian governor general of Alsace-Lorraine, or, failing that, of some Prussian province, lacking the military inclinations of the kaiser's other sons. But greatly to his disgust and disappointment, it has not been considered politic as yet to turn his attainments to account in the manner which he desires.

Rise like a prison round me—and the song

How deathlike on my ear its accent falls!

They move—the weak, the lowly, and the strong,
Dark hosts whom passion's bitter night enthralls!

Thin, wretched phantoms of themselves they seem—
Power and wealth and penury and shame
Commingled like the colors of a dream!
From day to day I see with pain the same
Sad life! Oh, thousands for a single breath
Of mountain air to save me from this death!

Communications to this department MUST be signed by the full name and address of the writers. No attention will be paid to letters unless they are so signed. This is important to note, as many answers are sent by mail direct to the writer. Pen names may be used if so desired, but for our benefit you must give us your full name and address.

NOTICE NOT NECESSARY.

Chicago, March 26.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me whether the law requires a tenant whose lease expires April 30, 1913, to give the landlord notice that he is going to move then or can he wait until that date and move without saying anything to said landlord as to what his intention is.

W. W. W.

A notice is unnecessary.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MUST DELIVER THE GOODS.

Chicago, March 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me how long the railroad company is supposed to hold a shipment of freight, an interstate shipment, before they can legally sell for storage and freight charges.

I made a shipment Sept. 1, 1912, and did not get trace of it until January this year and now find that same has been sent to the railroad's general warehouse and I am unable to get any reply to my correspondence in regard to disposition. I am ready and willing to receive same when I can ascertain charges, etc.

H. F. G.

The railroad must deliver this shipment to you or pay you its value in money. It is possible that you are also entitled to damages for the failure to deliver these goods in a reasonable time. If necessary you should bring suit to enforce your claim.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHOULD MAKE WILLS.

Chicago, March 27.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In real estate business, stocks and bonds, moneys all told, we are worth about $20,000, just about enough for my wife or I to live on in case of my wife or I dying, if she or I could keep it all. My wife has four brothers and I have a brother and a sister. We have no children. Kindly advise me what to do so that my wife or I can keep what we have.

F. W. M.

You should make a will leaving your property to your wife, and your wife should make a will leaving her property to you. This will cut off any claim of the brothers and sister of yourself and wife.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CERTIFICATE OF BANK STOCK.

Chicago, April 1.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly tell me how a certificate of bank stock should read, where I paid $125 a share. The bank is capitalized at $100,000, surplus $50,000. How should my receipt read?

ANDREW.

You should receive a stock certificate issued in your name, showing on its face how many shares of stock are owned by you. As the shares of stock are undoubtedly of a par value of $100 each, this amount will appear on the face of the certificate and not the $125 which you pay for a share. You will also be entitled to a receipt showing the actual amount of money which you pay for this stock certificate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

POSSESSION OF A PIANO.

Albia, Ia., March 26.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a minor, 17 years old, and contracted for a piano. Being unemployed at present and behind on my payments, can they take the piano away from me? If they should push me, isn't this contract null and void on account of my being a minor?

B.

If you signed the usual form of contract or mortgage when you purchased this piano the company can take back the piano when you fail behind in your payments. In the event that they take the piano you are entitled to receive the money already paid.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHILDREN SHOULD SUPPORT FATHER.

Chicago, April 1.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My father-in-law is too old to work and has children that can very well support him, but don't do it. Can the law compel me to support him if I don't want to, and if he dies can the children sue me for funeral expenses?

A. S.

You are not obliged to support your father-in-law. His children are legally responsible for his support and the county attorney, fifth floor courthouse building, will start a suit to force them to provide for him.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOTARY'S DUTIES.

Chicago, March 27.—To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What are the duties connected with the office of a notary public? 2. Has a notary the authority to marry couples? 3. Are there any fixed charges for the work he performs?

REGISTERING A HAIR TONIC.

Chicago, April 1.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I am figuring on placing a new hair tonic on the market and would be obliged if you would advise through your columns if it is necessary for me to present the formula to the government for analysis. If so, the department and official to address, also is it necessary that the ingredients contained be shown on the label?

S. A. A.

A WIFE'S INTEREST.

Chicago, April 1.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Please inform me how much is a wife entitled to if her husband sold his property and it was mortgaged for one-half its value.

R. F.

The only interests which a wife has in her husband's real estate are homestead and dower. These are waived when the wife signs the ordinary form of deed, and the wife cannot claim any of the purchase price paid to the husband.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ITS FATHER'S NATIONALITY.

Chicago, March 27.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If Irish parents are leaving their home in Ireland, sailing on a German steamship for America, where they intend to make their home, have born to them a child in mid-ocean, to what country does the child belong?

WALTER W. EVANS.

The nationality of a child is that of its father. If the father becomes a citizen of the United States upon coming of age the child will be a citizen of the United States.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Chicago, March 28.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife, before I knew her, contracted a debt with a furniture company, of which I knew nothing until recently. They are now demanding payment from me. Can they attach my salary and am I responsible for this obligation?

L.

Notes from the Omaha Tornado.

A SQUARE house is better than one with hump roof projections. Avoid projections of outline. A flat roof is better than a stub roof. The latter causes much stress on the leeward wall. Large sized framing timbers, the old fashioned mortise and tenon sills well anchored to foundation, roof well anchored to frame, nails long and numerous [not wire nails], small panes of glass, all are desirable.

A brick house will resist a tornado if built with cement mortar and good bonding and with thick walls. Poor cement will cause loss of leeward wall. Poor bonding with backing, whether of tile or brick, will cause the face layer to drop off. Tile, well cemented, are good if well bonded into face work.

With poorly built houses it is dangerous to go to the cellar. The ruins of house will bury those in cellar; gas pipes will leak, causing suffocation or fire. A cyclone cellar annex to a cellar should have an exterior outlet. With poor brickwork it is dangerous to go to the cellar. Attics should be avoided.

A well built frame house may be carried off bodily without serious harm to the occupants whether in the house or in the cellar. Houses may be turned over or even upside down, and still go through the tornado without being broken up.

There is some danger from flying objects, but less near the ground than a few feet higher. A ditch or hole in the ground is a good place for safety.

The chief causes of damage are the gale in advance of the tornado proper, the rapidly rotating circumference of air filled with debris, and the vacuum of the interior. There is a blowing over or carrying up—a pounding from the circumference; and a suction by the interior vacuum. The pounding drives much glass into interior wood work and furniture. The vacuum sucks many objects out of most rooms, but in many cases furniture, beds, even jars of preserves with tops off were left undisturbed, with the outer wall gone. The first floor leeward rooms are generally the safest, if one keeps well away from outer walls. The suction is generally less from these rooms.

If roof boarding is left somewhat open, portions only of the roof covering may be removed by the exploding inside air in place of the whole roof being removed. Confined air in trunks or closets may cause these to burst open with removal of contents. Leave windows and doors open on leeward side of house.

Glass in windows is generally broken in or out, except for a ragged edge about an inch or less in width around the sash, making an uncomfortable form for exit of occupants of the room when the suction comes.

Injuries to persons are more numerous about the head than lower, except where limbs are broken when persons are carried by the storm.

In a steel building the filler walls are promptly knocked in or blown out. A skyscraper would be badly damaged, and apparently a very unsafe form of building. Low steel garages were badly wrecked, as to filler walls intermediate of the steel posts, and occupants killed or injured. In general any buildings involving the use of mortar should be avoided unless it is known that the mortar and bonding are good. The three buildings in Omaha where the large loss of life happened were of poor brickwork or filled walls.

The tornado traveled at rate of speed variously estimated at sixty to 140 miles per hour. In either case its time in traversing a width of a house is so little that its passage seemed hardly more than a sudden blow. But little can be noted or remembered regarding the actual tornado in its passage.

The approach of a tornado in daytime can be seen for a material part of a minute or more, giving considerable time for seeking safe location. Its path being generally from one-eighth to one-quarter mile wide, a nimble runner going at right angles to its path might reach safety if not at first near the center line of this path.

The area of the path of any tornado is a small a percentage of the total area either of a city or of a county or state that the chances of being injured are insignificant for inhabitants generally. The percentage of those in a tornado who are injured is so small that a tornado is really much less dangerous than a railway train or electric car. For a tornado one can duck as well as dodge.

In Omaha those killed were fewer than one in 1,500, those injured ferew than one in 400. Very many of the better houses, in fact, most of them, while badly distorted often, were in such substantially good shape after the tornado as to be safe places for occupants, although cost of removal or repair might be very heavy.

Frame houses received much shelter from large brick structures to the windward. Many one story houses tucked in between higher ones, either frame or brick, were almost uninjured. Such local shelter seems to have much more value than any range of hill, as the Omaha tornado moved with much indifference over hills or in hollows.

The low pressure of the vacuum had a marked effect on persons troubled with heart or respiratory maladies. One person described the heart action as resembling in sensation what an alarm clock in action resembles in sound.

Most persons, noting the powerful action of tornadoes in driving material through trees and walls, and in twisting objects, have assumed that a tornado means destruction of everything in its path. Its approach was supposed to be so rapid that none could avoid it by flight, even laterally to its path. In Omaha fewer than one in twelve of those in the tornado's path were injured, fewer than one in seventy-five were killed. If all the buildings in the storm path had been of good construction, probably not one in a hundred would have been injured, or one in a thousand killed.

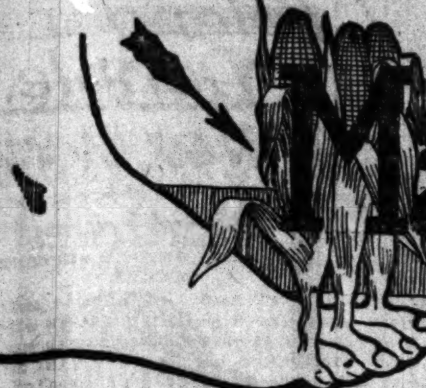

If residents would get clearly in mind that a tornado is far from being necessarily fatal or even injurious to person, and that prompt action in a well built residence will almost always insure safety, much anxiety about tornadoes can be avoided.

These tornadoes come generally in the afternoon, when they can be noted in advance. There are usually peculiar sky conditions giving warning. The tornado follows usually a fairly direct path, and usually from southwest to northeast. If it were considered simply as a huge and not necessarily destructive injurious locomotive, which one can avoid or remain under with safety, it would be a fairly nearly correct view of tornado danger.

Almost everywhere in the Mississippi watershed such tornadoes occur, except in the extreme northwest and west portions. The watershed is the richest, and will be the most populous, portion of our country. Proper building construction will reduce damage to a very small amount.

A rigid building inspection and rigid laws for country as well as city would eliminate the flimsy buildings in which the vast majority of deaths and injuries occur, although "bucking a tornado" will soon become a popular form of amusement.

The most common ills that afflict civilized man today are foot troubles. Tender, aching and crippled feet do more than any one thing to lessen business efficiency and interfere with pleasure. Nature's sure penalty for neglect of the feet is the misery of corns, callouses, bunions, broken down arches, weak ankles, pains in the limbs, enlarged joints and tarsal heads, soreness, tenderness and deformity. Eight out of ten persons you meet on the street are suffering from one or several of these complaints. Which are bothering you? If any, do not delay the cure until lasting damage is done. Comfort Comes When the Cause of Your Trouble Is Removed

Nearly all foot troubles are caused by wearing ill-fitting shoes made over commercial wooden lasts. Martin Larson, Chicago's master foot specialist, first realized this fact over twenty-seven years ago and found a remedy in shoes that FIT ALL PARTS of the feet as Nature intended them to be fitted.

He originated and perfected the

Larson Plaster Paris Cast System

By this system each person's feet are reproduced into individual lasts and the shoes are scientifically built on these lasts. Results attained through twenty-seven years' experience prove this method to be the ONLY one that gives instant relief and lasting health to aching feet.

Martin Larson's specially designed shoes have relieved more suffering humanity than all the foot "treatments" and foot "easers" ever devised. His twentieth century footwear is known from coast to coast as a true godsend to suffering humanity. To his shop the year round comes a flood of "repeat" orders for shoes from grateful customers who know that Larson shoes do exactly what he states for them.

Martin Larson Extension Shoes

Of all the Larson foot specialties none has called forth more general approval and gratitude than the M. L. Extension Shoe. By its use hundreds of those who have deformed and crippled feet are now walking with the grace and ease of normal people. There is no need to hobble along on crutches or wear painful iron braces, when my M. L. Extension Shoes will hide every trace of your deformity and support the limb in a way that means real comfort. They are light, serviceable and shaped in up-to-date style. Regular price, $15.00 and up, according to requirements.

Larson Anatomic Sta-Right Shoes

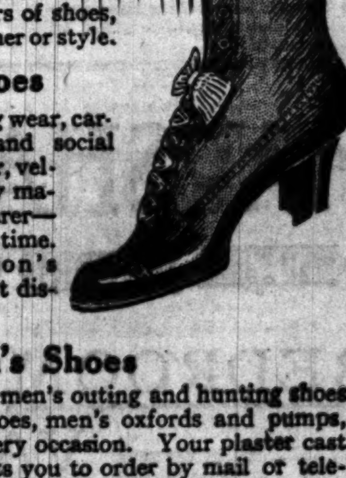

These shoes are expressly designed to correct flat feet, weak ankles and broken down arches. They are scientifically reinforced with steel plates at the instep and whalebone stays in the uppers. This construction keeps the arch bone in its proper place, the ankles erect and the whole foot in the position that is natural and easy. If you only realized the joyous, springy feeling and improved powers of walking that Larson's "Sta-Right" shoes will give, you would not delay a moment in getting your feet into a pair. Regular price, $15 and up, according to requirements.

Larson "Corn-Cure" Shoes

Under this name Martin Larson offers a type of shoe that actually cures corns, callouses, bunions by removing the real cause of them. The shoe is so shaped and strongly fashioned as to lift the pressure from tender spots along the toes, and sides and soles of the feet. This needless leather pressure produces the agonizing discomfort of corns and their like. You who have used the knife, salves and plasters in vain, be good to yourself—wear a pair of Larson's "Corn-Cure" shoes. Regular price, $15 and up according to requirements.

Martin Larson's Bench-Made Shoes for Well Feet

Once Martin Larson has your plaster cast, it is the simplest thing in the world to order shoes. Indeed, he has customers in Europe who send every year for many pairs of shoes, simply specifying the leather or style.

FINDS ARENA SEATING 100

Cackles from Gunny Sacks Reveal Presence of Spurred Warriors.

Twelve game roosters, trained to the ounce, crowed warlike defiance from their twelve cages alongside the pit in the rear of the Sanitary Hotel and Livery Stable at Sag yesterday afternoon.

Half a dozen other roosters, equally as well trained, physically and vocally, announced, through gunny sacks, that they were ready to enter the pit and cavort on the tan bark until death took their adversaries. And a dozen roosters, scheduled to do battle with the dozen and a half already in Sag, flapped their wings restlessly in suit cases and sacks on the way to the general seat of the poultry war in the little village of Sag. Unexpectedly, however, the battle was postponed.

All Aboard for Sag.

Sag is twenty-five miles from Chicago by way of the Archer avenue cars and the Chicago and Joliet interurban. One passes by miles of unsettled territory where lilac buds burst open and frogs announce the advent of spring before the little city is reached.

Word came to Hugo Krause, humane officer, that chicken fanciers of Chicago, Milwaukee, Joliet and Rockport, had been carefully tying gaffs to the legs of trained and dieted roosters on Sunday afternoons and then throwing the roosters into the pit, two at a time. Krause, with two deputies, went to Sag yesterday afternoon. It was noticed that quite a number of young men bought tickets for Sag at the interurban office.

Fans Grow Suspicious.

The rooster fans and the humane officers left the car at Sag. The fans were suspicious They separated and drifted into three saloons. Krause went to the Sanitary hotel and livery stable—that is, the saloon part—which is in the majority. A short fat bartender and a woman equally as short and a little fatter served drinks.

"I'm a trainer of game roosters," Krause told the bartender in a confidential tone. "A friend invited me down here to a fight today."

"Yes, sir," the bartender said, "you're in the right town. We are going to have a few of the birds slap each other a bit in the pit back of the saloon, but the rest of the boys are a little suspicious of you. They say you're a deputy. But I'll fix it for you."

Bags Go Back Unopened.

The rest of the fifty or more game bird bugs, however, surmised that Mr. Krause was a sheriff. They held whispered conversations. Stell and the trainer of his cocks got off the car from Lockport. An emissary from the group at the Sanitary hotel and livery stable bar met them half way up the path from the station and told them to "turn right around and go back."

They did. They trotted back. A little later two other men carrying gunnysacks got off the car. One might have suspected that they carried cats in the sacks if the roosters hadn't crowed.

Jack Dorney, large, fat, and a raiser of game chickens since he was 3 years old, stepped to the front.

"Boys, it's all off," he said. "This here man is the sheriff, and we can't pull off nothing while he's here. Take the birds back. Gosh, it's aggravating to be bothered this way."

Humane Officer Krause found a pit in the rear of the Sanitary Hotel and Livery Stable. The pit, regulation size, with the floor covered with tan bark, was surrounded with circus seats for a hundred. Cages for fifty birds were in one end of the room.

Eighteen roosters with their seconds boarded the car with Humane Officer Krause and returned to Chicago. Some of the fans boasted that a little match would be pulled off after the officers left.

Later we will print on the back of each ballot a letter asking the signer to tell what he has done, and the cost. In this way we hope to get 10,000 farmers to spend $1,000,000 within a year on beautifying the farm.

CHICAGO, March 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The article by Henry M. Hyde in Sunday's TRIBUNE was interesting, but your conclusion I cannot agree with. Because lawyers and judges ball things up is not against the law.

You think if Chicago had a new charter things would be better, saying the one we have was "adopted when Chicago was comparatively a country village." Chicago has no charter—does not need one. It had one from 1837 to 1872; since then we operate under the legislative act for cities.

For a great many years, since the charter proposition has been adjusted, I have never been able to understand why every newspaper in Chicago persists in saying that Chicago is under the charter of 1837, when they certainly must know it is not.

Those who seek reform had better speak the truth, and if they do not know, ask somebody. How can you ask for new law not knowing what the old is?

JAMES MEANS.

CHICAGO, March 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is rather disheartening to see our streets, boulevards, and parks disfigured by flying pieces of newspaper, chewing gum wrappers, transfer slips, fruit, paper bags, and the like, thrown away by selfish and careless persons.

In many European cities they have laws which are strictly enforced to stop this common evil, and they seem to have success over there.

I do not, however, believe in a similar success for Chicago or any other large city in the United States, because we do not, as a rule, enforce our many good laws as strictly as they do abroad. Free and voluntary work by the citizens, I believe, will bring better results.

For a long time I have myself made it a practice never to throw any papers into the public streets. What is given to me in form of advertising bills, cards, etc., I always put in my pocket, from which I transfer to the waste basket in my office or at home. Now, if this could be a general practice it would do a good deal toward solving the clean city problem.

No doubt many persons have had the same idea and are practicing it, but I believe merely the mention of what we voluntarily are doing would bring us followers by the thousand.

The signs in street cars prohibiting spitting have cured many of our citizens of this insanitary habit. In fact, a man who spits on the sidewalk or in a street car nowadays is not considered a gentleman; neither is the policeman who neglects to arrest him or, instead, to let him wipe up the spit he has deposited for the discomfort of his fellow citizens.

Difficulties Bring Out the True Strength and Character of an Institution as well as of men

WHATEVER temporary inconvenience may have been caused to The B. F. Goodrich Company by the derangement of Akron's working conditions, brought about through the instigation and appeal of business destroyers, is perhaps more than offset by the resultant attention directed to its clean-cut, high-grade good will policy, coupled with the resourcefulness that speaks for the organization and equipment of the Greatest Rubber Factory in the World.

¶ The B. F. Goodrich Company is today larger and greater than ever. Fortunately no flood damage came to the Goodrich Factory. It is running full time and never was in a better position to care for customers' orders with dispatch.

¶ Witness—A Car Load of Goodrich Tires and Rubber Boots expressed to Dayton on Sunday, March 30th, in response to an urgent call from the Dayton Relief Association.

¶ Witness—A Car Load of Goodrich Washout Hose expressed to the same city on Monday, March 31st, in response to a further call from the relief workers.

¶ All this to prove that the working ability today of the Goodrich factory is not impaired or diminished in any particular whatsoever. The Goodrich factory stands where it has always stood—the first and greatest well-spring of Akron's prosperity and fame, and your best source of everything that's good in rubber.

FAVOR 'TRIBUNE'S' WIRELESS PLAN

RECENT FLOODS A LESSON

Federal Officials Begin Devising Means to Supplement Telegraph Service.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 6.—[Special.]—In all likelihood the United States government will adopt the suggestion of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the establishment of a network of wireless telegraph stations linking every important center of the country.

Appalled by the effects of the terrific storms and floods which have devastated states of the middle west, government officials have set about devising means to alleviate the distress involved in such catastrophes. They promptly realized that the most important step to be taken is to provide for the maintenance of communication under all circumstances.

A storm of the intensity of that which destroyed Omaha and other cities and wiped out small towns, picked up telegraph poles as if they were matches and thus destroyed the telegraph service in the district affected. The floods also washed away telegraph poles.

The American Telegraph and Telephone company has spent a large sum in building an underground line from Washington to Boston through Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York. To extend the system everywhere would require a staggering outlay especially if made at once.

Earnest Approval of Plan.

Regarding the immediate building of underground circuits as impracticable, government officials give earnest approval to THE TRIBUNE'S proposal that wireless stations be established in comparatively close proximity to each other throughout the length and breadth of the land. Besides those in the coast artillery districts, the army signal corps now has sixteen stations in continental United States, six in the Philippine islands, six in Alaska, and one in Hawaii.

The stations in the United States are at Fort Andrews, Mass.; Fort H. G. Wright, N. Y.; Fort Hancock, N. J.; Fort Leavenworth, Kas.; Fort Lefett, Me.; Fort Monroe, Va.; Fort Omaha, Neb.; Presidio of San Francisco; Fort Totten, N. Y.; Fort Wood, N. Y.; Fort Worden, Wash.; signal corps laboratory, Washington D. C.; Fort Stevens, Ore.; bureau of standards, Washington, D. C., and Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

The navy department has wireless stations at Arlington, Va., and at various points on the coast and outlying possessions.

Stations Now Far Apart.

All these government stations are far apart. What the government officials propose is to erect stations across the country from New York to San Francisco and from Chicago to the gulf. These stations will be open to commercial use, just as is the wireless on board army transports.

A proposition of this kind undoubtedly will be assailed by the private wireless companies, one of which, the Federal, has a plant in Chicago and contemplates the erection of stations elsewhere.

A powerful wireless station such as the navy has at Arlington Va., costs $300,000. With numerous stations but a short distance from each other, not so much power would be required, and the cost would amount to only a few thousand dollars each according to the Bureau of Standards.

All of the wireless experts agree that radio communication could be maintained, though under some difficulty, during a tornado. The important thing to look out for would be to make the station so strong that it could not be swept away by high winds or floods.

Use of Steel Towers Urged.

"The suggestion made by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the establishment of a chain of wireless stations is excellent," said Rear Admiral Phillip Andrews, retiring chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department. "There is no doubt wireless communication could be maintained, provided the plant was not destroyed. If steel towers were erected the chances are they would stand."

Rear Admiral Cone, chief of the bureau of steam engineering, who has charge of wireless telegraphy under the navy, also indorsed THE TRIBUNE'S proposal.

"Communication should be maintained under all circumstances," he said. "I am satisfied wireless telegraphy furnishes the proper solution for this problem."

Mules Carry Small Outfits.

Each coast artillery district is supplied with a wireless plant. In addition there are so-called wagon wireless plants powerful enough to send messages 100 miles and plants small enough to be transported on mule back which send messages twenty-five or thirty miles.

"I believe it would be an admirable thing," the general said, "if the country were criss-crossed with wireless stations. In time of need they would be of real service."

Dr. Edward B. Rosa, acting chief of the bureau of standards and secretary of the international commission on electrical units and standards, asserted THE TRIBUNE'S plan deserved hearty support.

"There's a lot of sentiment," he continued, "in favor of the government having control of these wireless stations. Many people believe it would be a good thing if the navy department should take over all the commercial companies and serve the public. Wireless is peculiarly suited to government ownership."

SON OF AMERICAN PLANTER SLAIN IN DUEL WITH CUBAN.

Rivalry for Woman's Affections Said to Have Caused Fatal Engagement on the Field of Honor.

Havana, April 6.—Rudolph Warren, son of Jere Warren, a prominent American sugar planter, died tonight from a pistol wound in the abdomen, which he received in a duel yesterday with Hannibal Mesa, a member of a wealthy Cuban family.

The two young men were reputed to be rivals for a woman's affections. Mesa challenged Warren, which conferred the choice of weapons on Warren. The duel was at thirty-five paces. Warren fell at the first fire. Mesa was not harmed.

Warren was taken to a hospital, where he made a statement to the police that he had accidentally shot himself. Immediately after the duel Mesa sailed for New York. The Cuban government is taking measures to procure the arrest and extradition of Mesa on his arrival in New York.

DANGER AT CAIRO FOR WEEK MORE

Feared Rise in Mississippi Will Back Up Waters of Ohio and Cause Flood.

CLOSE GUARD ON LEVEES.

Relief Stations Will Be Established at Various Points Below Hemmed-In City.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Cairo, Ill., April 6.—[Special.]—Thwarted up to the present in its effort to scale the ramparts of Cairo, the Ohio river has changed its tactics of sudden onslaughts and is now laying siege to the city.

The present advances of the water are almost imperceptible, but the rise is steady, and will be until after Tuesday, according to the local weather observer. By that time it is officially predicted the river will have passed the fifty-five foot level.

This means that probably for another week the water will remain at high stage in the Ohio. In the meantime the Mississippi river may have a sudden rise and then the Ohio river, unable to have as great an outlet, will be held back, with the certainty of a rising gauge.

Fear Revolt Among Laborers.

Cairo is in total darkness, forcing workers on the levee to quit. There was a rumor of growing unrest among the labor gang, and it was feared this element might take advantage of the excitement in the darkness to revolt.

At Mound City the question is even more critical. There the bulkheads on top of the levees are not strengthened as they are in Cairo, and much doubt is being expressed as to their endurance against the buffeting of the mighty current.

An expedition of naval reserves and members of the Chicago life saving station rescued twenty-five persons on a mound at Birds Hill, Mo., near here. They were brought here. At East Cairo, Ky., thirty-six persons were found on a bridge approach, where they had taken refuge from the rising waters.

Thirty-five blocks of the residence district of Harrisburg are reported flooded by water overflowing the embankment of the Big Four railroad. All the families had moved out.

No Public Works Relief.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—The Ohio Red Cross relief commission has decided that not a dollar of its funds shall be expended for public works of any character, but shall be devoted exclusively to restoring stricken families to normal life.

Congress this week is expected to pass a resolution appropriating $2,000,000 for the benefit of the Ohio flood sufferers and $1,000,000 for Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky.

SING FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

IN AUDITORIUM THEATER.

Tickets Still Obtainable for "The Tribune" Concert.

Berlioz's oratorio "The Damnation of Faust" will be heard at the Auditorium tonight for the first time in eleven years, given by the full chorus of 300 voices of the Apollo Musical club, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and with four soloists—Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien, soprano; George Harris Jr., tenor; Herbert Miller, baritone; and Leon Rains of the Dresden opera, bass baritone. Harrison Wild will conduct.

Proceeds of the concert, given under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE, will go toward the relief of the flood sufferers, being appplied to the state fund for aiding the people who lost their homes in the disaster. The advance sale of seats has been surprisingly good, but there remain a number in various parts of the house, obtainable at the Apollo club's office at Lyon & Healy's music store, Wabash avenue and Adams street.

Hold Final Rehearsal.

The final rehearsal was held yesterday afternoon with the entire membership of orchestra and chorus present. In different parts of the house were a few outsiders, some familiar with the score, some entirely unfamiliar and anxious to get a favored hearing before the performance.

The oratorio is tremendously impressive. In the scope of its emotions and its manners of presentation it is not only original; it is peculiar to itself, for as there was no predecessor, so there has been no successful imitator. Liszt and Wagner both learned something from the work, but in the compositions of neither is there such a surprising variety.

The oratorio offers airs and choruses and orchestral interludes varying from the jubilant drinking song in old Auerbach's cellar to the fragile pastoral of the meadows, the Easter hymn, the rhapsodic Rakocsy march, essentially Hungarian, the serenade of Mephisopheles, the furious dash to hell with the awe inspiring reality of the tone picture at the close.

Performances in 1881.

There were performances of the work here prior to that of eleven years ago—the three in 1881, when the late Theodore Thomas, the great master of the present Symphony orchestra, conducted his orchestra and a "grand chorus." This was thirty-five years after the work's first hearing in Paris in 1846.

BALKAN WILTON RUGS AT VERY SPECIAL PRICES.

Balkan Wilton Rugs, because of their coloring and texture, give much the effect of Orientals. We are featuring a few patterns taken from regular lines to be sold at very special prices. The heavy texture, high pile and extra hard wearing qualities of the Balkan Rugs make them ideal for dining rooms, living rooms, libraries, offices and public reception rooms.

It is our sincere recommendation that customers take advantage of the very low prices on this special line. If desired we will hold Rugs purchased now for future delivery.

NEW DOCTRINE BRINGS APPLAUSE

Dr. Albert Parker Fitch Says Survival of Unfittest Is Latest Tenet.

AT ORCHESTRA HALL.

Tells Sunday Evening Club Audience Jesus Always Was Right.

"The new Christian doctrine is the survival of the unfittest. We know that nature and human nature tend to follow the line of least resistance, but Jesus said the straight and narrow path is the way that leads to light and understanding. And Jesus had a most uncomfortable way of always being right."

These declarations, coming as an anti-climax to an elucidation of modern ethical ideas by Dr. Albert Parker Fitch, president of Andover Theological seminary, brought a burst of applause from an audience that crowded even the gallery of Orchestra hall at the services of the Sunday Evening club last night.

Idea Provokes Challenge.

Dr. Fitch opened his sermon with the text from Matthew: "Strait is the gate and narrow is the path that leadeth to the light, and few there be that find it."

"We are a pleasure loving people," he said, "and this ancient idea provokes a challenge in the twentieth century man. We find it not only distasteful, but we even question its validity. It hints of a sentiment that is puritanical. Revolt against it is natural. We seek an expression of life along the line of least resistance. We know the planets take an easy and natural course. If the law of planetary movement were such that they moved in the straight and narrow paths of restrictions, chaos would ensue. Nature and human nature always has led the life that is easiest to lead.

"Our ancestors, a strong and sturdy people, built their homes on the banks of rivers or in the lowlands; they did not seek habitation upon rugged slopes. We are the descendants of these people, who represented a splendidly aggressive, magnificently brutal exploitation of self.

Told to Take Hardest Path.

"And yet we are told to accept the command to follow the path that is hardest to follow—we, the descendants of a courageous, fighting, struggling race of Anglo-Saxons. I live like my forbears. I, too, hear the call 'come and exploit yourself.' My ethics are those of the strong, not the weak. Man's power, domination, strength, courage, success have loomed up a great and desirable end. Was not Bismarck right when he gave his doctrine of blood and iron, unweakened by love, sentiment, and weakening things?

"How many in this audience have seriously tried for a moment to stay in the strait and narrow path? It is against our natural impulses. We want freedom, pleasure, success. We have seen men rule, lead in power, and become known among men by their exploitation of self. Why should we conform to this command given by Jesus 2,000 years ago to an undeveloped people in a country wholly different from ours?

Jesus Was Right.

"But Jesus was right. He had a most uncomfortable way of always being right.

"If you want strength of character, power that is great and just, you must struggle along the path of the greatest resistance.

"Character is the only infinitely precious thing in life. A man who loses self-respect has nothing left for him. The man who knows he has paid the price for the inner rectitude, knows his struggle has been a hard and serious one against his natural inclinations and desires.

"He knows that the only way to get ahead is to rise again when he has fallen and push forward. All of us have times when we want to satisfy the physical being instead of the spiritual, but we also know that we are less a man when we make the easiest choice.

"A temperate spirit, a devout life, and an unfaltering will is the reward of the struggle against the easiest path. It is the sign of character."

POLICE RAID "BLIND PIG" DENS.

Territory Annexed to Evanston Begins Cleanup—Two Raids Net Thirteen Prisoners.

In preparation for the expected cleanup in the newly annexed "blind pig" territory west of Evanston the police yesterday began cleaning up their own town. The result was two raids, one on a lodging house and one on a garage, netting thirteen prisoners, cards, and a small amount of currency. The raids were made by Assistant Chief Robert Johnson and his brother Arthur. Seven chauffeurs arrested put up their own bonds. The names of their employers were not ascertained.

SAYS LUXURY LURES PASTORS

Minister Criticises Desertion of Downtown Churches.

FINDS MARTYR SPIRIT GONE.

Needed Most of All, Declares the Rev. Johnston Myers.

Ministers who abandon the center of the city for the suburbs lack the spirit of the martyr, according to the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, Michigan avenue and Twenty-third street, who preached yesterday morning on "The Place and Problem of the Downtown Church."

"The retreat of the churches from the center of the city to the suburbs is due to the weakness of the leaders of the churches," he said. "If the spirit which made martyrs had been in our ministry not one downtown church would have been abandoned. The church is the best and most effective force for uplifting and reforming the city, and the place for the church must be in the heart of the city, downtown.

Stupendous Blunder.

"What has occurred in this matter, however, presents one of the most stupendous blunders the churches and the city combined have committed. By removing to the suburbs the churches and the city have both lost. The temptation to live in a beautiful home, surrounded by culture, has been too great, and the downtown pastors, in too many instances, have yielded to the temptation and have voted with the people to move the church. They have been unable to readjust the life of the church and to solve the more difficult problems.

"The people have had a wrong conception of their relation to the church. They have come for what they could get of entertainment and inspiration rather than for what they could give forth.

Question of Realty Values.

"The community has looked upon the church as only a Sunday proposition, and saw no reason why it should occupy valuable ground for strictly religious purposes.

"If the thought of helping people seven days in the week in material as well as in spiritual things had been in the minds of the church membership the old church would have been more useful than ever before.

"The change of view that will save the downtown churches is the one that will place, not the weakest, but the ablest, ministers in the denomination at the head of the downtown church. We send the strong men to care for the cultured people of the suburbs and the weaker men too often to the more terrific task of the downtown church.

Needs Best Church of Any.

"The building itself should be equipped more beautifully and more completely than any other building in the locality. It should send out its ministers healing, helping, feeding, clothing, and comforting seven days in the week. Such an institution will have as great a work to do as the hotel, the school, or the business house. It will have a work to do that no other institution can perform.

"The downtown church may constitute the most beautiful and the sweetest of all the places in the center of the city's busy life."

Decries Dance Hall Annex.

The establishment of billiard rooms and dance halls in churches was decried by Dr. Myers in his evening sermon. That the function of the church was not to amuse people and that pastors who made "amusement bureaus" out of themselves failed in their work, was a statement of Mr. Myers.

"If the Lord came back to earth again," he said, "I am sure that he would feed the hungry and heal the sick both in mind and body. But I am just as certain that he would not start up a billiard hall or a dance pavilion. Ministers who are doing these things give as their excuse that they are protecting the young people of their congregation. That may be true, but I do not think that they are justified in turning a church into a place of amusement."

WILL DISCUSS MARRIAGE LAWS.

Illinois Divorce Commission to Confer with Solons at Springfield Tomorrow on Bills.

Members of the Illinois commission on marriage and divorce, headed by Judge Marcus Kavanagh, chairman, will meet the committees on judicial reform of both houses of the general assembly in Springfield tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

The joint conference will be held as a result of an invitation extended to the commission by the two committees to discuss the two bills fathered by the commission and which are under consideration by the committees.

The next step in the fight to secure more stringent divorce and marriage laws for Illinois, according to Judge Kavanagh, probably will be the passage of the bills by the house and senate. Little opposition is expected.

PASTOR DEFENDS MORGAN METHODS

Declares That Late Financier Proved That Money Can Be Made Honestly.

HAD FAULTS LIKE CÆSAR

The late J. Pierpont Morgan was praised for his record and character by the Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins in his sermon yesterday in the Park Manor Congregational church.

"Mr. Morgan proved the truth of his latest and best epigram, 'Character is the basis of credit,'" Mr. Hopkins said. "Our country is proud that Mr. Morgan, the multi millionaire, demonstrated that honesty, truthfulness, and moral cleanliness need not get under the hoofs of the golden calf.

"In a day when many rich men and women are silly and cruel and vain, selfish, vulgar and vile, it is inspiring to think of a man who showed that the rich, simply because they are rich, need not fall into a snare and into lusts that drown men's souls in perdition.

Gave Opportunities to Others.

"This money maker is also entitled to praise for the opportunities he gave others to improve their fortunes. Think of the industries he financed, giving employment to thousands of men, multitudes of them coming from lands where they could not have had the chance they have here.

"It is said that Mr. Morgan never seriously concerned himself with social and political questions. He probably thought that it is a good thing for a man to mind his own business and leave to statesmen, ministers of the gospel, and teachers the task of leading those who need guidance along the road of salvation he had done his part to open.

Admits He Had Defects.

"Like Cæsar, Cromwell, and Napoleon, Morgan had the defects of his excellences. There are spots in all feasts, a fly in every pot of ointment, and the fortune makers of the generation drawing to a close have had their day.

"It is hard for the working girl earning $6 a week, or for the man attempting to support a family on $15 a week, to believe it right for any man to amass a fortune of $100,000,000."

Stockyards Clerk Drops Dead.

John Corrigan of 4013 Justine street, a clerk in the Union stockyards, dropped dead yesterday at Fiftieth and Loomis streets.

MORGAN MEMORIAL SERVICE

VESTRYMAN FOR 45 YEARS.

Pew of Late Financier Occupied by Strangers; Favorite Hymns Sung.

New York, April 6.—Memorial services for the late J. Pierpont Morgan were held today in St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, of which he was for forty-five years a vestryman, and in which his funeral is to take place, probably on April 14. The pew Mr. Morgan had occupied was filled with strangers.

Mr. Morgan's favorite hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was not on the day's musical program, but hymns of which he was fond, including "Nearer My God to Thee," were sung by the congregation, while the choir sang the anthem, "Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled." The rector, the Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, eulogized the late financier in the sermon. In part he said:

"While I have been speaking to you I have had in mind the personality of that truly great man who was received among us—our senior warden. His free and open heart, his quiet, unknown good, his fixed, enduring friendship, and his secret hand so generous with its means that no one knows the mighty blessings he sent straight to many lives."

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE AFTER TWO YEARS' ILLNESS.

Man Wanted as Thief Kills Himself in Antigo, Wis., Where He Went to See Sweetheart.

Mrs. Bessie E. Denny, wife of Arnold Denny, a collector for the Parmelee Transfer company, committed suicide at her home late Saturday night by inhaling gas. Denny said his wife had been ill two years following an operation for a tubercular affection.

Chief of Police William Coblents of Antigo, Wis., wired to Capt. John J. Halpin yesterday that Otto Kozak, who fled from Chicago several days ago when charged with larceny, had killed himself there. He went to Antigo to see his fiancée, Miss Anna Burish.

Held for 50 Cent Theft.

William Magee of 540 Lincoln Park boulevard yesterday was arrested after he is said to have robbed Maurice Spagat, a saloonkeeper at 414 Rush street, of 50 cents.

"The Kayser" SILK Glove

The development of the "KAYSER" Silk Glove represents the attainment of an ideal, the achievement of which has not been hampered by restrictions of cost or time, nor influenced by a passing demand for features most aptly characterized as "talking points."

We could not afford to buy expensive advertising space "year after year," to tell the women of America that "KAYSER" Gloves are the best—in style, fit and finish—if it were not true.

"KAYSER" gloves "cost no more" than the ordinary kind—and are worth double in quality, fit and value.

Don't accept the "just as good" kind, there's a way to tell the genuine—"Look in the Hem"—if you find the name "KAYSER"—you have the kind that "don't wear out" at the finger ends.

MERCHANTS MEET VICE BODY TODAY

State Street Men Will Confer with Senatorial Commission in Private.

MAY FIX WAGE MINIMUM.

Profits of Large Firms Expected to Be Revealed to Legislators.

Thirty-eight State street merchants will confer in private this morning with the Illinois senatorial welfare commission regarding the wages paid women employes. Lieut. Gov. O'Hara yesterday said the commission hoped that as a result of the conference the employers would be able voluntarily to announce a standard minimum wage for women in State street stores.

The session will be held at the La Salle hotel and will be limited to the commission and merchants. At the conclusion of the afternoon session it is expected that a statement will be announced, probably by the merchants.

The majority of the State street men who previously appeared before the commission as witnesses regretted the admission of the public, and many have said they would talk without restraint if newspaper men and others were excluded.

May State Firm's Profits.

It is probable that some of the witnesses who declined to state their firm's profits on the stand may do so today. A few offered the figures for the exclusive use of the commission, but most declined to answer the questions.

The Rev. Ernest A. Bell of the Midnight mission, in addressing the Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternon on "Fighting Vice in Chicago," saw a chance for federal prosecution of "the vile theaters on South State and West Madison streets that are debauching our boys and girls."

"The Supreme court of the United States," he said, "recently upheld a more liberal construction of the Mann 'white slavery' act in the case of Agnes Couch, who was taken from Atlanta, Ga., to Tampa, Fla., and put in an immoral theater owned by Louis Athanasaw. The girl was taken out before being pinned, but the court held that even the transporting of a girl to a place of immoral character was a violation of the Mann act.

Chicago Stand for Anything?

"It has been said that 'Chicago will stand for anything,' and perhaps that is the reason Ruth St. Denis a few years ago produced a show here that had been stopped in Pittsburgh. As it is, theatrical matters in Chicago are rotten at this time."

In telling of his work at the Midnight mission the Rev. Mr. Bell said he had been assaulted five times and threatened recently. "Only last Sunday," said he, "an Italian divekeeper said to me, 'if your speakers mention my name again I'll tear them off the platform.' I replied that he would not and he told this Italian and French divekeeping friends that I was crazy."

FRIEDMANN GIVES U. S. TESTS.

Inoculates Nineteen of Seventy Patients Selected by Government at Seton Hospital.

New York, April 6.—[Special.]—Dr. Friedmann went to Seton hospital today and treated nineteen of the seventy tuberculosis patients who had been selected by the government physicians for the federal tests. The doctor was not able to treat more, because his supply of culture was exhausted.

All those who were brought before him, he said, were in the last stages of pulmonary tuberculosis, with the exception of three children suffering from surgical tuberculosis.

One doctor who was present at the clinic remarked that it was regrettable that the cases selected for the government tests should be without exception of the most advanced kind. It has been learned that five of the seventy cases originally prepared have been withdrawn from the lists for treatment, and it is understood that several have died.

KOHLSAAT COMING BACK SOON.

Inter Ocean Editor, Improving Rapidly, Expects to Return to Chicago on April 15.

New York, April 6.—[Special.]—Herman H. Kohlsaat, editor and publisher of the Chicago Inter Ocean, who has been ill at the Holland house since March 17 with a slight hemorrhage of the brain, probably will return to Chicago on April 15. He has been improving rapidly, and in the last week has enjoyed frequent automobile trips.

Killed by Freight Train.

Guy B. Elliott, 11574 Front street, a switchman, was instantly killed early yesterday at One Hundred and Sixteenth street and the Michigan Central tracks, when the draw-bar of a feright car fell on him, throwing him beneath the wheels.

Wellesley Prize to Milwaukee Girl.

Miss Esther Berlowitz.

The academic council of Wellesley college last week awarded the Durant scholarship to Miss Esther Berlowitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Berlowitz of 589 Farwell avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. This is the highest honor a junior may receive at Wellesley. Miss Berlowitz has many friends in Chicago. She is a niece of Mrs. J. E. Shoen of 5227 Calumet avenue and M. A. Rolfe of 5324 South Park avenue.

STRIKERS AT TWINE MILLS IGNORE THREAT OF REMOVAL.

Workers Reject Harvester Company's Ultimatum to Carry Industry to Germany Unless Settlement Is Effected.

Auburn, N. Y., April 6.—Leaders of the 1,700 twine mill employes who have been on strike for two weeks today decided to ignore the ultimatum of the International Harvester company giving its workers until Tuesday to return to work. The company announced yesterday its cordage industry would be removed to Germany, where the product of the plant here is sold, if an immediate settlement is not effected.

The strikers were quiet today, and the militiamen on guard at the plants of the Columbian Rope company and the International Harvester company had no disorders to combat.

P. J. Downey, member of the state board of mediation, declared tonight everything appeared bright for a settlement between the men and their employers.

"We have hopes," Mr. Downey said, "that the conference tomorrow will be fruitful of a solution. We put in today doing our best with the contending sides, and things look much brighter than for several days."

The adjourned conference of strikers, employers, state labor representatives, and city officials will begin tomorrow morning. The meetings will be secret.

"CHICAGO FOR CHICAGOANS" SUGGESTED AS CITY WAR CRY.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Cites Need of Home Rule, New Charter, and Nonpartisan Elections.

Home rule for Chicago and nonpartisan elections was the theme of an address by Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman before the Forum yesterday at Hotel La Salle.

"Chicago for Chicagoans—Home rule for Chicago's citizens—is a war cry which might well be regarded as a fundamental principle of local government," said Grossman. "We need a new charter. Chicago has outgrown the musty, narrow confines of present legislation. I favor a constitutional amendment to permit Chicago to write its own charter. Why should our charter be put up to men from distant quarters of the state whose interests are not our interests?

"Home rule is as much a necessity for Chicago as any nation, state, or municipality, and particularly at this time Chicago needs to be unhampered in solving its problems and in ruling over its varied and diverse interests."

Girl Accuses Stepfather.

William Earle Carpenter, 120 North Carpenter street, was yesterday arrested on complaint of his stepdaughter, Rosanna Hughes, who is 18 years old. Miss Hughes said she was driven from her home by her stepfather and took refuge with a sister at 731 Reese street.

SHIP TURNS OVER; SCORE TRAPPED

LIFE SAVERS' WORK VAIN.

Bay City, Ore., April 6.—Twenty-two men, including the ship's captain, the president of a wrecking company of Portland, and the representative of the Marine Underwriters, were trapped in the hold of the German ship Mimi, which capsized off the beach here early today after having been hauled off a reef on which it had been fast two months.

A heavy sea was pounding the wreck, but life savers got close enough to hear voices on the wreck. One voice in the darkness said, "We are all here." Then the sea swept the rescuers back. They will go out again at dawn.

Planned to Float Vessel.

The Mimi, in ballast for Valparaiso from Astoria, piled up on the reef on Feb. 13 last. It was not seriously injured and the underwriters contracted with Charles S. Fisher of a Portland construction company to float the vessel.

Fisher, his secretary, and seven riggers, Capt. W. E. Crowe, representative of the underwriters; Capt. Westfall of the Mimi, and eleven of his men were aboard the ship when it capsized. All were below decks when the vessel turned over.

The Mimi was hauled off the rocks at high tide last night. It was determined to take it to deep water at once and it was at anchor off the beach when the rising wind and sea whirled it over.

Life Savers Work in Vain.

Life savers fought all day to reach it without success. After they had given it up and as dark was falling the men on the wreck's bottom appeared. They had been trapped in the hold and lived on the air which kept the vessel afloat until they cut their way out.

Seas were sweeping the wreck at dark. Wreckage was seen about and it was feared it was breaking up. Whether the men aboard can hold on until the sea abates and the life savers reach them cannot be told. The hull is low in the water and may sink from sight when the tide rises.

PAINTERS MAY GIVE IN TODAY

READY TO ACCEPT TERMS.

Federation of Labor Wars Over School Book Bill.

A mass meeting of striking painters and decorators will be held this afternoon and it is expected the strike will be called off. Employers are standing firm in their refusal to grant demands of the men, but have offered a wage increase of 5 cents per hour and better working conditions.

Most of the 8,000 painters say they had no opportunity to pass on the terms proposed by the employers and that the strike was called by union leaders. The leaders declare the strike will continue but the employers say most of their men are willing to return to work.

Wrangling over the school book bill occupied the entire meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday. In order to take up the business which was not finished, a special meeting will be held next Sunday afternoon.

The delay was caused by delegates who attempted to criticise the efforts of E. R. Wright, president of the State Federation of Labor, to secure legislation on the school book bill. Many speeches and accusations were made and for a time it appeared as if trouble would occur. President Fitzpatrick became involved in the argument and it was ended only when an adjournment was taken.

THRONGS SEEK TO HEAR DAUGHTER OF PRESIDENT.

Many Turned Away When Miss Jessie Wilson Speaks Twice at the St. Louis, Mo., Y. W. C. A.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—The Young Women's Christian association building was not large enough to accommodate the crowd that gathered today to hear Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the president.

Miss Wilson spoke twice, once in the gymnasium, the largest room in the building, and again at an overflow meeting in the assembly hall. Still many persons were turned away disappointed, unable to hear her.

"For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of stronghold, casting down imaginations and everything that exalteth against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ."

Corsets for Large Women

In a Splendid Variety of Models in French and American Made Corsets

Stout women invariably have corset woes that cause them to always be alert to listen to any argument that will overcome their own corset difficulties, consequently they frequently allow themselves to be persuaded into having corsets made to order, and in the majority of cases these corsets are made from measurements taken by the woman who solicited the order and who is more clever at selling than she is in the art of corsetry according to scientific methods.

We find that the most satisfactory results are obtained through fitting our patrons to special corsets in models adapted for their individual requirements according to the current tendency towards supple, easy lines.

Corsets for women with heavy bust.
Corsets for women whose flesh has settled in the lower limbs.
Corsets for women whose hips are out of proportion to their shoulders.

In fact, corsets for all types of tall, short or medium height large figures. Skillful fitting of these figures is an important feature with us.

OUR FITTERS ARE SCIENTIFICALLY TRAINED TO CORSET WOMEN WHOSE FIGURES ARE UNDULY PROPORTIONED.

Model No. 1—An Elysian model that is wonderfully good for heavy shoulders and full abdomen that requires suppression, made of heavy coutil. Price, } $12

Model No. 3—Our Gardenia (the perfected laced front corset) ideal for a large bust and waist when the lower part of the figure is not as large in proportion to the upper; made of coutil. Price, } $6.50

These, as well as many other special models, come in sizes up to 36.

Just satisfy yourself what correct corseting will do to adjust flesh into proportionate lines, distributing it so that you are in comfort as well as being improved in appearance.

Saloon's Knell Sounded, Says Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

THE prohibition traits of the present federal administration were declared by Jenkin Lloyd Jones yesterday to be signs of economic advancement. In his sermon at Abraham Lincoln center he attacked the liquor problem on the grounds, chiefly, of economic waste and associated evils.

"A decent saloon, conducted within legal bounds is conceivable, but such a saloon as a business success is scarcely possible," he said. "A law abiding saloon will soon go out of business. It is that illegal plus which opens the door of the saloon to minors, which establishes back door connections with the brothel, which makes it the rendezvous for panders, gamblers, 'whisky politicians,' and other 'bums' that make it profitable. There is no epigram more misleading than 'You can't make man virtuous by law.'

"That is just what can be done and is being done by all legislative bodies. That is the accomplishment of civilization.

"The passage of the Webb law over a president's veto and an administration at Washington in which the president, vice president, the head of the cabinet, and their families live in 'dry' territory, and propose to practice the prohibition they profess is significant.

"The saloon is going!

"Let the temporary representatives of state and nation at Springfield and Washington govern themselves accordingly. It is for them to choose between being in the car or under the wheels of progress. They must pull or be run over."

Says Bachelors Have Fatherly Duties.

Duties of bachelors and childless husbands were included in the list of obligations which rest upon fathers in Hyde Park, as described by the Rev. M. J. Magor last evening at McCabe Memorial Methodist Episcopal church. "If I Were a Father in Hyde Park" was his subject.

"Every bachelor or childless man is a father to my boy," he said, "because the example they set affects my influence in bringing up my boy.

"If I were a father in Hyde Park I would not inflict corporal punishment on my boy, but I would show him the consequences of his acts. If whippings are indulged in they ought to be administered before a child is 10 years of age.

"I would depend upon right example, right atmosphere, and right spirit rather than on formal religious worship. Religion of the old type is a failure. Family worship as it used to be conducted, with consecutive Bible reading, chapter by chapter, followed by long prayers, is a weariness of the flesh. Short prayers and interesting reading have their place, but the kind which some people profess to desire to return to would do more harm than good. Religion is better taught by association than by precept.

"If I were a father I would teach my boy temperance and self-control. I would be a chum with him, even if I didn't make as much money as I would by entirely absorbing myself in my business. I would put manhood first and money second."

Gabriel, soloist, also had part in the services.

How to Earn Money at Home

What Are You Doing to Earn Money at Home?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions, The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published. Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.

The exhibit room in The Tribune building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m., except on Saturday, when it closes at noon.

Why not make larger profits on a larger home business?

Doubling the amount of home work that you sell will not mean doubling the home work that you do.

Do you think that it is much more trouble to make five dozen cookies, for instance, than it is to make one or two dozen?

If you sell more of your home products you can buy your material in larger quantities, and so to better advantage.

If you sell more of your home products you can make more money and enjoy more of the things that you would like to enjoy.

What short or long trips would you like to take this summer?

What clothes would you like to buy if you had the money?

What invitations could you accept if you had the means for your wardrobe and expenses?

Why not do as other home women have done—just make up your mind to make this money so that you can have these things?

Have you been doing things for your neighbors that they found they had not time to do for themselves and that they realized you did better for them?

Why not enlarge your neighborhood?

Other people in other neighborhoods like the same things that the people in your neighborhood like.

They like good, home made things to eat, they like well made clothes at reasonable prices.

They are sometimes alone when they are sick and need a fine home woman like you to come and look after the house and see that the children have something to eat at the right times.

People in other neighborhoods sometimes need different things than the people in your neighborhood.

They sometimes need service that you can give them that the people in your own neighborhood do not need.

How are you going to let these people in other neighborhoods and other towns know of the home work that you can do?

Other home women have let them know of their work through an advertisement in THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' Market Place.

Other home women have had orders from all over the United States and Canada for the work that they are doing in their own simple homes.

Wouldn't it make you proud to know that people so far away had need of the work that you can do?

Wouldn't it make you enjoy the little pleasures even more if you knew that they were paid for by money that you had earned yourself?

Couldn't you enjoy your vacation more thoroughly if you knew that you were not depriving your little family of any of the things that they should have by taking the vacation that you need?

Won't you think some of these things over and see what conclusion you come to?

Raise Canaries to Sell.

I have had such good success raising and selling canaries that I want other busy housekeepers to try this fascinating and profitable business. Commence right now. It is not too late to buy a pair of canaries. Put them in a medium sized cage, fasten in one corner a wire nest and a piece of cuttle bone, and put clean fresh water and seed in the drinking and seed cups. If you cannot get the wire nest, take a small round or square box, put a lot of twine cut in short lengths in it, and some between the wires, and the hen bird will make her nest to suit herself.

I have now young birds singing which were hatched in January and February and are spoken for at $3 each. I have raised canary birds for many years and have sold singers for $1 to $3 each, hens 50 cents to $1.50 each. I always guarantee my singers. I have several housekeepers raising birds for me at their homes from the American raised canaries. Some of my customers won't buy anything else. They are not used to the voice of the rollers and prefer the ordinary song. I do not let the young birds hear the song of the American raised bird. Just as soon as they can feed themselves I put the young singers in a room with a fine St. Andreasberg roller, and they soon learn his song. My birds sing at night as well as day. A young singer just four weeks old is singing after lamplight. I talk to my birds a great deal, they enjoy having attention paid to them and will repay you in sweet song.

Some women have cleared $40 or $50 and $60 the first season. What one woman can do another can do. Any woman who will be careful and clean the cage every morning, give them a bath, and rape seed one-third, canary seed two-thirds, with a little hemp during the breeding season, which you can get of your druggist. Give them lettuce and apple occasionally. You may expect an egg about eight days after they have mated. They will lay from three to four or five eggs and are due to hatch in two weeks.

Stores Valuable Rugs.

A family was called to California for an indefinite stay. Not having time to pack and store their household furnishings they asked a trustworthy acquaintance to store their oriental and Indian rugs in her house until their return. She did so. It is now over a year since the family left, and undoubtedly the rugs would have been a total loss if they had not been cared for.

Since the experiment has proven a success, and she has the room to spare, this woman intends to store such things for people who do not care to send them to a storage house. Wouldn't this be profitable in many towns and cities?

A young married woman embroiders dainty little yokes for baby dresses. She uses only the best of material, and many of her patterns are taken from THE TRIBUNE. Orders from out of town are frequent, and this makes it much easier for her to design. They are beautiful, and the making is both pleasant and well worth while.

Cares for Winter Clothes.

A woman makes a little extra money by storing winter clothing for friends. She makes heavy paper bags and after airing and cleaning the articles thoroughly she puts them in the bags and pastes the bag shut. Each bag is marked with the owner's name and the name of the contents of the bag. She also makes and sells the bags for those who wish to look after their own belongings.

Selling Books by Mail.

A mail order book business has helped a number of women to success, and subscriptions for magazines can be handled in conjunction with book orders. Any class of books with which one is familiar, such as physical culture or new thought, would be sufficient for a beginning. Women have made successes in several instances with these; and the profits on a $1 book run all the way from 20 to 40 cents. Then if circulars of other books are sent out with every order filled the repeat orders for other books swell one's profits, also.

Recipe for Oatmeal Bran Cookies.

Oatmeal bran cookies are excellent and sell readily for 20 cents a dozen. To make take one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup (scant) butter, and half cup shortening—bacon fryings are fine. Cream this together, add two well beaten eggs, one-half cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon soda in milk, pinch salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one cup white flour, one and one-half cups oatmeal, one and one-half cups bran, one cup nut meats and raisins. Drop from spoon on greased pan and bake in moderate oven. If one likes cocoanut a half cup can be added. The cookies are healthful as well as appetizing.

HARPER LIBRARY BUILDING SAFE, BELIEVES ERICSSON.

Commissioner Makes Cursory Inspection of Chicago University Branch and Will Investigate Further.

Building Commissioner Henry Ericsson yesterday inspected cracks in the wall of the $800,000 Harper Memorial library at the University of Chicago. He said many of them appeared from the outside to be old, and that there appeared no signs which would warrant any action toward condemning the structure as unsafe.

Mr. Ericson today will send his chief inspector to make a more thorough inspection.

"They are small cracks and it is hard to guess by just looking at them from the outside what caused them," the commissioner said. "The inside will have to be inspected. I hardly think it is anything serious, however. The cracks look from the outside as if they had been caused by some strain on the inside. They may have been caused by the fall of the tower."

ICE CREAM CAUSES DEATH?

Poison Contained in Refreshment Supposed to Have Killed Miss Jessie Peterson.

Poison, probably contained in ice cream, is supposed to have been the cause of the sudden death yesterday of Miss Jessie Peterson, 2513 Cornelia street.

"She went to a matinée on Saturday," said August Peterson, the father, "and was changing her clothes for a dance when she became ill."

Dr. O. H. Berg, 1101 North California avenue, said death might have been caused by ptomaine poisoning. The police believe the young woman was made ill by ice cream. An inquest will be held this morning.

Held in Bad Check Case.

F. W. Geddes, said to be a Cleveland realty operator, yesterday was brought back from Detroit accused of having passed a worthless check for $100 at the Blackstone hotel.

News of Music and Theaters.

At the Garrick Theater; First of Summer's Shows.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MUSICAL comedies, according to musical comedy experts, are divided into two classes—Broadway and Chicago. "When Dreams Come True" belongs to the latter group, being quite cleanly, very ingenuous, somewhat slow, and with an excessive desire to please. Evidently it is a product of Philip Bartholmae's fledgling days, when towering in the confidence of childhood he composed dramas for performance by his talented playmates. Instead of a "comedy of youth," as advertised, it is a comedy of immaturity—one of those extemporaneous "what-shall-we-do-now" things, reeking with plots and remnants of plots. Some of them are new, most of them are old, and they range from the French farce with doors to the lost rope of pearls. Parts of it go back to the antique days of Fleurette, the French dancer, the policeman chorus, the baritone solo in the spot light, and the duet with telephones. Research can extend little further into the catacombs than Joseph Santley's joke, "absinthe makes the heart grow fonder," whose last public exhumation was in the libretto of "The Wizard of Oz."

Well, if pleasure is not always at the helm, youth is ever at the prow of Mr. Bartholomae's gilded vessel. Mr. Santley is the likable and good looking young hero, mad about Miss Marie Flynn, whose shy sweetness is a bit rouged, but who is also of tender years and pretty. Their romance is replete with sugary songs about "You" and an infinite amount of noisy and incredible obstacles. Participating in the various complexities are John Slavin at his politest and best, as a quizzical and unsmiling detective, shrewd enough to find humor in a sterile libretto. Also Miss May Vokes, as of yore, impersonating a forlorn female with awkward and amusing song and dance. Also Miss Rita Stanwood, who has developed a "manner," and who is sweet of voice, attractive of personality, and graceful of movement.

Besides these efficacious artists Miss Amelia Summerville is at hand, blonde and impressive, and Frazer Coulter, wandering like a lost soul from the "legitimate" through the desolation of a play with tunes. Mr. Samaroff, a violinist, pleasant to the ear if not to the eye, performs extravagantly upon his instrument, and accompanies Mr. Santley in the pretty "When Dreams Come True" song, which is written in Silvio Hein's most mellifluous vein. Mr. Hein's music, by the way, is full of easy melodies and an occasional novel conceit in the way of a humorous number—and he as usual, directs his own band. Still another nice thing may be said about "When Dreams Come True"—its chorus is youthful and good at dancing, and it includes several promising personalities.

So a diagnosis finds every one quite well in the play except Mr. Bartholomae, who ails in his libretto. This indisposition, however, was not noticeable to the big audience last evening at the Garrick, for it was a glad and enthusiastic gathering, to judge from its applause. As a matter of record, it should be said that the first act transpires in the steerage of a steamship, wherein the hero, rich but out of money, is returning to New York from Paris, bruised from the flirtation with Fleurette. Other incidents happen on the dock at midnight, the "reception room" of the young hopeful's New York home, and also in the ballroom thereof. Much fancy dancing occurs in this scene, and in others, the creation of Frank Smithson's memory and inventive resource.

Chicago Singverein.

The Chicago Singverein, William Boeppler, conductor, will present Seifert's brilliant choral work, "Aus Deutschland's grosser Zeit," for the first time in Chicago on Sunday evening, April 20, in the Auditorium. The Chicago Symphony orchestra will assist. The soloists engaged are Miss Mathilde Henchling, contralto; Beecher Burton, tenor, and Hans Schroeder, baritone.

Joseph Santley in "When Dreams Come True"

Master Barron's Debut.

Robert Louis Barron, a violinist of some 12 or 14 years, presented himself to the public yesterday afternoon in the Fine Arts theater in a program that contained as its most ambitious number a concerto in B minor by Earl R. Drake, a resident composer. The concerto, in its first and second movements, at least, represents such admirable art that even an indifferent presentation could not entirely hide its beauties. The composer is old fashioned enough to be content with the charm of simple melody. His talent is able to conceive melodies that have depth of feeling and that need no astonishing harmonic support to set them forth.

The young artist has been ill advised to offer himself so soon for public approval. He has developed an astonishing facility. But he has not learned to sing a simple melody effectively, and therefore is deprived of the chief resource of the violinist. Furthermore, he does not take his art seriously. As a boy one may sympathize with him in this respect, and after he has played at playing for a few years more it will be time enough to set him to work at it.

Amateur Musical Club

The final program of the Amateur Musical club this afternoon in the Studebaker theater will engage the services of Joseph Schreurs, first clarinetist of the Symphony orchestra. With Miss Prudence Neff, pianist, he will present the rarely heard "Duo Concertante," by Weber.

Miss Culp Gives Last German Lieder Program.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

SCHUBERT, Schumann, and Brahms were the composers represented in Miss Julia Culp's last song recital for the present season yesterday afternoon in Orchestra hall, and since the audience was not numerous, one must conclude that the public which is able to enjoy German songs in the original is not numerous. Miss Culp sings English beautifully, as she has demonstrated on occasion, and she undoubtedly would extend her hold upon the interest of American music lovers if she would compliment us by singing in our language more frequently. The public, as well as Miss Culp, would profit thereby, for her art sets forth the ideals of lyric declamation with rare clarity and completeness.

The "Woman's Love and Life" cycle of Schumann was the notable achievement of the afternoon. Though the program contained a request not to interrupt the cycle with applause, several of Miss Culp's admirers were unable to restrain themselves. A smiling rebuke from the singer having failed to silence them, Miss Culp—doubtless from nervousness or irritation—adopted the expedient of singing slightly flat. It proved effective, and there was no more applause until the conclusion of the cycle, when the more discriminating among her listeners attested to their appreciation of the intimate and subtly resourceful interpretation of the beautiful texts.

Miss Culp's intervallic eccentricities did not interfere with her diction or with her command of interpretative inflection, and these were the agents she employed to the establishment of the mood. But apart from mere matters of pitch her song was less perfect than on the occasion of her previous appearances. It disclosed a rather limited range of qualitative contrast. Deftly proportioned dynamic contrasts partially made good this deficiency, which was less apparent in the Schumann cycle than in the ensuing Brahms numbers. Only once did Miss Culp betray a leaning toward the vicious nonlegato of the modern German school of song interpretation. This was in the fifth number of the cycle, and was occasioned by an attempt to portray an ecstasy of spirit which means that, in view of the small form which the composer has employed, must be described as exaggerated. It was the only fault of conception which the afternoon disclosed.

The Brahms group included three from the volume of old German folk-songs which he has transcribed with such appealing art. Each takes the form of a dialogue, which proved rather a tax upon Miss Culp's resources, since a full tone always had to represent the man's voice and a rather fragile tone the woman's, and sometimes the emotional value of the text demanded the one where the other was in place. There resulted an occasional lack of definition which the singer was unable to supply with vocal means alone. However, the final song of the group, "O liebliche Wangen," achieved a vivid climax. Three encores followed; the two serenades of Brahms, the naughty one and the innocent one, and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Godowsky's Farewell.

Leopold Godowsky, unable by reason of the floods to reach the audience that waited for him in Cincinnati, tardily announced a recital in Orchestra hall Saturday afternoon. The audience that assembled was small, a circumstance the more to be regretted since the pianistic and interpretative art set forth was the greatest which the season has brought to hearing. The program culminated in the Liszt sonata. The colossal work was read with a noble breadth and bigness of conception in every way equal to the standards set for the composition by Busoni. Godowsky's version, though filled with imagination, is less fantastic than Busoni's, and far more accurate; less overwhelming in the mighty moments, but informed of beauty till its every proportion stands forth in flawless symmetry.

As an interpreter of this, the mightiest work in piano literature, Godowsky had the advantage over his fellow giant of the instrument, that he makes the average music lover more conscious of its beauties and less fearful of its moments of superhuman power. He preserves the romantic values of the music. He accentuates its touches of tenderness. But he preserves also its greatness of feeling. He never falls into the sentimentalist's error of exaggerating some eloquent fragment of melody to the distortion of the larger line.

His command of pianistic resource is no less complete. For him the pedal is an agent of atmospheric effect. His tone has a hundred different colors. It can sustain a polyphonic movement with luminous transparency. It can create the illusion of breath and living pulse in some songlike phrase. It can suggest all the varied choirs of the orchestra. Therefore, the evident and definite limitations of the instrument are forgotten by the listener in the contemplation of its marvelous prerogatives.

Less imposing, but not less significant, inflections of Godowsky's art were displayed in the "Kinderscenen" of Schumann, the G minor ballade of Grieg, six charming pieces from his "Walzermasken" cycle, of which the most attractive were the "Menuet," the "Angelus," and the "Perpetuum mobile"; the G minor ballade, G major nocturne, and andante and polonaise, Op. 22 of Chopin, and some half dozen encores.

A Family of Five.

We are a family of five, with an annual income of $1,000. To begin with, we apportion approximately one-quarter of our income for rent, securing what comfort and convenience we can for that amount. Husband and I keep strict accounts, as do also the two children (of school age). It is part of their education. They each have certain duties to perform, their part of making the home.

I order nothing by phone, because I have none, considering it a needless luxury for poor folks and shopping and calling in person a needed stimulus to the homemaker to take exercise in the open air. We pay cash or do without, except in the case of buying necessary furniture and large expenditures, where we have found the installment plan, entered into with reliable houses, a stimulus to economy rightly used and a convenience.

Some one comments on the larder being the first chosen economy. It is amazing how much difference lies between thoughtless waste and careful buying there. We consider the best none too good for our babies, and do not skimp, but buy staples in quantity, vegetables and fruits in season. Of these I can and preserve for winter use. Nothing is wasted, and each purchase is given thought in every branch of the household management. Our policy is to buy the best and get from it the utmost service.

This year has been for us a year of extras—several little journeys, several weeks of out of town visitors, and a visit from the stork. That we have covered it all and are still a little to the good I consider good work. As no one can exactly lay out a line of action to suit another family's needs, I have but one specific offering to brides. Consider your new business of home building and management as worthy of your best and studious effort, and results will be forthcoming. THE TRIBUNE offers so many aids, as do the women's magazines, one need not want for guidance.

E. K. W.

Recommends Her Method.

I have read L. W. R.'s letter asking for suggestions on laundry work and feel certain that if she and many others will try my method of washing they will be satisfied with the color of their clothes and save paying wages each week to a laundress.

First sort the clothes and then put all whites clothes to soak, using two cubs and nothing else but plenty of clear lukewarm water or cold water. It is surprising how this will loosen the dirt and there is no fussing to heat water and prepare suds. The next morning before breakfast wring the best pieces, such as table linen, sheets and pillowcases, shirtwaists, and undermuslin, and put into the boiler with about three-quarters of a bar of soap sliced. Fill the boiler with cold water and let this heat until sure that the boiling point has been reached. Now transfer these clothes to a clean tub and put enough of the boiling suds on them to wash them in. Empty the boiler of suds so nearly that when the next boilerful is prepared the temperature of the water will be nearer cold than warm. This suds is fine for flannels, underwear, and stockings.

The clothes in the tub require just enough rubbing on the board to well loosen the suds from them. Then wring each piece as washed and shake well and put into rinsing water and then blue water.

After washing all the clothes that were boiled wash flannels by adding hot suds to that water. Then use last of water in the boiler for colored clothes. Do not put any colored pieces into water that is warm. When adding bluing to a tub of water stir water well with clothes stick so the clothes do not become streaked.

The starch must first be dissolved in cold water, using about a cup of water to nearly that amount of lump starch, then pour on boiling water till of proper thickness, keeping the kettle over a low fire and stirring the starch steadily. Let boil one minute and then cover well or a scum forms which troubles the ironer.

L. A. P.

From Near and Far.

Æsop tells of a sportive young hare that raced with a tortoise around a circular track which was 100 yards in diameter, giving him a start of one-eighth of the distance. The hare held such a poor opinion of the other's ability that he loitered along nibbling the grass, and only realized that the tortoise was putting up a great race when they met at a point when the hare had run but one-sixth of his distance. How much faster than he was before must the hare now run to win the race?

Scientific Inconsistencies.

Every one knows that the diamond is only charcoal crystallized; but there are a great many other things in nature that, though possessing widely different properties, are composed of exactly equal quantities of the same elements.

The white of an egg and rattlesnake poison are formed of identically the same amounts of the same elements.

The oil of roses and common coal gas are each formed alike, both being composed of four atoms of hydrogen and four atoms of carbon.

All the hydrocarbons, known to science as a combination of sixteen atoms of hydrogen and ten atoms of carbon, are alike in their composition. To enumerate some: Oil of orange, lemon, cloves, ginger, and black pepper.

The suggested explanation of these peculiarities is that the atoms are placed differently toward one another in the molecules of the different substances.

Other things just as peculiar are evident when certain substances are united chemically. Thus hydrogen gas, which is odorless, and nitrogen gas, which is also odorless, when united go to make ammonia, which has a very strong odor. Copper, which has no odor, and zinc, which also has none, when melted and mixed to give us brass produce a substance with a characteristic smell.

What Am I?

I am not of flesh and blood,
Yet have I many a bone;
And can't stand on that alone.

My friends are many, and dwell
But they poke my poor nose into the mud,
And shamefully spatter my face.

Thrust me into each other's ribs,
Stick me in gutter and rut;
Yet I often open and shut.

Mentone Market and a Lemon.

MENTONE.

THIS is an adorable and indescribable place. One of the guide books says that Mentone is without doubt one of the most agreeable places of residence on the Riviera, and that here every year have come some of the sovereigns of Europe in search of a mild climate.

According to one legend it was in this charming and fertile part of the world that Adam and Eve made their stay after being cast out of the garden of Eden. The story goes:

"Poor Adam, full of grief and pain, only thought of the present and inwardly bemoaned the curiosity of his companion who, better advised than he, dreamed more of the future, and while leaving her earthly paradise had plucked the most beautiful lemon she could see in the garden when the archangel was not looking. When they were alone, Adam, finding it, cried out:

"'If God sees it He will make another scene.'

"'He will not see it,' replied the first woman.

"Then they walked for years and years, crossing rivers, forests, and deserts, mountains and plains. One day they came to a country where the hill inclined gently toward the sea, the blue waves of which sang under the everlasting azure of the sky.

"'This is the place,' said Eve, then, throwing the lemon which she had kept on the ground. 'Grow and increase, O golden fruit, in this garden worthy of thee!'

"That is how the lemon trees grew, and how our first parents, having lost the earthly paradise for a common apple, found it again, thanks to a golden apple."

Mentone does not claim to be a town of amusements. Its visitors come here for their health and tranquillity. Those who seek pleasures go to Nice, and especially Monte Carlo. Nevertheless, Mentone offers during the season some pretty amusements—battles of flowers, matinées at the town hall, carnivalesque corsos, dancing halls, regattas, lawn tennis, lantern parades, bicycle and donkey races.

Just now all its 10,000 beds, the hotel keepers will tell you, are full.

As to lemons, it is rather disappointing that those growing here are no finer than they are, and that they look so exactly like the most common market variety at home. One of the places, however, where they are sold, the general market place, is most interesting and lively.

One of these strange things is a great, round cornmeal cake, less than an inch thick, baked on a tin that must be three feet, if not four, across. It has a custard like top. For 1 cent the woman selling it cuts out two curved slices for a purchaser.

One of the breads of the common people shows that garlic is truly the butter of Provence. A thin bread, resembling in texture our coffee cakes or buns, is completely covered with finely shredded garlic before it is baked in a tin about five feet long by three wide. The ovens for baking these are something like our old fashioned brick ovens, but much lower and wider.

There were other strange breads here, several kinds of rounds, with holes in the middle, and also a strange mixture of chopped vegetables baked in thin crusts.

The vegetables here are beautiful, and there are orange blossoms, roses, carnations, violets, etc., to be had for a few cents, 3 cents for a great bunch of violets.

On the inside of the market are the meats, dried vegetables, etc. Red onions, plaited in beautiful strings, hang beside bunches of grapes, and the two seem equally handsome if looked at without prejudice. The meat booths are the busiest.

Brandy Snaps (1).

HEAT half cup of molasses to boiling and add third cup butter. Remove from fire, and when butter is melted add gradually, while stirring and beating, one cup flour sifted with two-thirds cup sugar and three-quarters teaspoon ginger. Drop small portions from tip of spoon onto a well greased inverted dripping pan, putting them two inches apart. Bake in slow oven, cool slightly, remove from pan. If desired, roll into cornucopia shape, in which nuts may be placed at each cover for dinner.—Kindness of an Old Resident.

Brandy Snaps (2).

One pound flour, one-half pound granulated sugar, one-half pound butter, two pounds treacle or corn sirup, ginger to taste. Rub butter into flour and sugar, then mix with warm treacle, grease the baking tin well, drop in small portions on the tin a little distance apart. Bake about five minutes or until a light brown, leave on the tin until partly cool, take off with a knife quickly, and put over a rolling pin to shape.—Kindness of G. G.

To Pack Flowers for Shipment.

"I should like to know how I can pack cut flowers so as to send them some distance by mail and be received in good condition. H. O."

Send the flowers in a tin box such as crackers are packed in. These boxes come in various sizes. Line the box with paraffin paper, then with moist cotton. Place the flowers carefully in this, sprinkling lightly, and placing on each layer of the blossoms a thickness of moist cotton. Fasten the top on securely and wrap in stout brown paper. When you have addressed the parcel print on it in large clear letters, "Flowers! Perishable! Keep in a cool place!"

Would Adopt a Baby.

"We are anxious to adopt a young baby about a month or two old, or probably a little older. Do you, or does any one else, know of such a child? We should like the child to have blue eyes and rather dark hair. We have a good home of our own, and we would give it the best of care and a good education. MRS. M. E."

You have given me no name or signature other than your initials, and no address except Indiana. If, therefore, replies should come to your query, I could not forward them to you. If you see this paragraph will you not send me your correct name and address? Will those who know of a baby for adoption please note that this correspondent lives in the state of Indiana.

"Darius Green and the Flying Machine."

"I would be glad if you could give me the poem, 'Darius Green and the Flying Machine,' or tell me where it could be found. MRS. C. D."

I do not know who wrote it, or if it is to be found in any collection of verse. I refer your query, secure that some one of our many readers will be able to give you the desired information.

No Names Published.

"Will you kindly let me know through the Corner the address of the woman from South Dakota? I have some warm things which I think her daughter might be able to wear. "A READER."

I cannot comply with your request that I publish the name and address of a correspondent in the Corner. This is never done without the full consent of the person in question. I would be glad to mail to you the address of the woman whom you would help, but, like the writer of the letter preceding yours, you have omitted to give your signature and address.

Request for Words of a Song.

"Will some of the readers of the Corner kindly send me the words of the song, "Silver Threads Among the Gold"? It starts with, 'Darling, I am growing old.' M. J. S."

You should have no trouble in securing this song at any music store. Years ago it was popular, then one heard little of it for a long time. Within the last year or two it has once more become a favorite among songs of this type, and is doubtless on sale in shops dealing in sheet music.

Pattern for Collar.

"Would some sister who has directions for making a crochet collar, the grape leaves pattern and grapes, give them to me? I want them for my little girl. If the directions are too lengthy to publish I will pay postage on them. If no one has the patterns to spare, will some one let me know where I can obtain one? "MRS. M. N."

Will some needle woman having the patterns asked for by Mrs. M. N. write to me for her address and forward them to her?

Offers Home to Woman.

I call the attention of Roman Catholic readers to this offer of a home for a middle aged woman of that faith. I would suggest that any applicant for the position offered satisfy herself beforehand as to the work that will be expected of her in return for a home.

Words of "The Two Brothers."

"I have the poem 'The Two Brothers,' for which Mrs. C. T. S. writes in today's paper, and shall be glad to forward it to any address that will be forwarded to me. L. L."

There is a flaw in the address of the person who asked for this poem. I hope, however, that she will see this kind offer and write to me for the name of the correspondent who would be glad to be of service. Will she please send also a stamped and self-addressed envelope when writing to Mrs. L. L. for the desired lines?

Would Exchange Lessons.

"I am a piano and vocal teacher, and would be willing to instruct in either of these branches a native Italian woman who is capable of giving lessons in Italian in return. I should prefer one who has not been away from Italy for a long time, but who nevertheless can make herself understood in English. P. C. B."

I do not know if we have many Italians among our readers, and I doubt if a foreigner who has been here too short a while to speak English well would be particularly interested in our Corner. Still, as I have a number of foreign correspondents, I hope that some Italian may hear of your suggestion. To sing is second nature to the Italian, and a woman with a fine voice, but no musical training, may be glad to take advantage of your offer of an educational exchange—the only kind of exchange, by the way, that is permitted in the Corner.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

By Lillian Russell

Slippers.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

I ATTRIBUTE lame joints, rheumatism, and an appearance of age to the wearing of slippers or worn out shoes indoors.

We all know, or should know, that wearing low shoes or slippers out of doors in cold weather is the most dangerous practice a woman can indulge in; dangerous to health to a greater degree than the ordinary person is aware of.

Some women have an idea, and it is only an idea, for it has no reason back of it, that the wearing of low shoes winter and summer gives strength to the ankles.

Wearing low shoes in summer is not dangerous to health, excepting in cases of girls who have weak ankles or when taking long walks. In such cases ankle support is absolutely necessary.

In cold weather the ankles need protection. There are many veins and nerves in the ankles which lead directly to the vital organs of a woman, and when they become chilled the most dangerous results follow.

All physicians will tell you that you must keep your extremities warm to be in good health.

The sensible woman, who realizes that health is the crux of beauty and happiness, will wear high boots in cold weather, even if her foot does look neater and prettier in a well fitting low shoe.

I cannot say too much against the bad habit women indulge in, that of wearing woolen, fur lined, or slipshod shoes when indoors.

The woman who works around the house, either from necessity or love of her home, can bring on old age quicker by wearing slippers at her work than any other way.

Naturally a bad fitting slipper, too loose or too warm, can hamper the leg action quicker than any other way I know. When the feet are not snugly protected the knee and hip muscles are called into extra play when walking, and when they are overworked they become stiff and lame.

Let a woman wear a comfortable, well fitting, buttoned up boot, not heavy or too new, when working even about the house, and her gait will never become awkward, her ankles and knees will be free and unimpeded, she will be able to step out freely without contracting any muscles, and will be unconscious of any lameness or rheumatism.

Remember: When the first signs of lameness appear look for the cause in your sole support.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

MRS. W. A.: I do not know the name of the sachet you refer to. A good way to scent your clothing is to mix some of your favorite sachet with a bit of orris root. Put a thimbleful of the mixture in small silken bags and sew them into your gowns or lay the bags among your clothing in the bureau. This gives them a faint but sweet and lasting odor.

MRS. Y. P.: Hands that have been neglected require persistent treatment. They should be scrubbed at night before retiring with hot water and plenty of good soap and a hand brush. After washing them cover with olive oil or almond oil, and then put on an old pair of loose fitting kid or cloth gloves to protect the bed linen. This will make the hands soft and white. When doing light housework, such as dusting or sweeping, always wear an old pair of gloves, either cloth or kid, but be sure and have them a couple of sizes larger than you wear. When the hands are in water rubber gloves should be worn.

CATHERINE: I am sorry, but I cannot give you information about proprietary articles. Do not use anything on your face unless you know what it is and what it will do. Many people spoil a good complexion by trying to make it better with something they know nothing about. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall send you the formula for lilac skin food. This is excellent for feeding the skin and building up sagging tissues.

MISS G. B.: Rubbing the soles of the feet with vinegar will greatly relieve them. After standing all day, or walking, and when the feet become tired and swollen, massage them gently with olive oil. In a short time you will find great relief, for the feet respond quickly to care.

MRS. JOHN R.: I have never heard of the compound you mention and cannot give you any information about it. However, if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall gladly send you the formula for an excellent hair tonic in which I have perfect faith and complete instructions for scalp massage.

DOT: There is no way of acquiring dimples. Dimples are a facial defect and while they are bewitching on a young girl they always turn into deep holes or wrinkles when one grows older. I know of no way you could make dimples. If you have small ones I would advise you to let them alone. You may be thankful when you are older that you didn't tamper with them to make them larger.

V. Z. F.: Once a week is far too often to wash one's hair. Once a month is often enough. I have an excellent tonic and shampoo for oily hair that I shall be glad to send you if you will send the required stamped, addressed envelope. I shall also send you a formula for a curling fluid.

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice

By Laura Jean Libbey

Taking Love Spats to Heart.

[Copyright: 1913: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

WHO is there who has not heard that wise old saying, "The course of true love never did run smooth." There are ups and downs; clouds, as well as sunshine. There never was a pair of lovers who agreed entirely upon everything. Each, supposedly, has his and her opinion respectively.

It is usually over trifles that lovers have these little spats. If he leaves her in displeasure, which is shown not by word but by coldness, she takes the matter to heart more seriously than if they had had angry words. Philosophy does not belong to girlhood usually.

Not one in a hundred reasons it out that he loves her so well he cannot remain away long; that he will soon be back again suing for pardon and to be restored to her favor. On the contrary, she hies herself to her room, locks her door, and there gives vent to an outburst of tears over the bitterest grief she has ever known. No sleep comes to her eyes all the whole night through. When she makes her appearance at the breakfast table, looking as though she had lost her last friend, it does not take the family long to know what has happened. They treat the matter lightly and attempt to console her, but it is quite useless. She insists upon being miserable and consequently in making everybody unhappy about her until the people almost wish that there were no such thing as lovers in the world, especially where one or the other was so foolish as to take their little differences to heart so seriously.

All girls should expect to have their lovers manly enough to have ideas of their own. No girl should imagine that he will give her her own way all the time. These little spats are a part of summering and wintering one whom we look forward to passing a life with. A poet once wrote these words:

> Doth act like madness in the brain.

He referred to brooding over love spats. That might have been the case with the girls in our grandmother's time. But the girls of today, no matter how young they are, seem to have a better hold upon their hearts and heads. They say: "Let him stay away as long as he likes. I shall not worry. Like the proverbial lost sixpence, he will be sure to return to me." This is the right sort of a girl—healthy minded and sensible.

And do you know, my dear girls, that it does a lover good to know that you are not pining away for him? The lover who has left in a huff will be twice as eager to come back to a jolly girl who does not make a mountain out of a mole hill, and who seemingly does not care a rap, than for the forlorn, love sick creature who is pining away over his absence.

The girl who tells her beau that there are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught (although she may not mean it) is far more likely to rekindle his admiration than the girl who mopes and is seemingly as wretched as though her last hope had deserted her.

It isn't best to have quarrels. They may be patched up, but they are sure to leave seams. No patching! Whole, flawless love is best. Laugh off all of your differences ere you part; then there will be no love spats to take to heart.

Wishes to Be a Nurse.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am thinking of entering some hospital to take a course that would fit me as a trained nurse and would appreciate it if you could give me the addresses of the proper person in some of the good hospitals from whom I could get information concerning the terms of entering, etc. L."

The question you ask is a bit out of my line as I deal entirely in affairs of the heart. You might write to the superintendent of St. Luke's hospital, 1439 Michigan avenue, Chicago, or the Michael Reese hospital, Twenty-ninth street and Groveland avenue, Chicago, for the information.

Shall She Visit Him?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 23, have been engaged to a young man for fifteen months, and now he is ill and is confined to his bed, but it is not considered serious as yet, and I would like to know if it is proper for me to go to see him. I haven't visited him yet, but would like to. My friends, including my mother, are urging me to go, but I didn't know if it is proper or not. M."

It would be entirely proper to visit your fiancé under the circumstances. Better have your mother or some woman friend accompany you.

Here Is a Deep Problem.

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am 16 and very much in love with a fellow. He works in the same store and I almost know he doesn't care any more for me than as a mere friend. How can I make him like me and still keep him from knowing I care? P."

Yours is a deep problem—"how to make him like you and yet keep him from knowing you care." Don't bother your poor little childish head about him. You only imagine you are in love. A 16 year old girl does not know what it is to be really in love. Just treat him as a good friend and don't try to make him love you. You will get ever so much more fun out of life if you give no serious thought to boys or love for four or five years yet. Be a sensible little girl, like I know that you are.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

The Campbell Rovers and Hyde Park Blues furnished the feature match in the thirteenth round of the Association Football league of Chicago yesterday. Rovers and Blues met at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue and played a tie game, each side getting one goal.

Although the ground was in fine shape and the weather just right for fast play, the game was a poor one from a scientific viewpoint, its chief merit being its closeness. The Blues lacked the services of Houston and Scott, and the Rovers were without Capt. Currie and Graham, both of whom have injured legs.

There was little good combination, and the ball was in the air quite as often as on the ground. Burton, right back of the Blues, was ruled off for a foul charge in the last part of the first half, and for the rest of the game Hyde Park held its own with ten men. Korer, the Rovers' custodian, fumbled several grounders in the second half and it looked as if the Blues would score, but they were unable to profit by the mistakes.

Blues Score First Goal.

Playing against the wind in the opening half the Blues scored in the first few minutes. Mair sent in a fine cross shot, which Marley got, but his shot was stopped by Korer. The ball went out to Evans, and he sent it back into the net too fast for Korer to handle. Twice after this the Rovers had chances to score, Birchall saving the first shot and Kirkcaldy fouling when his side had forced a scrimmage in front of the Blues' goal.

Birchall cleared a well placed free kick by Blackshaw and Crosbie headed the ball back over the bar. Up at the other end Parker sent in a fine curving shot which Korer just nailed in time. An attack on the right wing by the Rovers ended with Wilson sending in a fine center which led to a quick scrimmage in the goal mouth and enabled Hilland to tie up the score.

Following this reverse the Blues pressed and Mair sent in a great drive from the side line which Korer cleared in the nick of time. A rush by the Rovers ended when Burton charged Wilson over and the Rovers got a penalty kick. Hilland made the try, but hit the cross bar, and Burton kicked the ball out of danger. Shortly after this Burton charged Davidson over and was ruled out of the game by Referee Napier.

Paul Blocks Evans' Shot.

After ends had been changed Evans got clear by the defense, but Paul went back in time to block the shot. Through the rest of the game the Blues had the better of the attack. Mair shot over the bar after a run by himself and Whiteside, and later, on a pass from Marley, Mair had a good opening, but shot twide of the post. Lineup:

TWO PIN LEAGUES CLOSE

LOEWE TOPS INDIVIDUALS.

Stanleys Take Honors in the B. and W., with Rubini Five Second.

Two more bowling leagues bade farewell to the season last week when the Brand's Park and the B. & W. leagues rolled their final shots. The Silver Spots carried away the honors in the Brand's Park, with four games to spare, over the Kenos. Dick Loewe won the individual title with an average of 198 20-75 after a hard fight with Gierens of the Kenos.

In the B. & W. league the Stanleys were declared winners, with the Rubinis second. Hugh Beckett was high individual.

Games in the City league left the O'Learys on top by five games, although they dropped three games to the Blatz. The Moxleys, who were in the best position to catch the leaders, failed at the crucial moment, losing their series with the Lipmans. The real fight is for second place. Eddie Kelly still maintains his lead in the individual event.

Zealorias and Colonnas are fighting it out for the championship of the Colonna league. The former is one game to the good. Bob Rolfe has the individual title sewed up, with Charley Hildebrandt the runner up.

Races in both the Business Men's and Windy City leagues are close, the Moxleys having the advantage in the Business Men's and the Pelikans in the big Bohemian organization. Dick Horrom has clinched the individual title in the Business Men's, while Metcalfe will have to travel fast to head off Anton Stehno, who has been going great guns of late and forged into second place.

LILLIE ENTERS AIR CONTEST.

Local Aviator Fourth Entrant Named in Chicago-Around-Lake-to-Detroit Event Next July.

The international great lakes flying boat cruise, which starts from Chicago on July 8 and goes by air and water to Detroit, received another entry yesterday, when Max Lillie, the local aviator, filed his nomination. The entry is the fourth one made to date, Hugh Robinson, Tony Jannus, and Thomas Benoist having already signed for the 900 mile contest.

Lillie is Chicago's leading aviator and is one of the most experienced pilots in America. He is credited with over 4,000 successful flights, in this country and abroad, and is said to have carried more passengers into the clouds than any other aviator.

The machine Lillie will pilot in the great lakes cruise is a special Weckler-Armstrong-Lillie air boat, now being built in this city by the Weckler Boat company.

YALE NINE READY TO MEET GIANTS

GILE TO FACE CHAMPIONS

Pitcher's Work Against National Leaguers Will Be Watched with Interest.

New Haven, Conn., April 6.—When Yale opens the baseball season in New York City next Wednesday against the Giants at the Polo grounds the best showing of the collegians against the National league in recent years is expected.

Yale has swept everything before it since the season opened. Its only defeat was by Pennsylvania in an eleven inning game, 5 to 4. Gile and "Buster" Brown are carded to pitch. Gile has shown the smoothest and most effective campaigning of any of the big Eli squad since the season opened, and his showing against the big leaguers will be watched with interest.

Yale will take all its medicine as far as professional matches are concerned within the next two weeks. Manager Cortelyou is trying to arrange games with New Haven, champion of the Connecticut league, who will report next week. Yale would like to meet New Haven at Yale field in several practice games before the league season opens on April 23. It is certain that at least two or three games will be played. Yale has not played the New Haven nine for several years.

Hunter and Harpham Return.

Hunter and Harpham, the cripples of the Yale squad, have rejoined the team. Hunter is regarded as the first backstop, and will alternate with Burdett behind the bat till he recovers fully from the injury which he sustained on the Easter trip. Harpham has been given second base on the second team. Cornish, who was brought from the outfield to second when Shear failed to bat consistently, has made good, and the race for the position will lie between him and Harpham, with the chances favoring Cornish.

Shear has gone back to third base on the second team. Coach Quinby is having trouble with the outfield. Middlebrook's work in center is not up to varsity standard, although his brilliant baserunning is a feature of the team's work. Pumpelly has failed to hit safely since the Easter trip, and McGhie's fielding is not steady.

Falsey Slated for Outfield.

Schofield is being tried in the outfield. Falsey, the freshman fielder of last season, is expected to be eligible again in a few days, and he probably will resume a position in the garden.

STANFORD NINE TO TOUR JAPAN

California Champions Will Leave San Francisco on May 10—Announcement of Trip a Surprise.

Palo Alto Cal., April 6.—[Special.]—The tour of Japan by the Stanford baseball team this summer will be the first oriental invasion ever made by a college team west of the Mississippi. The team is to sail from San Francisco May 10 and on the return trip will stop at Honolulu for a series with the Chinese university nine, which team Stanford defeated here last week.

The announcement of the trip last night was a surprise. Plans were completed yesterday when Manager Burbank received a cable from Japan to the effect that Stanford would be welcome.

Fred Conklin, Chicago Cueist, Gets Gold Watch for Finishing in Second Place.

BY KEENE GARDINER.

In winning the national 18-2 amateur billiard championship at Philadelphia last week Joseph Mayer set a new grand average of 14 132-162. The best previous mark was 14 41-111, made by H. A. Wright of San Francisco in 1909, when he won the title in New York. Mayer's run of 130 also is a record since the style of the tournament was changed from 14-2 to 18-2 in 1909.

In addition to getting a leg on the championship trophy Mayer won a grandfather's clock. Fred Conklin of Chicago, who finished second, won a gold watch, and E. W. Gardner won a humidor for third prize.

Mayer received a traveling bag for his run and a liquor set for high single average. His high single average was 22 4-18, which is a record for regular tournament games, although H. A. Wright notched 26 10-15 when he met Clarence Jackson of Chicago in 1909 in their play-off for high single average, for which they were tied.

The new champion formerly lived at Philadelphia, but is located at Brooklyn. His first try for the title was made in 1909, when he finished third. The following year he was fifth and in 1911 he tied Gardner for third place. Last year he took fourth place with Conklin.

The recent tournament was the best in the history of amateur billiards. The Union League of Philadelphia has a seating capacity of 500, and all of the games attracted big crowds.

CUBS AGAIN DOWN HOOSIER NINE, 7-3

ARCHER REPLACES SAIER

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Besides piloting the Cubs to a 7 to 3 victory over the homeless Hoosiers at the west side ball yard yesterday in the second game of the series which was rescued from the Indiana floods, Manager Evers incidentally worked out a few plans for trimming the St. Louis Cardinals in the opening game of the big doings next Thursday.

Larry Cheney, who has been nominated and elected unanimously to pitch the first game, was given his final workout in preparation for the event. Cheney responded by pitching a game which was airtight until the Cubs had it cinched. For six innings the Hoosiers did not get a hit off Larry, and the only swat that looked like a safe one gave Schulte a chance to make a one handed grab off the right field screen.

In the seventh inning the hitless outlook was blurred by an indisputable single, for which the perpetrator paid by being nipped off first base an instant later by Cheney. The runless prospect was wrecked by a pair of Hoosier hits, followed by a sacrifice fly, in the eighth, and after that nobody cared a whole lot if "Red" Corriden did blow a cinch double play which would have ended the game without the two Indianapolis runs in the ninth.

Archer Works Out at First.

Besides grooming Larry Cheney, Evers gave Jimmy Archer a bit of practice on first base in case it should be found advisable to substitute him for Vic Saier against a southpaw hurler on opening day. Archer was in the game the last two innings—long enough to show that his batting lamp is not as acutely trimmed as if he had enjoyed a few weeks more of training, and also long enough to acquire one putout by his familiar fly trap method.

Manager Kelley assigned Schardt, a former Brooklynite, to oppose the Cubs at the start, and Manager Evers worked a whole outfield full of left handed batsmen against him. Mike Mitchell was given a day's rest to let Ward Miller take a workout in left. Later Otis Clymer was excused from center, and Good was let into the left garden, while Miller moved over to the middle station.

After six innings, during which the Trojans accumulated two runs by their own efforts and three by the miscues of the visitors, Schardt was relieved from slab duty and Willie Harrington, one of the southpaws, tried out and discarded by the Cubs last spring, was put on instead. Harrington acquired much glory in sections of the Sunday gathering by whiffing three Cubs in two innings. His victims were no less distinguished personages than J. Archer, prince of bold-outs; J. Evers, king of keystoners, and F. Schulte, licensed chauffeur. But despite these strikeout feats Harrington was jarred for two runs, one in each of the two rounds he pitched.

Cubs Gather Eight Hits.

The Cubs made only eight hits altogether, and half of these were from the bludgeons of Heine Zimmerman, Harvard, '08, and Johnny Evers, Troy H. S., '01. Evers grabbed a single and a triple off Schardt. Zimmerman pestled a three bagger the first time up, and whipsawed Harrington for a double the last time he got a swipe at the pill. Larry Cheney kept pace with these two batsmen by rapping out a single and double, the latter of which counted the final Cub tally.

A pass to Ward Miller and a three base swat over Niles' head by Zimmy put the Cubs in front by one run in the first round. Evers, first up in the second, cracked out a single, watched Corriden fly out, then scurried all the rest of the way home on Bresnahan's solid shot into the right field corner.

Roger himself was trapped between second and third, and there were all the elements of a melodramatic Black Hand plot in the trap, because Jimmy Archer was coaching on third base when it happened. But Jimmy was absolved from all blame, even by the victim. Bresnahan started to stretch his hit into a three bagger, but was shooed back by Archer after rounding second. Jerry Downs was in the act of relaying the ball to third to get Roger when he noted Archer doing the flag act, so held the ball, and Roger's retreat was cut off.

Trojans Run Wild in Third.

The third inning saw the Cubs score three runs on one safe hit. In the making they were helped by three Hoosier errors, but they helped themselves considerably by stealing five bases in that weird session. Crandall started it by booting Clymer's bounder. Schulte popped a fly which came down near the pitcher's slab. The visitors let Catcher Vann go after it, but he muffed it squarely. Having done that, the catcher demonstrated that one "n" did not belong on the end of his name and that it might be preceded by "moving." Instead of retrieving the ball in time to force Clymer out at second the kid catcher went wool gathering until both men were safe.

To repair that damage Vann tried to catch Clymer napping off second, but Otis broke for third. He was called safe by Umpire Cusack, although some of the frigid bugs doubted it audibly. Schulte at the same time stole second. Miller struck out and Clymer was nipped at the pan trying to count on Zimmy's rap to Crandall. In a minute Schulte and Heine Zimm pulled a double steal, which let the former score. Thus emboldened, Zimmy stole third, and kept right on to the plate, because the peg got away from Krug. Saier walked, and Evers drove him in with a three base smash to right.

Schardt held the Cubs down after that until relieved in the seventh. Harrington started by passing Schulte, who was sacrificed ahead by Miller, and was sent across the pan by Zimmerman's double to left. In the eighth Harrington passed Corriden, who was forced at second by Heckinger. Cheney responded with a double, driving Heck to third, and he counted on Good's fly.

Visitors Tally in Eighth.

The Hoosiers did not get a man to first base in four innings, but at the start of the fifth Zimmerman muffed a "high sky" fly for Downs. Jerry got as far as third before the side was retired. In the seventh Ingerton made the first Hoosier hit, but was caught napping off first. The eighth brought the first visiting tally. McCarthy singled and went to third on Crandall's safety, scoring on Vann's fly to Miller.

In the last round with one out Woodruff was passed and Ingerton bounced a single off Corriden's shins. Downs hit sharply to Corriden, who tried to make the double play himself, but, after touching second, fired the ball over Archer's head. Woodruff scored and Downs went to second, from where he counted the final tally on Krug's double over Good's head. Score:

CARDS SWAMP BROWNS, 13-6

Nationals Rout Hamilton with Seven Runs in First.

ERRORS BY LOSERS COSTLY.

Stovall's Men Lead in St. Louis City Series, Three Games to Two.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—[Special.]—The Cardinals ran away with the fifth game of the city series with the Browns, winning by the topheavy score of 13 to 6.

In the first inning the National leaguers put seven runs across the plate and discouraged Earl Hamilton, regarded as the star pitcher of the Browns. Two more runs in the second and three in the third removed the slightest doubt as to the outcome of the struggle.

The Browns scored their first run in the opening inning, and later added five more, but were unable to overcome the big lead piled up by the Cardinals. The Cards did not outbat their rivals by a very wide margin, but the errors of the Browns proved costly. The series stands 3 to 2, in favor of the Browns. Score:

Opportune Swatting in Last Four Innings Results in Defeat of Louisville Association Team.

Louisville, Ky., April 6.—Timely hitting enabled the Detroit American league club to defeat the Colonels and break even on the two game series by a score of 10 to 4. The locals had the advantage until the sixth inning, when the visitors succeeded in scoring four runs, followed by two more in the seventh and three in the ninth. The hitting of High, Gainor, and Deal for the visitors and the bunting and running of Nicholson for the locals were features. Score:

CUB SYDELIGHTS.

Same teams once more today.

Archer's first appearance of the season was made the occasion of a generous outburst of appluase, indicative of the fact the fans were glad to see him and also glad he got some of the coin he held out for.

Evers performed a quick double play on Schardt's slow roller in the sixth inning, grabbing the ball out of the line in time to tag Vann as he was moving from first to second, and having time left to retire the batsman at first.

Kirke Hollingsworth, who is here attending to the physical ills of the Hoosiers, is a candidate for the position of Cub trainer and may get the job away from the mysterious Mr. Harold Casey. Manager Evers will let Hollingsworth try himself out on the Cubs for a few days before deciding.

President Sol Meyer of the Indianapolis club was among those present. He reported having put 100 men to work removing sixteen inches of mire from the Hoosier park. The Indianapolis team does not have to open the season at home on Thursday, but it is believed the park will be ready when needed.

Krug pounded a long tall fly to the right of center in the second inning. It apparently was headed for the top of the bleacher screen, but Schulte sauntering back nonchalantly, stuck up his mitted fist and speared the ball just before it was too late. Krug was on the way to second by that time and looked up in surprise.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, was born in Truxton, N. Y., April 7, 1873. He played his first professional engagement with the Olean, N. Y., team in 1890. After two seasons in the minor leagues he entered the National league as a member of the Baltimore team in 1892, and remained with that team until the end of the season of 1899. In 1900 he played with the St. Louis Cardinals. The following year the American league placed a team in Baltimore, with McGraw as manager. John remained in Baltimore until he signed as manager of the Giants in 1902. On July 19, 1913, he will celebrate his eleventh year as pilot of the National league champions. During his career as a player McGraw was a crack third baseman, and since taking up the managerial end of the game he has developed a number of the greatest stars in the national obsession.

SOX II. BAG CONTEST IN NINTH

MOGRIDGE SWATTED HARD.

Des Moines, Ia., April 6.—[Special.]—The White Sox Seconds evened matters this afternoon by beating the local Western leaguers in the ninth inning, 6 to 4.

Isbell's men played an uphill game, and a batting rally in the eighth inning enabled them to tie the score. They played better baseball on the defense, and clouted Mogridge's offerings hard enough in the attack to win an ordinary game.

The Sox, however, hammered the ball with a vengeance, especially in the latter part of the game, touching Lakaff for six blows in the last four frames for a total of ten bases.

The brightest spot from a local standpoint was the slab work of Ryan, the young Chicago semi-pro southpaw, who pitched the first five innings for the Boosters. The youngster was as cool as a veteran against the major leaguers. Score:

ST. JOSEPH SWATS CURVES OF WALSH

SIX HITS IN ONE ROUND.

Single by Weaver, Error, and Sacrifice Fly Count Only Tally for Visitors.

BY SAM WELLER.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 6.—[Special.]—Much baseball glory was attained today for St. Joseph. With Big Ed. Walsh pitching for the White Sox regulars, the Western leaguers won a great and exciting combat by a score of 4 to 1.

There was no fluke about it, either, for after six innings of struggling with the score tied, the minor leaguers began a bombardment of the Big Moose and did not stop until six base hits had been made and three men driven home.

Nearly 5,000 fans were present and they roared with delight at the plight of the great American league hurler as he strove vainly to stave off defeat in that seventh round. Big Ed seemed to yield to the situation after the winning run had been sent home and simply laid the ball over for the batters who followed, taking a chance they wouldn't hit it. So three more slamming hits were made before the third man was retired. The game was lost and Walsh wasted no time in hurrying to the dressing room, leaving Lange to finish the slabbing.

Last Workout for Walsh.

This was to have been a final workout for Comiskey's star hurler before sending him to the slab for the opening game at Cleveland on Thursday. He intended to work the nine innings, but after his experience in the seventh he felt he had done enough for one day.

The result of the final priming will not cause Manager Callahan to change his plans and send any of the other pitchers to the mound for the first championship game. Walsh will be the man to open unless his right arm drops off before Thursday.

Walsh seemed to be going his best until one run had been scored in that seventh, and his best wasn't up to his standard. The big hurler hasn't worked a full game all spring in spite of the many opportunities, as the Sox have played more exhibitions than ever before.

Error Figures in First Run.

Several times Walsh has gone three, four, or five rounds, and he went that many today in unbeatable fashion. In five innings the Drummers were able to get one base hit off him and wouldn't have scored at all without the aid of an error which helped them to one count in the fourth. Perhaps it wasn't any fault of his arm that the bombardment came. It might have been only an unlucky break.

It was a scratch hit that put him in the hole in that round after one man was out and no one expected that scratch hit would lead to danger. Another hit followed it and it was no scratch. A regular line drive to right field followed and then one went stringing right over second base. By that time the game was gone and the big hurler, with apparent disgust, seemed to quit trying, with the result that two more clean slams were registered in rapid succession.

If the old "spitter" had been going right, it would have been a miracle for so many line hits to have been made in succession, so there is reason to believe there was nothing on the ball. After two had counted in that round and the bases were still filled, with two men out, Walsh seemed to try another spitter and the result was a wild pitch, which let the third man score.

Fielding Cuts Off Sox Run.

Callahan undoubtedly would have been greatly pleased to see Big Ed go through nine full rounds at top speed in his final game before the big show. While Walsh must suffer with the little chagrin there is in being whipped, the whole thing might have been reversed if the St. Joseph players hadn't done some remarkable fielding that pulled them out of no less than five bad holes.

Under ordinary conditions, such openings would have yielded six or seven runs to the White Sox, but at every turn, with the exception of a part of the third inning, their attack was thwarted by something unexpected on both sides. Once it was a questionable decision. Twice it was because of lack of care on the bases by the Sox, for twice they had runners picked off the bags, and in each instance something followed that would have permitted those runners to score. The Sox got about as bad breaks as they can hope to get in any game all summer.

A lot of credit must be given to Pitcher Crutcher, the young St. Joseph hurler. He gave an exhibition that hints of a big league career, for besides having the customary speed of the minor league star, he showed ability in every way on the slab, especially in holding the base runners close to the bags.

Visitors Get Seven Hits.

The Sox got seven scattering hits off him, but when they needed hits the most the young hurler would turn something unexpectedly, such as picking a runner off second or first. The only run the Sox scored might have been prevented. It came quickly in the third inning, when Weaver led off with a single to right. Reinhart let the ball go through him and Weaver stopped at third. He scored on Schalk's sacrifice fly, but had it not been for that outfielder's mistake he would never have scored at all.

Weaver booted one at the start of the fourth and a couple of infield outs and a scratch hit which followed gave the Drummers the tying run. The struggle then continued until the seventh, when with one out six fellows singled in succession, and if one hadn't been nailed going from first to third on a hit there would have been four tallies instead of three. SAM WELLERISMS.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 6.—[Special.]—Two more practice contests will be played here and the result of today's battle may serve to bring in some expense money at the gate.

Mrs. James Callahan became one of us this morning, coming here to welcome "friend husband."

Tommy Reed, the popular auctioneer and Sox rooter of Chicago, was the only one heard to root for the Sox. He's down here selling a couple of carloads of precious jewels.

Morris Rath was hit by a pitched ball in the third inning and retired in favor of Berger. He wasn't injured a bit. Berger intended to play the last half of the game anyway.

Schaller was put in right field just so Callahan could have a look at him and so Collins could have a day off. The ex-Detroiter made a good showing. He got no base hits, but he did draw two bases on balls. His only mistake was in being one of the victims to be picked off the bases.

Manager Callahan announced tonight he will change the batting order tomorrow and thinks the new one will be the same used in the opening game on Thursday. Rath and Lord will keep their places at the top, but Collins will be placed third, with Borton fourth, and Mattick fifth. Jones and Weaver will remain in their present places.

STAHL EXPECTS TEAM TO REPEAT

Red Sox Stop in Chicago on Way to Boston for Opening Game of Season.

PLAYERS IN POOR SHAPE.

BY HANDY ANDY.

Jake Stahl, manager of the world's champion Red Sox baseball team, brought his aggregation to Chicago yesterday from Urbana and will depart for Boston this morning. Despite an unsatisfactory training trip, Manager Stahl said his men were as fit as could be expected under the conditions. Manager Jake opined his team has an even chance to duplicate its performance of last year.

Stahl had thought his men would get a good workout at Urbana, the home of the University of Illinois, where Jake started his baseball career, but the weather was cold and it rained several times, which forced the athletes to do their training in the armory.

Pitchers Not in Shape.

"I think our team is every bit as good as last year," said Stahl. "The pitchers have not had the weather to put them in the best of condition, and I have not allowed them to do too much work. Some of the players are bothered with sore arms, owing to the cold, but as soon as we strike warmer weather this soreness will work out.

"My pitchers are not bothered, because I did not allow them to extend themselves on any occasion. It was overeagerness on the part of some players to test their arms that led to so many sore 'wings.' Of course it is early to make predictions, but I believe we have an even chance of repeating our performance of a year ago. I cannot see where any of the other teams in the American league have been strengthened, with the possible exception of New York. The Highlanders, under the management of Frank Chance, whom I consider to be one of the greatest managers the game ever has known, must not be overlooked.

Says Red Sox Should Repeat.

"If my pitchers are right, the Red Sox should repeat. I believe I have the best staff of pitchers in the league, and the problem now is to get them in shape for the campaign. Naturally I would rather lose games at the start than force a pitcher to his limit, with the possibility of disabling him for the season.

"The White Sox, Highlanders, and Athletics are the teams which I figure we must beat. Clark Griffith's Senators may make a bid for the pennant, but I do not fear them as much as the others. It is going to be a great year for the American league, and I think the fight for first place will be as close and interesting as it was last season."

WOMAN FELLED BY BASEBALL.

Mrs. Lottie Johnson Rendered Unconscious in First Accident Reported to Police This Year.

The first baseball accident of the season was reported to the police of the Chicago avenue station yesterday.

Mrs. Lottie Johnson, 40 years old, 215 West Oak street, was the victim. She was struck behind the left ear by a ball thrown by Henry Orline, 13 years old, who escaped.

Mrs. Johnson was walking in East Chicago avenue, at Rush street, when she was hit by the ball. She was rendered unconscious and was taken to her home, where she was revived by a physician.

BEER SIZES CUT; ITINERANTS SAD

WOULD BETTER DISTRICT

Schooners and Squirrel Whisky Should Be Abolished, Asserts Dealer.

The price of beer on West Madison street is going up. This announcement was made yesterday by Louis Jacobsen, proprietor of a saloon on Madison west of Clinton street.

The high cost of living had nothing to do with his cutting down the size of his beer glasses and raising the price of whisky. He explained it was the initial step in improving Madison street.

Complaints that cheap beer and whisky caused property values to decrease have been made. A movement, as a result, has been started to abolish the cheap drinks. When Jacobsen signed a new lease for his saloon at 511 West Madison street he agreed in writing to sell only "short beers" and "15 cent whisky."

Old Customers Surprised.

This unique idea stunned his old customers and they flocked to the saloon from all directions. During the day the bartenders grew hoarse shouting, "No more scuttles, boys; you'll have to take slicks," and "Nothin' doin' with the dime coffin paint, we don't sell nothing but good 15 cent booze." It was no April fool joke either.

None would believe a saloon in the "schooner" neighborhood would take such a risk until he had verified the fact. Old customers who were willing to take a chance lined up against the bar and bravely called for a drink. When the small glass was set in front of them they regarded it with a puzzled look. They noted the size of the "collar" and handled the glass as if it would break.

Glass Like Old Handle.

The glass was not much larger than the handle of the "schooner" which they had held over that same bar for many years. It required only a sip to empty the glass and the unsatisfied look of the old customers almost moved the bartenders to tears.

When the "regulars" realized that an old custom had been abolished, deep, damp gloom settled over the neighborhood. Now it will be necessary to use the proceeds of an entire day's "mooching" to get one little drink, and an indignant protest against the exorbitant price has been made. Jacobson, however, stands firm.

VOLIVA PLANS DOUBLE FIGHT TO RENEW WAR ON TOBACCO.

Repulses by City Marshal's Force Leads Zion Leader to Courts and Reorganization of "Troops."

The impression that three days of successive repulses by the Zion City marshal had quenched the combative tendencies of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Zionite forces, was dispelled by that dignitary yesterday. He announced he would take his troubles to court, and also would invade Chicago to warn tobacco users and others away from the "white dove city." He made his remarks to his followers in Shiloh tabernacle.

"I'll make ...on City hotter than hell for any one who uses tobacco," he said.

Voliva's application for an injunction to restrain City Marshal John L. Hoover from interfering with the anti-tobacco parades is to be argued this morning before Judge Donnelly at Woodstock.

Some index to Voliva's plans may be indicated by his reorganization of the "Zion restoration host," which disbanded at the death of "Elijah" Dowie, his predecessor. The 400 members of the troop are pledged to go wherever they are ordered to go by Voliva, and their vow acknowledges Dowie as "Elijah, the Restorer."

ENGINEER OF FAST TRAIN FRIGHTENED BY AUTO RIDE.

"Never Again," Declares "Pioneer Mike" of the St. Paul After 35 Mile an Hour Trip in City.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6.—[Special.]—Michael Collins, the driver of the fastest train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad system, has taken his first and last ride in an automobile on a crowded street.

"Never again," he solemnly swore, raising his right hand. "I have driven a locomotive ninety miles an hour, and have never had an accident, but a locomotive is safety itself compared to these buzz wagons."

"Pioneer Mike," as he is known, took his trip with his son, who is an automobile salesman, at a time when there were many machines on the boulevard. He says a locomotive does not have to be guided, and says that the thirty-five mile an hour rate he rode in the automobile is far more dangerous than a ninety mile rate in a railroad train.

PROF. TAFT'S WORK ANNOUNCED

New Haven, Conn., April 6.—[Special.]—H. W. Rogers, dean of the Yale law school, announced tonight the nature of Prof. Taft's work in the law school and in Yale college.

"It is understood Prof. Taft will lecture on constitutional law in the law school and in the college," said Dean Rogers. "He is Kent professor of law in the college, and in the law school he is professor of constitutional law.

"His course on constitutional law in the law school is a two year course and runs throughout the year. The book to be used is Thayer's Cases. In the college the subject will, no doubt, be taught from an academic point of view, and in the law school will be taught from a professional point of view."

Prof. Taft will begin his lectures in about two weeks.

JEWS MAY REVISE BIBLE.

Jacob H. Schiff Contributes Fund of $50,000 Toward Cost of Publishing Sacred Writ.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 6.—Announcement that Jacob H. Schiff of New York had offered $50,000 to aid in completing and publishing a revised translation of the Bible by the Jewish Publication Society of America was made tonight at a banquet which concluded the celebration of the society's twenty-fifth anniversary. The gift was made on certain personal conditions, not involving the raising of an additional fund.

CHICAGO MEN PLAN SUBURB.

Group Headed by William S. Mason to Build Residential Park in Southern California.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 6.—[Special.]—Wealthy Chicago men, headed by William S. Mason, heir of "Silent" Smith, have bought sixty-five acres near here, and will build a magnificent private residential park. Boulevards and gardens of all kinds of tropical plants and trees will make the tract one of the show places of the state. Mr. Mason will build a permanent home on the tract to cost $150,000.

GRAIN MEN TO SIFT CHARGES OF HILL

Aroused by Hint That "Slush Fund" Was Used to Pass "Privileges" Bill.

SENATOR CLARK WROTH.

Says Board of Trade "Watchdog" Has Insulted General Assembly.

John Hill Jr., "watchdog of the board of trade," will receive an opportunity to make good his accusations that a "slush fund" was used to obtain the passage of the Clark "puts and calls" bill, and if he fails to do so the board will be asked to expel him. This course was decided upon yesterday at a meeting of a number of members who have favored the bill which Hill attacked in an open letter to members of the general assembly.

Although the directors have taken no official action regarding the bill to legalize "privileges," it is said that a large majority of the members supported the new statute which was introduced at Springfield by Senator Albert Clark.

Hill Invites Investigation.

In his letter attacking the bill Mr. Hill said that "if rumors regarding a 'fund' are not idle, then a legislative and a board of trade investigation should be made." It was this charge that aroused Senator Clark as well as members of the board.

Mr. Clark yesterday repeated his denunciation of Hill and announced that he would demand and would welcome an investigation of the measure and the methods used to obtain its passage in the senate.

"I know, as nearly every one does, that charges made by Hill are usually groundless and are made merely for his own advancement and publicity," said Mr. Clark, "but he has charged in a roundabout way that money was used for the bill.

Falsehood, Says Clark.

"That is a lie and Hill knows it. I don't believe in giving this man the notoriety he seeks above everything, but if any member of the house thinks his charge worth while, I will do all in my power to aid any investigation.

"And if Hill's charges are not upheld, then the board of trade, of which he is a member, should take some action to discipline him, as he has made charges against its members as well as against members of the general assembly."

Mr. Hill yesterday refused to add to his letter, but said that should an investigation be made, either by the legislators or the board, he would be anxious to be called.

TRAGEDY NEAR MOKENA.

"Bathhouse" Bursts Into Poetry Over the Little Corpse.

Twelve American bittern were flying toward heaven;
An Italian "pinked" one, then there were eleven.
—BATHHOUSE JOHN.

Ald. John J. Coughlin, poet laureate of the city council, was at the South Clark street police station last night when Deputy State Game Warden Berkholz of Washington Heights entered with an Italian he had arrested for shooting a bittern near Mokena, Ill.

"The killing of this bird," said Berkholz, holding up the dead bittern, "leaves only eleven of its species in the state of Illinois. There were twelve, according to the best information obtainable, but with this one gone there are only eleven American bittern alive in the state."

Ald. Coughlin, who has always taken a deep interest in ornithology, looked at the bird and asked the game warden if it were "gone beyond recall."

Dashes Off "Eulogium."

While holding the dead bittern in one hand the alderman dashed off the "Eulogium," as he calls it, with the other.

Guiseppi Valentino, who is accused of shooting the bird, is unable to speak English. Through an interperter he said he went to Mokena to shoot ducks. The only bird he saw was the bittern. He did not know it was against the law to kill birds of this species.

He was returning to Chicago, and the conductor of the train on which he was riding telegraphed ahead to Bergholz at Washington Heights.

"There isn't a bird like this in Lincoln Park," said Bergholz. "They are almost extinct. I have read considerable about the bittern and I know what I'm talking about. The back is green, the belly white, the wings slate color, and there is a green head, blue bill, and long yellow legs.

Plumage Makes Bird Valuable.

"Three feathers, about six inches long, that look something like aigrettes, grow out of the head. It is this plumage that makes the bird valuable.

"In my opinion Valentino went down to Mokena purposely to shoot this bittern. Somebody tipped him off that the bird was there in the marshes. Probably some taxidermist sent him out. If this bird is mounted properly it is worth $100."

SAYS CONSCRIPTION WOULD BE DISASTROUS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

Novelist Wells in First of Three War Articles Contends It Would Not Aid Military Efficiency.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 6.—H. G. Wells, the novelist and writer on economic and other topics, contributes to the Daily Mail the first of three articles which he is to write on war.

He deals primarily with the question of conscription and contends that it would not increase Great Britain's military efficiency but would be disastrous.

He admits the necessity of Great Britain maintaining a maximum of military efficiency, but contends that to attempt to meet this with conscription would be like a boxer filling his arms with empty boxing gloves and then with his face protruding above them rush into the fray.

CHICAGOANS BUY NEVADA MINE.

Potter Palmer Estate Gets Controlling Share in Bluster Consolidated—Ore Said to Assay $100 a Ton.

Reno, Nev., April 6.—[Special.]—J. A. Jess, representing the Potter Palmer estate of Chicago, has just closed an important mining deal in Nevada. He purchased control in the Bluster Consolidated Gold Mining company, at Jarbidge, involving a payment of $200,000.

Plans for the construction of a mammoth mill for the treatment of the mine's ores are under way, and active development of the work will be continuous. Its free milling ore is said to assay $100 a ton.

Several months ago the Alpha mines were secured by the same estate for $50,000 cash.

FLOODS DEMORALIZE PRODUCE: SITUATION WORST IN YEARS.

Few Shipments Reach Market and They Are Damaged—Prices for Fresh Vegetables and Fruits Soar.

Not in years has the produce trade at Chicago been crippled as it was last week by floods in southern Illinois. Toward the close of the week scarcely any shipments of fresh vegetables and strawberries were received from the south, and most of those to arrive were in bad order because of long delays encountered in transit.

Prices of strawberries were doubled, while the cost of many varieties of green vegetables was more than tripled in many instances. String beans, for instance, closed at $7.00 a hamper, against $2.00 a week ago, while head lettuce advanced from 50@75c a hamper, to $2.00@2.25 for the same grade of goods.

High water and bad railroad transportation also affected the demand, and most of the big eastern shippers were compelled to curtail their operations. The falling off in orders was felt acutely in the market for live chickens, which declined 1@2c a pound because they did not receive the support needed to sustain them at the high level recently attained.

Butter market was depressed by a sharp break in prices in New York, and values here lost 1@1½c a pound. Egg receipts made the largest aggregate of the season, surpassing 100,000 cases for the week, for the first time in several months. Prices declined 1@1½c a dozen, but closed with a strong upward tendency.

Potato receipts showed a slight increase, coming from the west, where there was little to hamper the movement. The market held fairly steady most of the week, but eased off at the last and closed at a decline of 2c a bushel.

SEAMAN BATTLES WHOLE CREW.

British Sailor Knocks Down Officer and Six Men, Then Climbs to Masthead —Finally Overpowered.

New York, April 6.—After an exhilarating eighteen hours' shore leave, Otto Gubner, seaman on the British freighter Condo, returned to the ship this morning. He concluded his first duty was to arouse Chief Officer Devaney. Devaney ordered Gubner to his quarters. Gubner declined to obey and unceremoniously entered the cabin. He seized an enameled metal dish and hurled it at the officer's head.

Devaney, calling on the crew for help, sprang at Gubner. The seaman dropped his superior with a blow from a marlinspike. After ten minutes of fighting, during which he knocked down half a dozen of the crew, Gubner got near enough to spring into the shrouds, into which he climbed to the crow's nest. Straddling the crosstree, he gibed the crew.

Eventually two men got close enough to Gubner to beat him into submission.

WIFE AND CHILDREN MISSING.

Woman Quits with Four Little Ones When Husband Drinks, Then He Takes Pledge.

Search is being made by the police for Mrs. Mary Gillece of 6426 Stony Island avenue, who left home April 4 with her four children, the oldest 8 years old. It is believed she was afraid to appear in court against her husband. She had caused his arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. The man appeared at the Woodlawn station and, weeping, begged the police to find his wife and children. He said he had taken the pledge and would not drink again.

Fifteen Poker Players Arrested.

Fifteen men were arrested last night when found playing poker at 1496 Clybourn avenue. Fred Sir was booked as keeper.

...SK FIRMS MAY ...UIT IN MISSOURI

...astic Anti-Trust Law Like- ...ly to Cause Suspension of Fire Insurance.

...OINT RATES FORBIDDEN.

...mpanies Feel They Cannot Base Charges on General Experience in Business.

...he fire insurance companies may decide to ...pend operations in Missouri in view of the ...stic anti-trust law that will soon go into ...t in that state. A committee represent... ...the leading companies has held a meeting ...recommended that no business be trans... ...d in the state until the companies can ...d out whether they may safely and legally ...ume business. The various company ...agers and officials will hold a meeting in ...iladelphia this week, when the subject will ... discussed.

...he legislature reënacted the general anti... ...st law of the state and added an insurance ...tion prohibiting the companies forming a ...nt rate making bureau or using schedules ... rate cards in common. Many of the com... ...nies feel that the law goes so far as to ...actically prohibit them from doing busi... ...ss in the state unless each company makes ... own rates regardless of the general ex... ...rience of the business.

Old Law Forced Same Rates.

...wo years ago when the legislature met it ...ssed a law providing for state regulation ... rates and preventing companies from dis... ...minating among assured of the same class. ...is practically forced the companies to use ... same rates, and hence the Missouri ...tuarial bureau was established and the ...mpanies were put to some $200,000 expense ... rerating the entire state. When the com... ...nies filed these rates last fall the insurance ...partment refused to accept them as the ...al rates on the ground that the state au... ...rities were not convinced that the sched... ...s were accurate and just. The rate regu... ...on law, therefore, has never been really ...effect or given a trial. Now the legislature ...s to the opposite extreme and prohibits ... companies from using common rates and ...s the way for the worst sort of discrim... ...ation.

...he attorney general threatens to bring ...ter proceedings against the companies un... ...s rates are materially reduced in the state.

Losses in Missouri Heavy.

...he companies, on the other hand, point ... that Missouri has been one of the worst ...tes in the west so far as loss ratio is con... ...ned. Last year the loss ratio was 70.9 and ... year before 73.5 per cent. This year the ...mpanies declare there is no prospect of the ...es falling off in the state. A number of ...pany managers feel that it will be unwise ...continue business in Missouri in view of ... danger of exposing themselves and their ...nts to penalties for violation of the law. ...he anti-trust section applying to insur... ...is the most drastic yet passed in the ...t, and companies are pretty much at sea ...o whether they can safely write fire in... ...ance in Missouri. Stockholders of com... ...es have been criticising their managers ...continuing in a high loss ratio state like ...souri.

Other States Raise Objections.

...me of the insurance departments of ...er states have objected to companies ...tinuing to write fire insurance in cer... ... states where the loss ratios are contin... ...ly high without increasing rates. The ...loss ratio states feel that they are called ...n to pay the deficit in these high loss ratio ...es. This serves to keep up rates in the ... loss ratio states in order that the funds ...ompanies may be replenished. Yet in the ... of legislation as has been passed in Mis... ...ri, the companies are in a helpless situa... ... and there seems to be no other way than ...suspend operations. If this be done the ...lic in Missouri will not be able to get fire ...urance. This may lead to a call for a ...cial session of the legislature to modify ...law.

...cerns Investigate Flood Damage.

...ire insurance companies are now dispatch... ...inspectors to the flood districts to investi... ... injured property and ascertain its con... ...on. The property loss due to fire in the ...d regions has not been large. It probably ... not amount to over $1,500,000. Fire in... ...ance companies are more anxious regard... ... the after effects of the flood. Stocks are ...riorated and buildings are in a more ...ss damaged state.

...surance companies feel that considera... ... moral hazard will be created, and they ... therefore keeping in touch with the con... ...on of the property insured. Risks ...ipped with sprinkler equipments are now ...ssed, in many cases, to the common haz... ..., as the equipment has been disarranged ... would not operate in case of fire. All ... risks are written at a low low rate in ... of the protection through the automatic ...nkler system.

Companies Fear Future Fires.

...nother feature that the fire insurance ...panies fear is that the waterworks sys... ...and fire protection of a number of cities ... towns are in bad shape and probably ...not be gotten in normal condition for ...e time. The débris and rubbish will add ...the fire hazards and will also prevent fire ...partments working with ease. Water ...ins in many points are reported to be out ...rder, and the electric wiring has also been ...e or less impaired. In renovating and ...ing out buildings, stoves and heating sys... ...s will be started without being properly ...ed. The companies are taking all these ...ures into consideration and will readjust ... liability in these districts.

...view of the many wind storms that have ...k the western states within the last ... weeks companies writing tornado insur... ... say there has never been such a great ...al in that class of business as there is ...present. As a rule, property owners in ... cities have not felt the necessity of car... ... tornado insurance.

Omaha Loss Not Extensive.

...Omaha the insurance companies will ...bably lose not over $350,000, while the ...perty loss is put at $5,000,000. Insurance ...nts in all the areas where tornadoes have ... prevalent are working overtime writing ...storm policies. Even in more distant ...itory people have become frightened, ... to the devastation in Omaha and other ...ts, and are voluntarily applying for tor... ... indemnity. The windstorm losses will ...be so heavy in the aggregate as first an... ...pated. However, there are hundreds of ...all losses, and the expense of adjustment ... add to the aggregate loss.

...uring the tornado deluge of some days ... some of the companies were receiving ...claims a day. The farm mutual insurance ...panies writing cyclone insurance are ...y hit, and will have to levy heavy assess... ...ts on policyholders. Reports from vari... ... localities indicate that the amount of ...ado insurance to actual property loss is ...ll.

REICHSTAG FACING A FIGHT OVER ARMAMENT AND TAXATION.

Contest Over Government Measure to Be Introduced Today Likely to Continue Until Next Fall.

BERLIN, April 6.—With the submission to the reichstag tomorrow of the government's armament and taxation measures, a contest will begin which is almost certain to last until the summer vacation and possibly will not be ended before fall.

The imperior chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollwig, will explain the political situation, and the minister of war, Gen. von Heeringen, will elucidate the technical features of the measures.

The army increases will be accepted practically without alteration, but there is widespread disagreement over the financing of the proposals. The new army bill calls for the expenditure of about $250,000,000, and the financial measures include a non-recurrent tax of from $243,750,000 to $250,000,000 spread over two years, and a permanent yearly increase in taxation of from $45,000,000 to $47,500,000.

Herr Passermann, the National Liberal leader, in a speech recently made at Hanover, declared the National Liberals had accepted the armament increase, but the tax measures were unjust and would require thorough revision.

The measures will be subjected to an overhauling, which will probably result in important amendments.

Brick Fractures Man's Skull.

James Norton, generally known as "Slats," who lives at 3934 Fulton street, yesterday was arrested on the charge of attacking Louis Nesmond, 2645 Fulton street, with a brick. Nesmond's skull was fractured, and it is said he will die.

THE "MIXED METHOD" OF GARBAGE DISposal is the only rapid and sanitary process. It is the only complete system of disposal. It separates matter automatically, making "LE POUDRO," the best organic FERTILIZER in existence, out of garbage, street sweepings, etc., AND ELECTRICITY, from combustible refuse, and is more sanitary than incineration. Millions of French farmers protested against "The crime of incineration." [There is feeble protest here, even against "The crime of insanitation."] An organic fertilizer is the only true fertilizer. Plants in operation in Paris, Toulon, Malbousquet, Marseilles, Baussenc, Lyons and Boulogne-sur-Mer, France; Rome, Italy; Brussels, Molenbeek, and St. Jean, Belgium; Cairo and Alexandria, Egypt. Four new 500 ton plants now under construction in Paris and three contracted for in Mexico. I seek financial assistance to bid for a model Chicago plant and plants in many American cities. Grease extraction is less important but can also be effected. Conservation of organic wastes is the most important national problem of today. It will bring down the cost of agriculture and the cost of living. "ROLE AND EMPLOYMENT OF ORGANIC FERTILIZER," a translated pamphlet of testimonials from French agricultural scientists, describes it. Price 25 cts. E. B. STUART, Gen. U. S. Agent, "Societe Internationale des Engrais Organiques, S. A." of Paris, France.
